

SEWAGE AT THE TRAINING SCHOOL

Question of Disposal May go to Legislature---Lowell Capable of Taking Care of it.

The question of sewage disposal at the Middlesex County Training School at North Chelmsford will in all probability go to the legislature. Some time ago the county commissioners took up the question of the disposal of sewage at that institution and two schemes were suggested. The plan that most appealed to the commissioners provided for direct connection with the Lowell sewer at a point near the plant of the Patterson Rubber Co.

It was estimated that a connection with the Lowell sewer would cost about $6000 and there was some doubt in the minds of the commissioners and others as to whether the Lowell sewer could take care of the extra volume of sewage from the training school. The commissioners employed Metcalf & Eddy, consulting engineers, to ascertain the daily discharge of sewage and to report.

These figures have been turned over to the city engineer and he will report to the county commissioners that the Lowell sewer is capable of taking care of the sewage from the county training school. The commissioners will go before the legislature for a permit to build the connecting sewer.

SUES LOWELL SOCIETY

Case of Regan vs. Pilgrim Fathers Opened in Jury Waived Session of Superior Court

The case of James Regan and Peter Regan, otherwise known as Peter R. Regan vs. United Order of Pilgrim Fathers, a fraternal organization, and William Regan was opened in the jury-waived session of superior court this morning.

The plaintiffs are the sons of the late Elizabeth Davis of Lowell. William Regan is also the son of Elizabeth Davis, deceased, and the United Order of Pilgrim Fathers is a fraternal benefit association, having a branch in Lowell.

It is claimed that the late Elizabeth Davis was a member of said association and was insured to the amount of $2000.

The plaintiffs say that they, together with William Regan, were named as beneficiaries and entered into a contract with their late mother, Elizabeth Davis, whereby said plaintiffs and William Regan agreed to contribute equally to the support and expenses of said Elizabeth Davis and the three brothers were to share equally the amount due on the certificate of insurance issued to the late Elizabeth Davis.

The plaintiffs believe that the said Elizabeth Davis, deceased, did in a manner not authorized in the constitution and by-laws of said association substitute the name of William Regan in the place of the plaintiffs as beneficiaries.

HEAD ON CRASH

Motor Cycle and Auto Met in Head on Collision on Rogers St.

Napoleon Richards of Manchester, N. H., narrowly escaped being seriously injured last night when the motorcycle which he was driving collided with an automobile owned and driven by Alfred H. Richardson of Glenwood street. The young man was thrown from his cycle and sustained injuries about the body that required medical attendance.

It is said that Richards was riding along Rogers street toward Merrimack square and as he approached the corner of Wentworth avenue the automobile driven by Mr. Richardson turned from Wentworth avenue into Rogers street and both the auto and cycle collided head on, throwing the cyclist to the street and damaging his machine.

The young man was rushed to the home of Mr. John G. Stedman and Dr. Boyden Pillsbury summoned. It was found that he had sustained several marks about the body and after these were dressed he boarded a car for Manchester. With the exception of a few lacerations, the auto was not seriously damaged.

STRIKERS WIN IN LAWRENCE

Am. Woolen Co. and U.S. Worsted Co. Grant Concessions and Firemen Return to Work

LAWRENCE, Nov. 28.—An agreement has been reached between the American Woolen Co. and its striking stationary firemen and this morning many of the strikers returned to work.

The strike has not yet been settled in any of the other mills which are still in operation and complying with the law to licensed firemen, according to the mill officials. Neither mill officials nor firemen would divulge the terms of the settlement at the American Woolen Co. mill, it being announced that both sides had agreed not to give out any information on that point. It was stated, however, that the agreement reached was satisfactory to both sides.

Mayor Scanlon, who took steps on Wednesday to bring the contending parties to an agreement, continued his efforts along that line this morning in regard to the mills in which the strike was still on.

After a long conference with representatives of the strikers he announced that there was nothing to give out at present but that he was hopeful that there would be developments later in the day.

No discrimination was shown at the American Woolen Co. mill in regard to taking back the strikers, all who applied being given their old positions, officials of the mill stated.

Lowell Man Makes Inspection

Edward Mours of Lowell, state boiler inspector, said today that he had made a thorough inspection of all the mills of Lawrence and that none of them is violating the law in regard to licensed firemen at present.

The Central Labor union offered today to call a sympathetic strike here if requested by the firemen.

A settlement was announced by noon at the United States Worsted Co., the terms being a ten hour workday without reduction in wages. It is believed that these were the terms of the agreement with the American Woolen Co.

Woman Who Eloped With Hartford Man in Court Here Today

Expected That 100 Will Come to Lowell; Holy Regiment Wiped Out

Broke Down When Name Was Called—Peddler Fined

Over 2600 Greeks are reported as having landed in New York yesterday and it is believed over 100 of them will come direct to Lowell. These many immigrants arrived on two steamships, the "Patric" and the "Juanina," and it was reported many more are awaiting other steamships to take them across to the United States.

The "Patric" and "Juanina," although they did not leave Greece at the same time, arrived in New York together yesterday, this being due to the fact that one of the ships was disabled enroute and had to stop at Bermuda for repairs. Among the passengers on the "Patric" was a woman who had eloped with a Hartford man and who is in court here today.

Frank T. Gruenthan and Jennie Whisley, the pair who eloped to Lowell under the names of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Brown, appeared in police court this morning charged with a statutory offense.

The man pleaded guilty in a loud and arrogant voice but the woman commenced to weep as soon as her name was called. "I want to go home to my husband and two babies," she wailed, while her consort sneered with contempt.

Chief Welch asked for a continuance on the case until tomorrow. He has written the woman's husband and it is expected that the latter will appear.

TORY LEADERS

Arrive in Dublin and Say Asquith Obeys Redmond

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—The unionist party today carried the war into the enemy's territory when Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Irish unionists, and other prominent men arrived to deliver in the Irish capital a series of speeches on Home Rule.

On reply to the deputation which welcomed him, Mr. Bonar Law reiterated that the unionists had opposed consistently and completely the whole idea of the separation of the United Kingdom and insisted that the government must seek the sanction of the people before attempting to make the change.

During a speech in the afternoon before the Unionist Association, Mr. Bonar Law said Premier Asquith's speech of the preceding day seemed to him a complete acceptance of the orders of John Redmond, leader of the Irish nationalists, for "full steam ahead" and if that were so the difficulties of the unionist party were gone.

Mr. Bonar Law said he was driving toward the residence of Lord Iveagh. They bombarded him with pamphlets. Mrs. Sheepy Skeffington and Mrs. Conner, the leaders of the suffragettes of Dublin, were arrested and charged with obstructing the police.

CHELMSFORD ST. HOSPITAL

Harvest With Exception of Potato Crop Was Abundant—New Barn Almost Completed

There has been quite a large increase in the number of the inmates at the Chelmsford Street hospital, according to figures given the writer by the authorities there on a recent visit to the institution. Mr. Dowd, who is in charge, pointed out the fact that affairs at the hospital are in a most satisfactory condition.

At the present time, the inmates number 413, which is unusually large, it seems. From the books, it was shown that one year ago this time, there were 391 persons in the care of the Chelmsford Street hospital. The fall, and approaching cold weather of the winter season generally brings an increase in the number of those who take advantage of the shelter and care afforded by the place, while usually, in the spring and summer, the inmates are fewer. Such a condition would be expected at an institution like the city hospital, where the poor of the city are provided for, and given medical attention.

With its large buildings, and its spacious farm, the Chelmsford Street hospital is ideally situated to best fulfill the end for which it was established. A large portion of the land is cultivated, and practically the whole of the work is done by the men inmates. This year's harvest was a most abundant one except in the potato crop which was a disappointment to those in charge. A large territory was used for the planting of potatoes and from the growth it appeared that there would be a very large crop. As it was, however, owing to some species of blight, the crop was a disappointment; those which were in good condition were for the most part so small as to be of little value. This will make it necessary to buy a larger quantity than would otherwise have been necessary. There was an abundance of cabbage and turnips, and other products, and the place was well supplied during the summer. The crop of hay was also heavy.

How the Inmates are Employed

Of the 413 inmates, the majority are able to work about the place, even if only for an hour or two each day, and in this respect the work is carried on in a well regulated and thorough manner. Of the total, 219 are females while 194 are males. Six of these are children, four girls and two boys. The distribution of the workers in a report made on September 26, and it is practically the same at the present time, was as follows: Men—in hospital, 3; boiler house, 2; storeroom, 3; laundry, 9; chairs, etc., about the buildings, 19; men's dining room, 8; about the farm, stock buildings, etc., 16; kitchen, 3; shoe shop, 1; painting, etc., 5. This number is practically distributed in the same proportion, the difference lying in the fact that there are more inmates and consequently more work, and several more are employed in most of the departments mentioned. The women—women's hospital, 19; sewing, 5; laundry, 7; kitchen, 8; kitchen, 8; others do various kinds of work as the necessity arises.

Ages of Inmates

It is interesting to know the average ages of the inmates of the hospital, and it will be noted that the number increased in the list given below as the ages increase. The following figures, too, were compiled in September, and are with some changes in number applicable at the present time. The total number of inmates was then 420. There were three under 2 years of age; 1 between two and 5 years; 1 between 5 and 15 years; 1 between 15 and 21 years; 5 between 21 and 30, 21 between 30 and 40 years; 47 between 40 and 50 years; 101 between 50 and 60 years; 111 between 60 and 70 years; 80 between 70 and 80 years; 16 between 80 and 90 years.

Life of Inmates

All of the inmates receive the best of care, and Dr. Tighe, city physician, spends a large portion of his time at the institution giving medical attention to those requiring it. Some are confined in the hospital, unable to move about, and will probably remain in that state until death. Others are there temporarily with diseases which may be cured in time. Then there are the aged and infirm who are able to walk about a little each day, and in whose cases the physical weakness is the result of old age.

Those who are not fit are pleased to do whatever they can about the place, and many show deep gratitude for what is being done in their behalf. The life at the institution is of the most regular routine.

There are in the hospital several people who have had not only all the necessities of life, but even the luxuries, and enjoyed wealth. There is one woman who in years gone by lived in style, having her coachman and her servants.

The number of inmates in a rough estimate is 100 more in the winter than in the summer.

Sunday Services

Each Sunday there are two religious services at the institution. In the morning, a priest celebrates mass in the chapel and delivers a sermon, administering the sacraments, and giving general comfort to the inmates. In the afternoon a service for non-Catholics is conducted by one of the ministers of the city.

The New Barn

Last year, the institution was handicapped by the lack of the large barn which had been destroyed by fire when struck by lightning, and some time ago it was decided to construct a new one. Much of the equipment, which had been in sheds, had to be left in the open and the sheds used for sheltering the livestock. The new barn built on the foundation of the old one, is two and a half stories high and of substantial construction. As soon as the roof was finished a large quantity of hay was placed in the upper part of the structure. The hay had formerly been stored in a shed. The barn is now very nearly completed and a large portion of it is already in use. The stock will be sheltered there, together with the hay and grain.

WALSH'S POLICY

Gov. Elect Will Cut the Banquets and Give His Time to State

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—Gov. Elect Walsh says he has decided not to accept invitations to social affairs, such as balls, dances, parties, church or charitable affairs or banquets. The only exceptions to the rule will be when some public body like the chamber of commerce meets to discuss important public questions and he considers it his duty to be there.

"I mean no disrespect to any one in making this rule," said the governor-elect last evening, "but I feel that my time belongs to the state and that my

Pinklets Will Really Correct Constipation

Pinklets are a most valuable laxative in the treatment of obstinate constipation. They correct this unnatural and dangerous condition by gently assisting the sluggish bowels and torpid liver to regain their normal activity. Their action is gentle, but effective and thorough, and they do not cause a single grip. Unlike harsh, strong purgatives, they do not upset the stomach nor irritate and over-stimulate the bowels. Because they have none of these evil effects, they can be taken with entire safety until the constipation is corrected.

To simply regulate the bowels or to treat obstinate cases of constipation, Pinklets are the ideal laxative. They are safe for every member of the family to use. Get a bottle today and start trying them. Any druggist can supply you at 25 cents per bottle.

TO CLEAN, OR NOT TO CLEAN

That is the question. Whether it is better to use antiquated means or modern cleansing machinery in the renovating of garments is a question that has been asked for many years.

We do not intend that we, of late years, have employed state methods. We haven't; but being the oldest established cleansing and dyeing house here, naturally there was a time when we had to use the "olden methods."

FRENCH SOCIETIES IN PARADE

Attended Blessing of
Banner for Court St.
Paul, C. O. F.

Social Held at C. M. A.
C. Hall in the Evening

ARTHUR LAVOIE
Chief Marshal

St. Joseph's church in Lee street was yesterday morning the scene of a large gathering when the ceremony of blessing a new banner for Court St. Paul, C. O. F., was held. The interior of the temple was handsomely decorated with streamers of white and gold, while the sanctuary and altar were a mass of potted plants and incandescent lights. In the congregation were delegations from various fraternal organizations of the city.

The ceremony was preceded by a procession, the route being from C. M. A. C. hall in Pawtucket street to Merrimack to Kirk and to Lee. Arthur Lavoie was chief marshal of the parade and in line were the following organizations: Garde d'Honneur, Garde d'Armée, Garde d'Armée, A. G. Cadets; Branch St. André, A. C. F., Branch St. Joseph, A. C. F., L'Union Garin Nationale Indépendante, L'Union St. Antoine and St. Paul, C. O. F. The service at the church consisted of a high mass celebrated at 10 o'clock by the chaplain of the court, Rev. Augustin Gratton, O. M. I., who also delivered an eloquent sermon on "Catholic Societies". The choir under the direction of Telesphore Malo rendered appropriate music, Mrs. Joseph A. Bernard presiding at the organ. At the close of the mass a handsome banner of silk with gold trimmings, upon which is a fine picture of St. Paul, was blessed by the chaplain of the court. In the evening the court held a social and whist at C. M. A. C. hall. Over 300 people took part in the card tournament, which was presided over by Paul T. Charbonneau, chief ranger of the court. The Gerick orchestra was in attendance and supplied music for the evening, while numerous other musical numbers were given by members of the court and friends. The committee in charge was composed of 23 members, J. A. Robillard, chairman.

and cake, while in the afternoon a very interesting entertainment program was carried out by a number of the children under the direction of the nuns in charge.

French-American Orphanage

At the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket street the little boys and girls attended mass and received holy communion and at noon they partook of a turkey dinner with all fixings. The feature of the day, however, was the taffy party conducted in the afternoon by the members of Notre Dame de Lourdes sodality. For this occasion the little ones gathered in the assembly hall and while they filled up with the good old Canadian sugar taffy, an entertainment program was carried out by boys and girls under the direction of the sisters.

Day Nursery

About 15 little ones were given a real treat at the Day nursery in Kirk street yesterday. The dinner consisted of chicken with fixings and ice cream, and at the conclusion of the feast the boys and girls were highly entertained by the matron, who had supplied amusements of all sorts for the dear ones in her care.

The Ayer Home

There was no happier group of children in the city yesterday than the 100 little orphans in the Ayer home, and if Thanksgiving is shown by laughter and song and merrymaking generally, the informal celebration there was of the real Thanksgiving variety. From morning till night there was no suggestion of restraint and free rein was given to the spirit of childish jollity.

The great event of the day at the Ayer home, as in every home in the city, was the dinner which was served at noon. This was of the real Thanksgiving variety with turkey, chicken, squash, mince pie, apples and all the other fixings. Usually on days of special celebration there is some form of special entertainment such as a concert or private theatricals, known fondly as "shows." Yesterday, however, Mother Tarr decided that a general holiday with extra hours of play would be the better procedure, and so the day was celebrated. At 5 p. m. there was a special collation with such childish delights as fancy cake, grapes, apples, oranges, raisins, bananas, nuts, etc., and the supply was so plentiful that the breakfast this morning had some appetizing reminders of the memorable Thanksgiving which died out last night when the clock struck midnight and 100 tired little heads were very still on 100 little pillows.

THANKSGIVING FESTIVITIES

Carried Out at the Various Institutions and Orphan Asylums Yesterday

The high cost of living was not mentioned yesterday, not even in the workhouse or the jail, where the inmates were served holiday dinners. Everybody was imbued with the Thanksgiving spirit and there were no kicks coming. Fresh pork dinners were served at the jail and the Chelmsford street hospital and the inmates relished it almost as well as if it were turkey.

There were turnips, squash and potatoes on the side and the whole was capped off with home made mince pie and other rarities.

Prisoners in other cities didn't fare as well. In Boston, for instance, the regular Thanksgiving dinner in the tombs could hardly be termed a banquet even by one in the heights of alcoholic eloquence. It consisted of some corned beef, coffee with no milk and a chunk of bread with no butter.

The city, the churches, charitable associations and individuals made Thanksgiving day bright and happy for many a poor family. The Salvation Army sent out a goodly number of baskets filled with good things for Thanksgiving. Truly it was a day of peace and plenty, charity, love and thanksgiving.

In the various orphanages the little ones were flooded with good things.

St. Peter's Orphanage

The little girls at St. Peter's orphanage in Stevens street were a happy lot yesterday, for they were served a fine dinner and were well entertained. The little tots attended mass in a body in the morning and received holy communion. At noon they partook of a bounteous turkey dinner, followed by the serving of ice cream

AGAINST FAKIRS

Boston Jewellers Support Mayor in Crusade to Stop Auctions

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—A mass meeting of all the leading jewelers in Boston will be held at 7:30 this evening in the Crawford house to protest against granting licenses to fly-by-night auctioneers who at this time every year make Boston their harvest field and unload fake jewelry on the Christmas shoppers.

The meeting has been called by the Boston Jewellers association, who have interested themselves in the crusade of Mayor Fitzgerald against these auctioneers. It is expected that a set of resolutions endorsing the action of the mayor and commending him for the stand he has taken in the matter will be passed at the meeting.

E. M. Fife of the Keystone Publishing company, who started the crusade in Boston against this evil, and who has been conducting similar crusades throughout the country, will return to Boston today to express his views on the matter to the members of the association.

It is the plan of the association and Mr. Fife to have the present laws governing these auctioneers made more stringent so that it will be impossible for them to carry on an illegitimate business.

They plan to have the license fee raised from $2 to $200 and compel the auctioneers to post a bond of $2000 instead of $200 that they are now compelled to meet. The laws governing this business have not been altered since they were adopted in 1871.

The mayor started his crusade against these people about three weeks ago and has since enlisted the aid of Police Commissioner O'Meara. The police commissioner says that he will prosecute any violation of the law preventing these men from moving their wares from one town to another that is brought to his attention either by the mayor or by the members of the association.

Alexis Lamarre Honored by Friends—Musical Program and Lunch

A pretty Thanksgiving party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexis Lamarre, 10 Clinton avenue Wednesday evening, and a feature of the affair was the presentation of a gold watch to the host of the evening, Mr. Lamarre.

The guests assembled at the above address shortly after 8 o'clock and when Mr. Lamarre who had been out on business, returned, he was presented the timepiece as a token of esteem on the part of his many friends. The gift was presented by a granddaughter of Mr. Lamarre, Little Miss Yvonne Lamarre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lamarre, who spoke in happy terms.

A musical program followed, those taking part being Miss Stella Lataur, Mr. Emory C. Gauvin, Mrs. Minnie Lataur, Mr. J. Lussier, Mr. Louis Lataur and many others. Mr. George Lamarre, a clever magician greatly entertained the guests with magic of all descriptions. At midnight a dining luncheon was served followed by a whist tournament. The guests departed at a seasonable hour, extending their thanks to their hosts for their cordial hospitality. Messrs. Pierre Eno and Emory Lamarre had charge of the affair.

MARRIAGE SWINDLERS ONE KILLED; ELEVEN HURT

Boston Attorneys Gather Evidence of Blackmail Schemes Conducted by Young Women

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—Prominent attorneys about Boston have taken under consideration the operations of the clique of young adventuresses who in the past few years have mulcted students and whose activity was made public yesterday.

It became known yesterday that investigations have been going on for nearly two years and that attorneys have been engaged to prepare evidence which would halt the depredations of the young women who have lured many young men into their trap, release from which meant the transfer of thousands of dollars to their coffers.

The one hitch to the immediate prosecution of the band is the unwillingness of many men prominent in financial and social circles to brave the publicity which would be necessary should they testify concerning their dealings with this clique.

The marriage swindle gang are as powerful as was the old Boston "fake faro" crowd in its palmy days, and it is led by young women of great shrewdness.

It can be confidently stated that the new game is even more profitable than the faro scheme, but the same weakness that led to the revealing of the faro gang is threatening complete exposure of the new swindlers.

In fact many of the so-called "romantic" marriages of students have in reality been arranged by the hand of young women engaged in the mulcting business.

The inside operations of this crowd of young women, the investigators declare, would bring to light sensational unparaded in college circles of greater Boston.

The exploitation of the undergraduates is in itself a remarkable story of trickery in which cupid poses as the snare to the unwary. The most common method, and the one which the authorities of some of the colleges are trying to uncover, is blackmail by the marriage route.

The victim is selected for his financial attainments alone. Coming a stranger to Boston from some far away city, and having no immediate friends, the young man is sought by the feminine vampires as an acquaintance. This is usually made at some high class drinking resort and once the victim is in the toils of the band things move easier. After some time elapses, the acquaintance is stimulated into a pretence of love and the innocent victim falls to the wiles of the feminine moths.

After the marriage ceremony has been performed the father of the young man is notified through underground sources that his son has married a woman of loose character.

The newspapers are acquainted with the marriage and another college "romance" is blazoned forth.

In one case a New York millionaire paid $30,000 for the annulment of a marriage of his son from one of the blackmaters.

Witnesses of the accident said yesterday that the street car was traveling at a high rate of speed and was not sounding its gong, despite the dense fog that obscured everything.

It is also claimed that Thomas Thayer, chauffeur of the automobile could have averted the accident had he been watchful.

The crash when the car struck the automobile could be heard for several blocks.

The screams of the injured women quickly brought a crowd. The automobile was reduced to a mass of wreckage and thrown against the curb.

The force of the collision literally lifted the street car from the rails and it sped across the sidewalk and against the apartment block with such force that several of the occupants who had retired, were hurled from their beds.

The gas from the broken main quickly spread throughout the building creating a panic in addition to the one prevailing outside. When the gas caught fire, people began leaping from the windows, falling down stairways and rushing to the crowded street in their nightclothes.

Several persons were trampled in the street and in the hallways of the apartment building in the confusion, but their injuries are comparatively slight.

Meanwhile a second automobile, preceding the one struck by the street car and also loaded with members of the wedding party, returned to the scene of destruction and its occupants picked up the dead girl and the injured members of the party and hastened to the nearest hospital. Miss Ahlstrand, however, was dead, the collision having broken her neck and otherwise injured her shockingly.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Miss Norma Ahlstrand, who was to have been maid of honor at the wedding of her sister Olga, will be buried in the dress she had prepared for the wedding, the latter having been indefinitely postponed.

Miss Norma was instantly killed Wednesday night when a street car struck the automobile in which she was returning from a prenuptial party.

Dora Nelson, Gertrude Weber, and Grace Hedman, other occupants of the automobile, are badly injured, but will recover.

The street car left the tracks, crashed into a house, breaking the gas mains and starting a fire that drove out 20 people, and several firemen were injured in fighting the blaze.

Eight other persons, injured in the street car and the house, it is said, will recover, although three of them are seriously hurt.

THE COPPER MARKET

The copper market during the past week declined further and was weak throughout. Consumers held off and were endeavoring to find a level at which buyers would be interested. Some sales were made on Nov. 13 at 15 1/2 @ 15 3/4c, delivered, but after that offers to sell at 15 1/2c that were made right along failed to command business, and such as was done was at 15 1/4c, delivered. On Nov. 17 there were some considerable sales at 15c, cash, New York.

The several agencies, with a single exception, engaged in active competition for each business as appeared in sight. On Nov. 15 the largest agency, which previously was standing aloof, was reported out with a price around 15 1/2 @ 15 3/4c, delivered, but this was still above the market and was considered to be more a new basis to figure from than anything else.

The market of last week is rated as quiet, though sales amounted to some million pounds. Their aggregate was more than in the previous week. Almost everything was for shipment to Europe. Sales to domestic consumers were insignificant.

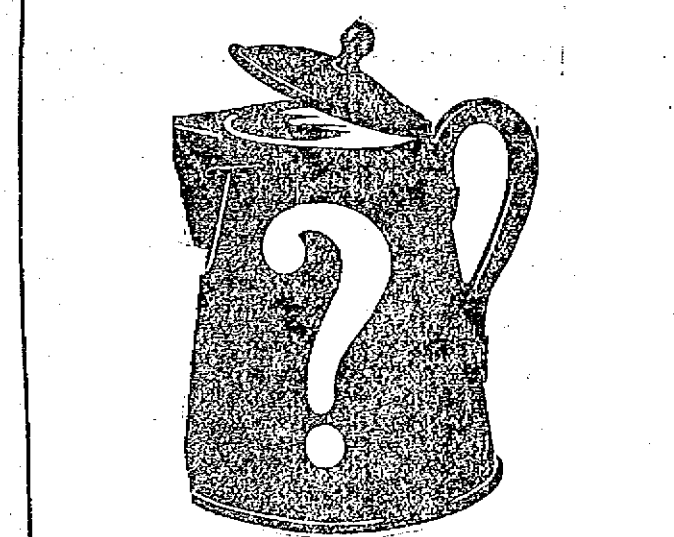

Electrolytic in cakes, wirebars or ingots, at the close is quoted at 15 @ 15 05c. We quote casting copper nominally at 14 1/2 @ 14 3/4c, as an average for the week.

The London standard market was dull around 148, except on Nov. 15, when the bulls took advantage of a temporary scarcity of near-by metal and forced the price of spot up to 149.

10s. It receded the next day. Three months contracts were not affected and throughout the week there was a backwardation of 11 and over.

Boston's Poor Were Well Taken Care of Yesterday

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—The sun, as it loomed up in the eastern sky yesterday morning came simultaneously with a spirit of Thanksgiving and happiness such as is seldom seen in Boston.

The Salvation Army, following its usual custom, gave Thanksgiving dinners to several thousand poor children at the People's Palace in the 50. End, and also supplied holiday dinners to the homes of several thousand others. The Volunteers of America and other charitable societies also supplied dinners for many families. Not a single family known to charity workers as being in need was allowed to spend the day without a Thanksgiving dinner and all that goes with it.

It is estimated that 4000 dinners were provided. Some also came to the headquarters and secured baskets of eatables which they took to their homes.

The Month's Wind-Up

In last Friday's issue of The Sun I advertised the purchase from the wholesale woolen house of RUBIN & COOPER, 65 Chauncy Street, Boston, of several hundred yards, the pick of their fall woollens in suits and overcoats. I advertised them made to order, any style for $12.50. I thought this announcement of worsteds at that price would create a sensation. Whether the approaching holiday made people feel poor, or the weather was the depressing cause, I am not sure. I only know that the greatest trade offered in Lowell for many and many a day only brought ordinary business. I offered them last Friday for $12.50 to order. A special trade.

High Street church was the scene yesterday of a Thanksgiving service in which the Congregational, Unitarian and Universalist churches united. The sermon was by Rev. Charles T. Billings of the First Unitarian church and the order of service was as follows: Organ prelude, Mr. Allen; governor's Thanksgiving proclamation, read by Rev. A. C. Ferrin; anthem, "Harvest Home," (Hanscomb), by the choir; invocation, Rev. A. F. Dannels; responsive reading, Rev. C. R. Skinner; hymn; Scripture reading, Rev. H. A. Barker; prayer, Rev. Edward H. Newcomb; solo, "Consider and Hear Me," (Woolles), Miss Eliza B. Thompson; hymn, benediction; organ postlude, Mr. Allen.

Mr. Billings said, in his sermon, that the spirit of Thanksgiving implies an act of judgment—implies not only that you are grateful, but that you know what you are grateful for. And when you say, I am glad for these conditions, or that friendship, or this pleasure, you are not merely giving expression to gratitude, you are suggesting the cause of it—which lies in these conditions or friendships and pleasures.

"Speaking of faith, Mr. Billings said the Pilgrim fathers not in their strength but in the strength of their faith, felt the power of the spiritual and so whether they were sick or well, poor or rich, weak or strong, they felt grateful that their God was with them, and in his might they would conquer. "So on this Thanksgiving day let us not think merely of the days of sunshine and the days of darkness, nor weigh the pains against the pleasures, nor be thankful merely for the benefits we see, but let us go to the roots of our best life, realize the unseen forces that minister to all that is fine in it, feel as our fathers felt, the power of sympathy, friendship and of God. Then going forth in his name, we shall realize the power that comes from him. That that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength. When a man is interested in his cause, he tends to forget fatigue and pain and labor in the glory of the cause, and he is grateful to the cause that calls forth such effort, for it is the source of his best life. "So in this Thanksgiving we may and should be grateful for the sources of power that have called forth our finest spirit of life. The outward benefits of the year may seem small. The year may have been hard or easy, but the powers most worth while are all about us. They inspire us with the knowledge of the power within us. They give us the ability to weather storm and sunshine, and they inspire us to give our best strength—blossoms and fruit—in the service of others.

"In the presence of these sources we are brought nearer our friends, the great men and women of the age, Christ and God. Our wealth is not increased by riches or pleasures, or life's worth by the absence of pain, but by the powers all above us which help us to reveal our highest manhood. And our thanksgiving is, that help comes to us from every quarter, and everything being a source of life. He only is to be pitied who lives by what he sees, measures life by what he sees. The heroic life rests upon the deeper forces, feels the influence of the eternal.

"And he who lives in the presence of the eternal always has much to thank God for, for he no longer measures life by the presence of pleasure or the absence of pain. But he has found a power which, in the midst of pain or pleasure is capable of calling forth his highest endeavor. Not only does he feel himself able to meet storm and tempest, but he rejoices in the blossoms and the fruits which the spirit of love and thanksgiving make him capable of yielding.

Methodists and Presbyterians At the Highland M. E. church, yesterday morning, the Methodist and Presbyterian churches united in a Thanksgiving service. There was special music sung by the church quartet. Rev. L. E. Waring read the governor's proclamation, and Rev. A. A. Jackson preached the Thanksgiving sermon. Among the clergymen present on the platform were: Rev. H. V. McLean, Highland M. E. church; Rev. John H. Kyle, Portuguese missionary; Rev. George W. King, St. Paul's M. E. church; Rev. L. E. Waring, Centralville M. E. church; Rev. J. M. Craig, First Presbyterian church; Rev. N. W. Matthews, Gorham Street P. M. church; Rev. A. H. Hesford, Moore Street P. M. church; Rev. S. A. Jackson, Westminster Presbyterian church; Rev. Panos Ginires, Greek mission. A collection was taken in behalf of Faith Home orphanage.

The Baptist Churches The Baptist churches united in a Thanksgiving service at the Worthen Street Baptist church. Rev. Dr. Theodore L. Frost, pastor of the Worthen Street Baptist church, conducted the service, being aided by Rev. B. B. Harris of the Paige Street Baptist church. Rev. Herman S. Pinkham of the First Baptist church and Rev. Ernest A. Trites of the Chelmsford Street Baptist church. Hymns, Scripture, the Thanksgiving day proclamation, prayer and an anthem preceded the sermon which was preached by Rev. Mr. Pinkham.

St. Anne's Church The Thanksgiving service at St. Anne's church yesterday morning was well attended. There was appropriate music by the church choir under the direction of Charles Brown, and the pastor, Rev. Appleton Grannis, preached a Thanksgiving sermon.

Swedish Congregational There was a Thanksgiving concert with an accompanying box opening at the Swedish Congregational church, last evening. Some months ago the members of the parish were given thank boxes, into which mites were dropped from time to time. These were opened last night and a goodly sum was realized.

St. Paul's M. E. Church

A Thanksgiving praise service was held at St. Paul's M. E. church yesterday morning from 9 to 10 o'clock. Under the leadership of Rev. G. E. King, the pastor. The large choir of 20 persons, directed by Peter Picken, sang hymns of thanksgiving and praise, and Dr. King made comments upon the scriptures.

Christian Science A Thanksgiving service was conducted by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at Colonial hall, yesterday morning.

Dear Gifts to Poor

Agent Charles F. Richardson of the Lowell Humane society received two loads of vegetables and fruit yesterday from the pupils of the Dracut Centre school, to be distributed among the poor people of this city. For the past three or four years the children of this school have made donations through the medium of the Lowell Humane society and the numerous farm products including potatoes, cabbages, turnips, apples, carrots, parsnips, etc., have been sent to the most needy families in the city.

Yesterday over 25 houses were visited by Mr. Richardson and his assistant, Frederick Gilmore. Besides the articles mentioned above, clothing was given to many families and as the local humane officer has an excellent idea of where these things are needed, he was able to dispose of them in the proper way.

Donations were also sent to the Lowell Humane society by the Worthen Street Baptist and Highland Congregational churches.

SUCCESS OF PLAN

Depends on System— Mothers' Pension Law Essentially Sound

The Chicago Record-Herald says:—Chicago has had so much trouble with the aid to mothers, or "mothers' pension" law that she is in a position to sympathize with Oregon, where a report on four months' operation of a similar statute has been eliciting considerable comment.

According to the Oregon investigators, the law has promoted fraud and perjury. Fifty per cent of the applications had to be rejected. False affidavits as to income and residence poured in. On the other hand, needy and deserving mothers shrank from making applications and exposing themselves to suspicion.

Nor is this all. Voluntary aid to mothers was discontinued and much suffering caused thereby. Worst of all, in the words of one observer, "the law has filled the children's homes very nearly to capacity through the giving up of their children by unsuccessful applicants." Instead of keeping families together—the main object of the law—the granting and refusal of pensions have operated to break up homes.

Practically all of these unpleasant experiences recorded in Oregon followed the establishment of the first aid to mother's law in this state.

A good plan was all but wrecked by bad machinery and poor administration. Since then the Illinois act has been amended, and in Chicago thanks to civic spirit and voluntary co-operation, the machinery has been considerably improved. Steps have been taken to detect fraud and prevent robbery of the taxpayers. Oregon can learn something from our experience.

The aid to mothers system is essentially sound, but it should be slowly and carefully worked out. A crude system does more harm than good alike in a material and moral sense.

TO LIVE, OR NOT TO LIVE

Just What to Tell a Patient is the Most Puzzling Problem a Young Practitioner Has to Deal With

Whether to tell a patient or the members of his family just what the matter with him, is one of the most puzzling problems the young medical practitioner has to face. Very often he has to keep silent. Sometimes he does not get found out. "When I began the practice of medicine I was located in the heart of old Greenwich Village, and the diphtheria antitoxin had not been discovered," said one physician. "Parents, as well as physicians, were much exercised when a child had an attack of diphtheria. In the immediate neighborhood, when the news got about that a child was stricken with the disease, there was almost a panic. I was called on a case one bitter cold and stormy night, and found the child well advanced in the disease and suffering from neglect. The mother was very young. It was her first child, and she was so worried over the condition of the little one, that in order to calm her I assured her it was not a case of diphtheria, only an aggravated form of tonsillitis sore throat. That so relieved her that I was not sorry I had lied to her. The case yielded to treatment so readily that when I called in the early morning of the next day the child was well on the way to recovery."

"My lie would never have been discovered and no harm would have been done had it not been for an interfering old grandmother who put in an appearance about an hour after I had left the house. She was sure there had been diphtheria, and hustled off to her family physician, who was in those days at the head of the medical profession here."

"He had no scruples about telling the truth about the case. He tried to calm the mother by telling her that no one could have done better with the case and that I had probably saved the child's life."

"When I called at the house in the afternoon there was a storm of which I was the center. I was not allowed to see the baby."

"But I did see the mother, and what she said was good and plenty. I pleaded in extenuation of my prevarication that I had saved the child's life, had done no injury to any one, and had shared her a lot of needless worry and anxiety. "That availed nothing. She discharged me after paying me my fee. "Two months later I was sorry I had lied about the case. That mother told all the neighbors in the block, and they told all the rest of Greenwich Village that I didn't know a case of diphtheria when I saw one."

"That settled me. I lost every patient I had in the vicinity. So I moved away uptown and started in all over again, and for 10 years lived in fear that the lie and its effects would follow me to my new location. But it never caught up with me."

"Since that experience I have always evaded direct replies as to the nature of a disease. I was called on to diagnose, unless I had to deal with a strong, hard-headed man. I tell such a one the truth as nearly as I can. He can tell the members of his family whatever he likes." New York Times.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER NEWSPAPER STYLE BEST

Pleads for Free Food Before the Dreadnaughts — United States Tariff Drains Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 28.—"Free food before dreadnaughts" was the text of a speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the liberal leader, before a great meeting in the conservative city of Hamilton Wednesday night.

Sir Wilfrid pointed out that the United States was draining the country of the food and that the cost of living was advancing with startling rapidity. His speech was received with remarkable signs of approval and it indicates that the opposition at the coming session of parliament will make free food, "a free breakfast table," as the liberals call it, their main issue. Sir Wilfrid said:

"The situation requires action, prompt, unhesitating action. The policy I give you at this moment, the policy I believe every patriot in Canada ought to support and the policy I believe it to be the duty of the government immediately to inaugurate, is a policy of absolutely free food—free from customs duty.

"It will be said of me: 'If you advocate that policy do you not advocate a revision of the tariff to that extent?' Certainly I do; but somebody will tell me that the tariff which is in force today is the Fielding tariff of 1857. So it is that at this moment we are fighting for the needs of that time, not for all eternity. It has been the policy of the liberal party at all times to stand so far as possible for stability in tariff, but when the needs of the people call for action action must be taken.

"What is of immediate interest to the people of Canada today? Not the price of breadstuffs. There is one thing which at this moment engages the minds of the Canadian people from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast. It is a far more prosaic and far more vital question—it is the question of the high cost of living.

"I told you at the beginning that new problems are continually arising. There are latent forces which, unnoticed, silent and unforeseen, work out problems which were never dreamed of. This is one of them.

"A table of statistics lately compiled by the British board of trade, which is known for its accuracy, has shown that the cost of living has increased 7 per cent. in Great Britain during the last decade, and in Canada 31 per cent. Now just one point here. 'Reflect that Canada produces yearly 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, while the local consumption is daily 50,000 bushels, and the surplus has been the market of Great Britain.

"If then, we reflect that Great Britain has to import all the wheat which she consumed, and if we reflect further that the price of wheat and the price of bread are cheaper in Great Britain than in Canada, then you have to agree with me that there must be something rotten in the state of Denmark—Canada.

"And we have not reached the end of the high cost of living. The cost of living will be higher in two or three months than it is today. What is the cause? The recent reductions in the American tariffs."

"The news sense, the ability to see what is new and its new meaning to the great mass of humanity is necessary to men in every field of endeavor, but especially to men who write."

"With all its faults I still believe in the news style," he continued, "as the most efficient style of this modern day for presenting information through the written word. It has been hammered out in the heat and stress of newspaper work to meet the demand of millions for something to compel their attention in the quickest, clearest way possible. The news writer comes fresh from the things he writes and puts the energy and life, or it may be the joy and sorrow of what he has just seen or heard, into the living, breathing words of his story.

"There is a vital living quality in news writing that demands attention and grips interest. This style is more widely used than any other. It is of the people and for them and has come through years to have a value that cannot be denied.

"The ranks of present day literary successes are filled with men and women who had their training in the newspaper office.

"The demands of editors and publishers everywhere is for matter written in the same clear, concise, interesting way that has made the American newspaper the most readable publication printed, either today or in any time."

Prof. James Melvin Lee of New York university discussed instruction in advertising, circulation matters and other phases of the newspaper in connection with college courses in journalism.

Prof. F. W. Beckman of Iowa State college today in addressing the professors of journalism of 18 colleges and universities gathered here for the second meeting of the American conference of teachers of journalism.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Joseph Jastrow of the University of Wisconsin, speaking here today before the national council of teachers of English, referred to the possibility of a society for the prevention of cruelty to the English language.

Prof. Jastrow told the result of an inquiry as to what would be the outcome if 50 objectionable expressions caught in ordinary conversation were sent to one dollar as seemed to fit punishment for each separate offence, according to the pain inflicted on the hearer. The judges, 68 in number, included 12 women. Half of the 68 reside east of the Alleghenies.

Among the judges were college professors, leading editors and readers for prominent publishing houses.

An average fine of nearly 43 cents for each offense was the outcome. Prof. Jastrow suggested that the revenues from the enforcement of the fines against violations of good English would make a substantial fund to be distributed in prizes by a society for the prevention of cruelty to English speech.

What prompted Prof. Jastrow's unique inquiry was a study of linguistic sensibility as a field for the determination of the variety of factors of judging process.

F. N. Scott of the University of Michigan, whose topic was "The Undeclared Gate," asked: "Of what use is it to drill pupils in grammar, to sweat over compositions, to spend month after month in the reading and study of English masterpieces if steadily, day by day, some powerful disintegration agency nullifies all that we have accomplished?"

Not even the Bible, Prof. Scott said, could compete with the daily newspaper as the most powerful and most pervasive influence of our day, earth,

STOP CATARRH!

Unless Properly Treated With Hyomei This Disease May Become Serious

If you have catarrh. Usually indicated by sniffing, stopped up head, droppings in throat, watery eyes, and morning choking, there is an irritated state of the mucous membrane which affords an ideal condition for the growth of disease germs.

Do not allow the dangerous germs which may be breathed into the nose, throat and lungs to begin the destruction of your health.

The easiest, simplest, quickest, surest and cheapest way to check catarrh is by breathing Hyomei—all druggists sell it. This wonderful medicated air treatment does not upset the stomach but is breathed in through the Hyomei Inhaler, directly following and surely destroying all disease germs that may have been inhaled—the tissues of the throat, nose and lungs are quickly healed and vitalized.

The unusual way in which Hyomei is sold by Carter & Sherburne dispels all doubts as to its curative properties. Money refunded to anyone whom Hyomei fails to benefit. A complete outfit, including inhaler and bottle of liquid, costs but $1.00.

CONGRESSMAN ROGERS

Selects Three Young Men for the U.S. Naval Academy as Result of Examinations Held Here

As a Thanksgiving gift to three fine young fellows of the Fifth Congressional district, Congressman Rogers, on Wednesday, made his designations of a principal and the first and second alternates to the United Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. Lawrence B. Richardson of Methuen secures the principal's place, Elmer Robert Hill of Chelmsford, the place of first alternate and Harold Taylor of Stow, that of second alternate.

A stiff examination, held in behalf of Congressman Rogers by the United States civil service commission, took place at the Lowell high school on October 22d last. About three weeks later the Civil Service commission notified Congressman Rogers that of the contestants in this examination Lawrence B. Richardson of Methuen had been first in rank with a percentage of 78.99, Elmer Robert Hill of Chelmsford, second in rank with a percentage of 60.58 and Harold Taylor of Stow, third in rank with a percentage of 58.43. On November 22nd, these three young men went before Dr. Hugo B. C. Riemer of Boston, the official medical examiner for the United States Civil Service commission, for physical examination. This medical examination Rogers was devised by Congressman Rogers and was put into operation for the first time. Its purpose is to ascertain physical unfitness at the outset without subjecting the various candidates to the humiliation and loss of time and money, which has hitherto resulted, since they did not learn of any physical shortcomings until they actually presented themselves at the Naval academy, months after their designation. The three young men above named, however, all successfully passed the rigorous physical examination and were therefore, as above indicated, designated in order of their rank in the mental examination.

Shot at Proprietor of Restaurant and Made Their Escape

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Four robbers broke up the Thanksgiving celebration of the proprietors of a restaurant at 30 Henry street last night and, failing to get money, shot one of the partners in the head and got away. Paul Deigelowitz and Steve Urenawitz sold their restaurant yesterday and got the money for it. They told their customers it was their last day of ownership and that the drinks were on the house. In the midst of the fun four men came in, backed the partners up against the wall and asked for money. The partners were too frightened to give it to them and one of the four men shot Deigelowitz and ran. Tables were overturned in the scramble to get out of the place and when the police arrived the restaurant was equipped with upset food and dishes. Deigelowitz was taken to Gouverneur hospital. His condition is serious.

There was some expectation that the jurors will be selected before adjournment is taken this afternoon.

BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

PECULIAR CASE GROWING OUT OF SUICIDE OF FRANK B. SHERBURNE

In the jury waived session of superior court Wednesday, with Judge Pratt presiding, arguments were heard on a demurrer in the case of Jennie L. Carter of Wakefield, a Boston school teacher, who brings suit against Alice Z. Twombly of Haverhill, executrix of the estate of the late Frank B. Sherburne, who at the time of his death was a teacher in the Lowell high school. She asked for damages of $4000. The matter was briefly noted in Wednesday's edition of the Sun.

The plaintiff claims that in the year 1911 she and the defendant's testator, Frank B. Sherburne, mutually agreed to marry; and that in November of the same year the said Frank B. Sherburne voluntarily broke said contract by taking his own life. She also claims that relying upon this promise she gave up her position as teacher in the Boston public schools and therefore lost her claim for promotion; that she performed work for Mr. Sherburne that was of great value to him and his estate and that she expended large sum of money in preparation for their marriage.

Arguments on the demurrer were made by William H. Wilson for the defense, and Mr. Hamilton of Boston for the plaintiff. Judge Pratt reserved decision.

SURPRISE PARTY

Over one hundred friends of Miss Catherine Gillick gathered at the home of her mother, 473 Riverside street, Dracut, Thanksgiving eve and presented her a beautiful opal and chip diamond ring and also greeted her upon her arrival home from Cunningham, where she has been teaching since September. Mr. George O'Malley made a very neat presentation speech. Although taken completely by surprise, the young lady responded in a very fitting manner. Immediately after the presentation games and a musical program were enjoyed and refreshments were served. Those who helped to make the evening pleasant were Mrs. Anna G. Carpenter, Misses Florence Buckley, Veronika Brennan and the Misses Campbell and Gillick. Vocal selections by Misses Elizabeth O'Brien, Eva Rivers, Lillian Barton, Elizabeth Farrell, Walter Dinley and a quartet composed of the Misses Alicia Ingalls, Margaret Gillick, Etta Finnegan and Christopher Nugent. All departed at a late hour wishing Miss Gillick much pleasure and success in the future. The success of the affair was due to the earnest efforts of the Brinkley Girls.

SPLENDID PARTY

Fifty Convivial Souls at Festive Board on Thanksgiving Eve

The strains of "Annie Laurie" softly floating through the room, the subdued rays of numberless crimson shaded lights, the tiny islands of snowy tablecloths, the gleam of shining silver, the light tread of the charming waitresses—these would have greeted any fortunate visitor gifted with an "open sesame" if he were to cross the threshold of the Waverly dining room Thanksgiving eve where a group of 50 choice spirits were making an early start in celebrating the festival. Notwithstanding the fact that before another sunset they were scheduled to sit down to their accustomed Thanksgiving dinners in their own homes, each and every one of the fifty attacked the turkey fore and aft, made gallant forays against the "fixings" and did right valiant service when in the final onslaught they faced the desserts and drinkables. This conquest made, those of the half hundred who were still ready for action gathered around the piano and sang "You Made Me Love You," (addressed to the departed turkey), "Just Before the Battle, Mother," "Sweet Memories" and other airs suitable to the time and place. Interspersed with these bursts of vocal melodies were piano solos which, as the ladies would exclaim, were charming. The music and mirth increased with the hours and when the last of the 50 had taken his way along starlit Market street, he voiced the thought of all when he soliloquized: "It was the jolliest time ever."

For Fredette presided at the piano and there were songs by Eddie Shea and John Wilby and a charming musical sketch by Madden and Fitzpatrick, engaged this week at Keltia's theatre. The guests of honor were Mayor James E. O'Donnell and Commissioner Andrew E. Barrett.

SOLDIER'S LIFE

Inquiry of Judge Landis Answered Today—$2500 Ordered

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—The inquiry of Judge Landis of the United States district court to find out "why a soldier's life is worth only $150" was answered today. The judge's curiosity was aroused by a settlement of the Mobilo & Oil Co. R. Co. with Mrs. Mary Panek for the death in a wreck of her son, a soldier, for $750, less $250 attorney's fees. Judge Landis appointed a new attorney for Mrs. Panek and when the case was called today a settlement out of court for $2500 was announced.

FORCED INTO BANKRUPTCY

New York Real Estate Security Co. Has Financial Difficulties—Attorneys Say It Is Only Temporary
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The New York Real Estate Security Co., with large realty holdings of office buildings and apartment houses was forced into bankruptcy today. The assets, consisting of equities in mortgage real estate and rents due are stated in the bankruptcy petition to approximate $100,000. The company financed its real estate dealings through the sale of six per cent. bonds throughout the country. Attorneys for the concern said that its embarrassment would be only temporary.

TAX LIMIT

close down. The legislature, realizing that the new law would work some hardship, decided to allow cities and towns to increase their tax limit. Most of the cities throughout the state, it is understood, took advantage of this privilege.

At a meeting of the municipal council held August 28, Mayor O'Donnell moved that the city solicitor be instructed to draw up an ordinance fixing the tax limit at $13 instead of $12. Com. Cummings seconded the motion but it didn't carry. Commissioners Barrett, Brown and Donnelly voted it down. This, however, in the estimation of a majority of the council does not mean that Lowell cannot yet increase the limit to $13. The law requires that before the limit is raised a public hearing must be given and such a hearing was held and it is claimed that the defeat of the mayor's motion to have a new ordinance prepared for the extension of the tax limit, does not mean that the matter has been killed in its entirety. A decision in the matter will soon be forthcoming from the city solicitor.

Because of the fact that it is impossible to obtain the necessary figures from the head clerk in the office of superintendent of streets, City Engineer Kearney says it is almost impossible for his department to make proper estimates. When there is paving or other street or sewer work to be done, the greatest guide is found in the figures having to do with similar work done during the previous year.

"The street department," said Engineer Kearney, today, "has not issued an annual report since Clarence Raymond left the department. Mr. Raymond was head clerk in the street department and was a capable man. On the first week of January he would submit figures covering the work of the previous year. These figures were always given in great detail and were of the greatest assistance to the city engineer and his assistants."

"Several times this year I have gone to Mr. Tuttle, head clerk in the street department, for figures covering certain things, and I think that in about every instance I was unable to get the figures. All figures should be available at all times in that department and we have been hampered in our work here because of the fact that we were not able to get figures when we wanted them."

"The street department has not issued an annual report since Mr. Raymond left. He quit the job in August or September of 1911 and the last annual report issued by that department was for 1910."

Asked if the department would issue an annual report for 1913, Mr. Kearney said: "Yes, we intend to get out some kind of a report in this office. We have kept close tabs on all of the work done this year and we will do the best we can on the annual report."

GRADE CROSSING

having a Lowell man appointed to the commission but in order to have the commission made up of disinterested parties and to avoid any and all complications it was decided not to appoint a Lowell man to the commission.

After about three hours' deliberation the following were agreed upon as members of the commission: Patrick H. Cooney, of Natick; George W. Swain of Boston, and Nelson T. Brown of Everett. Several men mentioned for the commission were objected to by Mr. Hennessy and it was Mr. Hennessy who suggested the name of Nelson T. Brown, who was one time solicitor for Everett and is at the present time an assistant in the office of District Attorney Higgins. The first man appointed to the commission, Patrick H. Cooney, is a former district attorney for Middlesex county.

Alderman Barrett's Way

Appropos to grade crossing conferences, Alderman Barrett says there is but one way to abolish a crossing and that is to abolish it. The alderman was very earnest when he made this observation this morning and, for the nonce, was not clearly understood. He was asked to explain and Alderman Barrett is some explainer—"believe me."

"The holding of conferences was never known to abolish a crossing," quoth Mr. Barrett, "and just so long as the conferences are kept up, just so long will the crossing remain. The only way to abolish the Middlesex street crossing is to force the issue. Cut out the conferences and say to the railroad that the crossing must be abolished."

"I didn't indulge in very many conferences when the water department got ready to lay the 21-inch main across the Merrimack river. If we had started the conference racket we would still be conferring. The only thing to do is take the bull by the horns and go to it. When a public service corporation is told to remove a pole and the pole isn't removed within a certain time, the city department having charge of the pole, or rather, the commissioner at the head of that department should have the pole chopped down. He wouldn't have to do it many times before the public service corporations would realize that they were up against the real thing. Yes sir-ee, the only way to abolish a crossing is to abolish it," and everybody took the alderman's word for it.

Not All His Men

After he had finished with the grade crossing question, Ald. Barrett called attention to the fact that insinuations had been cast as to the number of water department men engaged in Westford street on the main extending from Church street, through Appleton and Chelmsford streets. "The trouble with a great many people," said Mr. Barrett, "is that they fly into print before they know what they are talking about. There are quite a number of men working in Westford street, but they are not all water department men. Some of them are street railway men, some telephone and some sewer men. Men are working like beavers. They have encountered very formidable ledge, but they are boring their way through all right. The fact that there is water in the new main at the corner of Chelmsford and Westford streets is the best evidence that they have been on the job every minute."

MURDER CHARGE

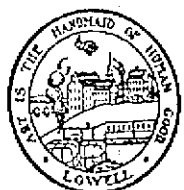

CLINTON, Mo., Nov. 22.—Tilly O. Puckett, a farmer, was placed on trial here today on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of his mother, Mrs. Susan Makinson. Puckett's home burned last September and the charred body of Mrs. Makinson was found in the ruins. An autopsy showed that the woman's skull had been fractured. Two empty rifle cartridges were found near the body. Testifying before a coroner's jury Puckett said he shot his mother, mistaking her for a burglar. A suit brought by Mrs. Makinson to recover farm property deeded to her son was pending at the time of her death.

Gilbert Gallant, the hard hitting Chelsea lightweight, who is now boxing better than at any time in his career, opened the season with a rush and showed form that surprised even the most skeptical fan. He has defeated Harry Dillon of Philadelphia, Johnny Lore of New York, Joe Egan of Boston, who only lasted two rounds with the fighting Frenchman. His most recent fight was with Grover Hayes, the clever Philadelphia, who is a past master of the art of self defense, and the best Hayes could do was to hold Gallant to a draw. Gallant would like to meet Matty Baldwin, Eddie Murphy or Steve Kennedy, the three performers who have received decisions over him.

The High School Alumni game Saturday will bring out quite a crowd for the local season's windup. The alumni will include many of the star football men who have been graduated in recent years. Cawley, Bailey, Donovan and Canney are four of Lowell high's famous stars in recent years.

Finney Boyle is coming along in great style under the able tutelage of Jack Wagner of Lawrence. Finney fought Tommy Carson of Lawrence off his feet last night at the down-river club in one of the all-star bouts. Wagner will make a headliner out of him before he gets through with the local boy.

The England vs. Scotland soccer game at Lawrence yesterday pulled an immense crowd of enthusiasts who saw the Englishmen defeated 2 to 1. It was a great game from start to finish and kept the spectators on their toes throughout.

Steve Kennedy has been rematched to fight Jack Read of Australia at Jim Crilly's club in Lawrence. Steve put it over the foreigner in their last conflict in what was one of the greatest bouts ever staged at this club. Read claimed he was not in condition and expects to reverse the decision at their next meeting.

The Army-Navy game next Saturday is the last big gridiron contest on the calendar for this season. The midshipmen have been victorious in the majority of the games played between the two academies but the West Pointers are figuring on a win this year. On paper it looks like either team's game.

Pasay DeLuca proved too strong for Kid Mercer last night and won the decision after ten hard rounds. Mercer is a boxer, while DeLuca is built along the "bulldog" line. The latter proved too rugged for Mercer in the close work.

AYER TEAM WINS

Defeats White Ways in Fast Game—Cole and Bernadini Roll, the Rich Totals

The White Ways were taken into camp Wednesday night in their bowling match with the Ayer Five by the score of 1402 to 1392, losing two out of the three strings. In spite of their heavy rolling in the last string they were ten pins to the bad at the conclusion of the game. Cole, one of the losers was high man with 305.

The Majestic lost a fast game from the Lincolns yesterday afternoon. The winners took the first and third strings and the total by the score of 1330 to 1256. W. Chadwick of the Lincolns was high man with a mark of 284 and a single of 110.

The Married Men proved their superiority to their less fortunate brethren, the Single Men, in their six-man bowling match Thanksgiving day. Bernadini of the Single Men was high with a

Mike Glover, who claims the welter-weight championship, covered himself with glory yesterday afternoon at the Irving A. C. New York, by winning over Jack Britton in 10 rounds. Glover had a clear lead at the finish. The result of the bout was a surprise. Britton was a big favorite. Glover had not been seen in the big city for months, and it was the general opinion that the Chicago speed merchant would dance rings around the Boston lad and win with plenty to spare, but the boy from the bean town upset the dope.

At the Vernon arena in Los Angeles yesterday Joe Rivers, the Mexican pugilist, defeated Leach Cross, the New York lightweight, in 20 rounds of fast fighting. After two knockdowns in the fourth and ninth rounds, Cross showed marvelous recuperative powers and fought brilliantly, but could not overcome the lead Rivers won by consistent and vicious milling. The bout was one of the best seen on the court for some time.

Talbot, the big Yale guard who is being picked by many critics for an All-American berth, has two juniors only as opponents for the captaincy of next year's eleven. Wilson, the quarterback who made such an excellent showing this season, and McLeish, who played a short while at end in the Harvard game, are both third year men, so that Talbot will doubtless be picked as Yale's leader for 1914.

Lowell high had a most discouraging finale to its 1913 gridiron season yesterday. The individual players may take a lot of credit to themselves for the game manner in which they fought Lawrence from start to finish. Captain Cullen put a great deal of fight into the line but the fact remains that they did not know how to stop these short end runs and skin tackle plays.

The Indians had a tough time of it with the lowly Brown team and barely won out by a 13 to 0 score. The attitude of Glen Warner when he says that Brown had a better team than Dartmouth is not surprising. Warner was never noted for being a good loser. Perhaps he had a little trouble with the Dartmouth management at the Polo Grounds. Needless to say, the Brown team could not have beaten the Green at any stage of the season.

Cornell sprung a surprise on the football world by its stunning defeat of Penn. Cornell always puts up a hard fight with its traditional rivals but a score of yesterday's dimensions was never thought of by the warmest supporters of the Ithaca college.

LOWELL HIGH BLOCKING A SKIN TACKLE PLAY

Although reinforced by the presence of Capt. Cullen in their lineup Lowell high went down to defeat yesterday at the hands of their bitter rivals, Lawrence high, on the N. E. league baseball grounds at Lawrence by the score of 7 to 0. The touchdown and goal came in the fourth period of one of the most strenuous games that was ever fought out between schoolboys in the down-river city.

Lawrence high showed the better halfbacks which the local school ever turned out. Capt. Cullen was heard from at left tackle with a vengeance and his running-mate, Mochrie, also played a good game on the other side. Many yards were made through both Lowell tackles, but the fault did not lay with Cullen or Mochrie. So much interference was thrown at them and so little help was forthcoming that neither player was able to stem the tide. The simple facts of the case were that Lawrence knew more football and displayed it on both offense as well as defense.

Bowers was not sent in at left half. He has played the backfield for the past two seasons, but Cahill was shifted from left end to left half. Cahill played a hard, aggressive game, but the position was unfamiliar to him. Cahill and Bennett both tackled the Lawrence backs many times after they had broken through the line.

form throughout the contest and Lowell simply staved off defeat by stubborn individual efforts. Lawrence displayed a versatility of attack which neither the Lowell line nor backfield could fathom and the winning team's march up the field for a touchdown looked like a walkover.

The home team used a formation with their backs in a line perpendicular to the scrimmage line and waded through each tackle for substantial gains. All the interference was thrown against the opposing tackle with the result that he was usually snored under. Short end runs and line bucks were also intermingled from this formation with bewildering frequency which Lowell could not follow.

Lowell was outclassed in the first half of the game and were very lucky to escape being scored upon. Twice Lawrence had the ball in the shadow of the local team's goal post and twice the Lowell team stiffened and held Lawrence for downs. Cahill attempted to punt practically on his own back and fumbled a poor pass. He recovered the ball himself, however, and the danger was over for the time being.

In the third period Snyder snapped a forward pass to Roane and the diminutive Lowell end sped across the Lawrence goal line with the ball. The referee called the play back, however, claiming that Lowell had violated the rules in making the pass. The Lowell team, individually, played good football. Brunelle, at right half, was as usual the star backfield man. Whether the play was on his side of the line or not, Danny was always right on the job and his fierce tackling told heavily on the Lawrence backs.

On the offense Brunelle was also the most impressive back for Lowell. Time and again he hit the line, smashing tackle for substantial gains. His efforts to even up matters by a touchdown in the fourth period after Lawrence had scored although vain, were heroic. He sustained his reputation yesterday as being one of the best

Over 4200 people witnessed the game between the two old rivals. About 100 fans traveled to Lawrence in special cars early in the morning and the cheering section of the local school went into action as soon as they arrived upon the field.

Lawrence high gave their team a tremendous ovation upon its arrival and the spectators were entertained by both cheering sections until the game commenced. The Lawrence rooters presented a front which many col-

DIAMOND NOTES

The national baseball commission has decided that hereafter all players eligible to participate in post season contests under the control of the commission, whether world or any other series, will receive equal shares of the money awarded to their teams. This information was made public by John Evers, manager of the Chicago Cubs.

According to Evers this action was taken by the commission when complaint was filed by three Cub pitchers, Jim Vaughn, Earl Moore and Eddie Slack, over the division of the Cub money after the Cub-White Sox series in Chicago this fall. These three pitchers received only half a share each. The commission, it was stated, refused to take action on the complaint but decided that in the future all participating players will be given equal shares whether they have been with their team a full season or not.

Realizing that his chances for the pennant last season were marred when Eddie Foster was stricken with typhoid fever, Manager Griffith of the Senators will have every member of his team inoculated with typhoid bacillus before the players go into training early next spring.

This is considered an absolute preventive against the disease, and will make the players immune from its ravages.

JACKIE CLARK, AUSTRALIAN SPEED
DEMON, READY FOR SIX DAY GRINDJACKIE CLARK

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Jackie Clark is expected to cut a big figure in the six day bicycle race which starts in Madison Square Garden one minute after midnight on the morning of Dec. 8. The little Australian speed demon always has been a picturesque and interesting contender in the annual big race, and many of the followers of the game will pin their faith and dollars on him to be close up at the finish.

Although Clark's colors have repeatedly been lowered by Frank Kramer in track races, it is agreed that over the long route Clark has few equals. In all the six day events that he has entered he has been right up among the leaders, and from the start of the match he is sure to set a killing pace. Clark has been training faithfully for the big show and has confided to his friends that he never was in better physical condition.

foreign countries. When the Comiskey party sailed from home each manager had 11 players under his control. The American tour netted a total of $57,210 for the 31 games played, or an average of more than $3000 per game. The White Sox team in the foreign games will be made up of Pitches Scott; Benz and Leverenz; Catchers Bliss and Daly; Sam Crawford, first base; Herman Schaefer, second base; Weaver, short stop; Dick Egan, third base; Tris Speaker, Steve Evans, Dely or Manager Callahan in the outfield.

McGraw's team will have Wittes, Danny Heane and Eber, a Western league recruit, for pitchers; Fry Wingo, catcher; Merkle, first base; Doyle, second base; Mike Donnan, shortstop; Hans Loberta, third base; Lee Magee, Jim Thorpe and Mike Donlin for the outfield.

"Bullet Jack" Thoney, one of the fastest outfielders who ever wore a spiked shoe, is again in condition and it was stated recently will play in either the International or American association next season. Thoney has been out of the game for a season, suffering with a bad arm. Jack stated recently that his arm feels better than in many seasons and from all indications will be in first class condition next year.

Current reports were to the effect that Jake Stahl, former manager of the Boston American league champion of 1913, would manage the Chicago team on the Federal league next season.

Stahl last night laughed when asked if there was any truth to the report. "It's the first I have heard of the matter," he said.

The Federal league appears to be making a desperate attempt to land competent managers for next season.

Roy Hartzell, Chance's clever utility player, will be retained next season and it is not improbable that he will win a regular place in the outfield. Hartzell could have been sold to the Boston Red Sox recently, as Jimmy McAleer said he could find a regular berth for him, but Chance would not listen to any kind of a proposition in view of this fact Chance will have four capable outfielders in Jimmy Walsh, Hartzell, Cook and Gilbooley, with Cree also a possibility. Chance intends to bank entirely on Williams, Zelder, Peckinpaugh, Malsel and Boone to look after the infield positions. When the P. L. comes east after the holidays he probably will put through deals to strengthen the New Yorks in the box and behind the bat.

It is announced that Fred Clarke has signed to manage the Pittsburghs again next season. The terms agreed upon were those offered by the club.

Ed Konetchy, the St. Louis Cardinals' big first baseman, returned to St. Louis following a month's hunting trip in Wisconsin. Konetchy reiterated the statement that he was through with the St. Louis club. His household effects have been put in storage and Konetchy insists that it is only a question of time when formal announcement is made of his transfer to some other club, presumably the New York Giants. Manager Miller, Huggins announced that he sold Charles O'Leary to the Los Angeles club. The sale of O'Leary, who was hurriedly secured from Indianapolis following Hauser's Injury, is taken as indicating that Hauser, laid up all of last season because of a bad knee will be in his old position next year.

Says the New York Sun: "Many players who have refused to sign contracts until the fraternity's demands have been acted upon are finding the road beset with obstacles. They are without money and are wondering how they can replenish their pocket-books. It has been customary at this time of the year to ask the club owners to advance money on next season's contracts in order to pay living expenses during the winter months. But under present conditions the players cannot ask for these favors and must get along as best they can. As time passes it is believed that some of the players will be forced to capitulate. The commission will not take up the 'fraternity's' demands until January and by that time it is thought the players will have become tired of hardship. It is possible that some of the stars will receive increased offers to sign in line and if they break loose from their organization others will follow."

So even modern high-priced players go broke like the old "rums," do they?

The bill of Louie Courtney, which was allowed against the Lawrence club amounts to $10 and was for salary, money for meals and for car fares. Courtney claimed 10 days' salary and also claimed that he was entitled to certain money, which he contended he had paid in meals and car fares. The claim was heard by the national board last week and the decision against the Lawrence club was made Saturday.

James C. McGill, owner of the Denver Western league baseball club, is after the Newark Club in the International league, according to a despatch from Newark received in Denver, Col.

Felder Jones denied today that he had negotiated with Brooklyn, although he admitted he had a talk with Charles Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn club, at the minor league meeting in Columbus.

"Ebbets made no no offer," said Jones. "You are too high priced a man for me" was his comment and I told him I would not want to get back into the game unless I obtained a big contract."

APPEAL FOR Y.M.C.A. FUND

President Bowen States Building May be Sold Unless About $40,000 be Raised Immediately

A week's campaign to raise $75,000 for the Y. M. C. A. building will be conducted early in December. The true situation concerning the new building is outlined in a circular letter issued by Frank A. Bowen, president of the association. The Connors Bros. company erected the building and has brought suit against the association to recover payment of its promissory note in the sum of $29,453.18, and unless this amount can be raised before Dec. 31 a sheriff's sale may be ordered. President Bowen's appeal to contributors to the original fund is as follows:

On July 25, 1913, the Connors Bros. company, the contractors who, as the lowest bidder, erected the Young Men's Christian Association building in Lowell, brought suit against the association to recover payment of its promissory note, dated March 18, 1912, in the sum of $29,453.18 for the unpaid balance due the contractor for work performed and materials furnished. Oct. 25th last, in the superior court in Lowell, a verdict in favor of the contractor was rendered on the note. Final judgment on this verdict will be entered Dec. 1st next, and as early as Dec. 31, 1913, the land and building of the association may be sold by the sheriff to satisfy the attachment heretofore made to secure payment of this judgment. The association is thus faced to face with the immediate loss of its property, as the contractor is aggressively enforcing his every legal right. To avert this public catastrophe, a mighty effort must instantly be made. In addition to the $29,453.18 due as above stated to the contractor, there are other valid and unpaid claims owed by the association on account of the new building and its appurtenances, amounting to $34,002.58, a total of $63,455.76. In its distress the association has attempted to raise the necessary fund to tide over this emergency by mortgaging its property but has been unable to do so.

The association has the deepest appreciation of your help in its memorable building fund campaign of 1907 and because of this help it now, in its hour of dire need, most reluctantly appeals to you again.

If you have not followed in detail the progress of the work on the new building you are likely to inquire what possible occasion there can be for so large a deficiency at this time. It is our wish to answer this question which you are most certainly entitled to ask, as categorically and as candidly as we know how. So far as you may desire to have before you actual figures showing in detail receipts and expenditures, we refer you to the Lowell newspapers of March 24, 1913, where a full financial statement was made. Or if you desire to examine still further, the records of the treasurer of the building fund, carefully vouched and competently kept and audited, showing in detail every receipt and every expenditure, are open to your inspection. When the building campaign was still a thing of the future, we were confronted with the question of how most efficiently to expend the fund which had been so splendidly raised. It was suggested by many good friends of the association that it would be wise to set aside a considerable proportion of the total as an endowment fund, but after mature consideration we concluded that the fund which had been entrusted to us was contributed for the purpose of erecting a building which, with its site, should represent the entire fund and not any fraction thereof. In this regard our obligation was larger than any other of the kind, for the association works; the campaign had been widely heralded as "A Great Civic Movement" and our duty, we felt, was city-wide. At the outset of our problem we were fortunate enough to obtain for $55,000 (the net sale price of the old Hurd street property), a site representing an assessed valuation of between $50,000 and $55,000 and situated so as to form an attractive addition to a "Civic Center." And for the reasons above indicated, we proceeded to erect on that site a building which should, when completed, represent the remainder of the available fund. Without reflecting thereon, we desire to emphasize our strong conviction that for every dollar which we have expended on that building we have received in return a dollar's worth. The building is from every point of view a complete success; its architectural arrangements are possible a very economical administration—indeed—to refer to but one feature of many—the 58 dormitories, comprising the two upper stories, are all occupied by about 100 young men, out of a total membership of about 1500, and now yield a rental of close to $500 a week toward the maintenance of the work. Our dormitories thus constitute a most practical endowment.

So far as operating expenses were concerned, we were enabled at the end of the six months' period ending Oct. 1st, which we believe is fairly indicative of the future, to show a small surplus after payment of all bills. It is an easy thing to prophesy after the event; and if the difficulties, unforeseen and unforeseeable, which have beset the work, could have been foretold, the course of the committee in charge of the undertaking would perchance have been modified. We cannot, however, emphasize too strongly that every dollar of the fund was expended by a committee of capable men, giving most lavishly of their time and experience in a way that seemed at that time best for the ultimate welfare of the association and of the city of Lowell.

About one-half of the entire deficiency is attributable to the foundation. It had been expected, after a thorough examination as conditions permitted, that the old foundations of Huntington hall could be used for the new structure; on excavating and uncovering these foundations, they were found wholly unsuitable and hence it was necessary to put new foundations under the entire building at a large additional and unexpected cost. Similarly, it had been planned to support the interior columns on the canal arch; on excavating and uncovering this arch, uncertainty as to the strength thereof arose. Your committee, feeling that it was building for all time, secured the services of one of the leading engineering firms in New England. This firm declared that to insure the safety of our building no additional weight should be imposed upon the arch. It therefore became necessary to throw across the canal great reinforced concrete beams at very heavy expense. Against the cost of waterproofing to prevent leakage from the canal was much heavier than anticipated; it had been expected that the swimming pool could be built upon an earth foundation, but this also, upon excavation, was found to be impracticable and special concrete foundations and additional reinforcements of the pool itself became necessary. The basement of the main building was found to be inadequate to accommodate all the necessary equipment and an extension through solid ledge, at very heavy expense, was the only solution. Other items of less moment, ascribable to the underground work, might be cited, but the above are perhaps sufficient to explain the general nature of the problems met and surmounted for all time but at extremely heavy expense.

The other half of the deficiency is practically a repetition of the above, although the items are more scattered and hence a recapitulation within brief limits is more difficult. The fund itself chink through inability either to secure collections of some $7500. A mortgage of $14,000 on the old Hurd street property of the association had to be cleared off before that site was sold. Adequate, though simple furnishings and equipment were found to cost $3000 more than it had been originally planned to provide; compulsory direct-indirect heating for certain portions of the building added over $2000; installation of water connections and a filtration plant enabling the use of canal water in the swimming pool and shower baths cost nearly $2000 and will save almost that amount yearly in water bills; the properly stringent requirements of local and state building authorities for a structure so largely used as a dormitory, and the installation of a sprinkler system which will mean greatly reduced insurance rates, entailed heavy additional and unexpected disbursements. Many other items might be set forth, every one of which we believe would appeal to you as not only warranted but as essential to the safety and efficiency of the work. We do not state this by way of apology for, as above indicated, every expenditure was incurred only after careful consideration and upon the decision of the committee that the citizens of Lowell would reap a substantial and adequate benefit as a result.

The association hopes and believes that upon consideration of the facts you will recognize the difficulty of the situation and the explanation of the large debt which resulted therefrom. But even if you feel disposed to criticize anything that has been done in connection with the construction, we hope that you will also recognize that it would be unfair and unfortunate if any consequences of that criticism should be visited upon the association itself. You would no doubt agree that the city of Lowell cannot for one instant afford to be without a Young Men's Christian Association, and yet that will be the result if some solution, if some settlement of its valid debts cannot be achieved.

Another Campaign Coming
A week's campaign will, early next month, be inaugurated to raise $75,000 and the building saved. Details of this campaign will shortly be furnished you. We are sending you this preliminary letter in the hope that you will carefully consider its contents and that at the proper time you may again give us your enthusiastic and generous support.

Yours sincerely,
Lowell Young Men's Christian Association,
F. A. Bowen, President.

NEW FLAG OF IRELAND

GOLDEN SCURBEST ON A BLUE GROUND LIKELY TO BE CHOSEN, ALTHOUGH OTHERS SUGGESTED

What flag shall Ireland fly? This is a question that is again being discussed as the time draws nearer for the final passage of the home rule bill.

Probably no country has had more national flags than Ireland, so that of old-time flags the range of choice is by no means restricted. The most ancient, without doubt, is the "Spear and Serpent," said to commemorate the curing by Moses of an ancestor of Milesius who had been bitten by a snake. Then there is the golden harp upon a blue ground, emblem of Fionn Mac Cumhall's Fenians (Milesians). Blue was always Ireland's national color until 1798, when the United Irishmen, to signify the blending of north and south, evolved a national color of the hue formed by the amalgamation of blue and orange, namely, green.

Another flag is that which Cromwell's soldiers are reputed to have seen when fighting the Kernes, a red cross upon a golden ground. Opinions as to whether such was ever a national emblem or not are divided, many people believing it to have been the arms of an insurgent commander.

The three golden crowns upon a blue ground is another emblem which has not been overlooked. The design appears today in the arms of Munster, and the three crowns are said to typify the triple kingdoms of Desmond, Thomond and Desmond. Another flag was the emblem of Ireland from 1170 until 1547, when Henry VIII of England substituted the harp for the three crowns, the reason being that Henry was anxious that the three crowns should not be confused with the triple dove of the pope, with whom, at that juncture Henry was not upon the best of terms.

Thus it comes about that the harp, which is deemed so typically Irish, was imposed upon Ireland by an English king; but had not the United Irishmen, although they decoreated the harp in 1798, adopted it as their emblem, and the Grattan's parliament recognized the harp, although they did not the green ground, it is hardly likely that the average Irishman today would regard it as other than an upstart burgee.

Still another national device to be considered is the "Lamb Device of Erin," the Red Hand of Ireland, which, upon a white ground, was borne by Shane and Hugh O'Neill's armies that defeated Queen Elizabeth's generals. The early hours of the 19th century saw Ireland indelged with the St. Patrick's Cross, a red saltire upon a white ground. What St. Patrick had to do with it nobody can say, but some emblem of the other had got to be incorporated in the British flag upon the passing of the act of union, and so the heralds did the rest. Wherever they got the red saltire from is not known, but there is no doubt, however, that it was borrowed from the arms of Trinity college, Dublin, which body had in turn borrowed it from the Fitzgerald family.

In all probability Ireland will adopt the sunburst upon a blue ground, the chief reasons being its antiquity, its distinctly Irish origin, and its symbolism of Ireland rising to take her proper place among the nations.

But, come what may, the ground of the new flag is going to be blue. The Sinn Féiners are resolved upon that, and that that flag's material shall not be silk or cotton, but green Irish linen.—London correspondence in New York Sun.

THE LUMBER INDUSTRY

IS GREATEST IN AMERICA, ACCORDING TO E. T. ALLEN, OF PORTLAND, ORE.

According to E. T. Allen of Portland, Oregon, lumbering is the greatest American manufacturing industry and is exceeded only by agriculture in supplying the essentials of life. In an address before the conservation congress at Washington, Mr. Allen called attention to the comparative lack of the public's knowledge of the economics of subjects which touch each individual so closely as forestry and lumbering.

Mr. Allen is forester of the western forestry and conservation association, an organization of lumbermen whose principal activity is the protection of their holdings from fire. A large part of the association's efforts are directed to making the public realize the loss which each individual suffers, directly and indirectly, from forest destruction. In this connection he pointed out that forest preservation can not be conducted wholly by business managers or boards of directors. "It is a mutual conservative enterprise," he said, "requiring daily participation by all concerned. The American forest policy must exist not because a few say it should, but because a majority of citizens understand what is needed and why it is needed and put the policy into effect."

The only reason the average citizen does not understand the importance of forestry and does not give it the same active and intelligent interest that he gives his home town problems is that he can not see it so clearly. The very immensity and importance of the lumber industry causes its several processes of growing, manufacturing, and distributing to be conducted separately, and this contributes to the public mind. Different communities are different parts of the whole process, but get no thorough grasp of forest economics.

"In many a little German village the whole community sees the forest grown, cut, manufactured, and used. Those who do not actually participate serve or supply those who do. Their forestry needs no propaganda. The people do not not understand the need for it any more than do propagandists for raising wheat and making bread."

"We talk too much about forests as though they were an end in themselves. We might just as well talk only of land when trying to improve agricultural conditions, or of water when urging the protection and propagation of food fishes. The average citizen must be brought to consider all forest products

tion and use of any necessary crop, obviously to be encouraged and stabilized on a permanent basis profitable to all concerned. Whether he is a private citizen or a law maker serving private citizens, he must be familiar with all the factors. As long as he thinks an uncut forest is forestry, and that such forestry is good and all lumbering bad, there will be no real progress. There is little trouble in passing laws for the protection and advance of agriculture, horticulture, and dairying, because people understand the governing conditions of these industries and see the point of such laws readily. To succeed in the United States for forestry must be so closely allied with lumbering that neither forester, lumberman, nor public makes any distinction. This being true, the need is to teach the principles of the business from start to finish. Every process, its cost, and its relation to other processes and to the final price of the product should be common knowledge. The education of the public along these lines is the greatest need in forestry today."

LETTER FROM MEXICO

Young Spanish Lady Writes to Miss Bolton With Whom She Studied in Boston

Miss Mary C. Bolton, 42, Forrest street, leader of the ladies' orchestra at Page's restaurant, has received a letter from a Spanish lady now in Mexico with whom she studied music in Boston. It gives a vivid description of the scenes witnessed in fighting at Matamoros. It is as follows:

I am making a great effort to collect my ideas in order to write you, not an interesting letter by any means, but at least a comprehensible one. I have lost my wits, my energy to think, and everything else that made me a rational being. I cannot yet realize that I am alive, sound and safe, with no holes through my body with not a broken bone, not even a scratch, while all around me I saw the poor fellows fall squirming, writhing in the agony of death, crushed by the anguish and rages of their mortal wounds. Why did the Lord let me live to see such tortures? Why didn't one of those millions of bullets put an end to my miserable, unhappy life? My eyes and soul are dry from shedding all the tears that were in me. I am sick because I cannot cry. I am so frightened, nervous that the steps of any one out on the sidewalk or the slightest noise will make me shiver and shudder. I want to die rather than ever again go through such awful and terrifying experiences.

You don't understand what I am saying. You cannot understand what makes me talk so strangely. Just let us change places and tell me if it isn't enough to kill you to see all your boy friends and all the familiar folks falling dead in heaps, to see their faces distorted with the agonies of death, the blood flowing from their wounded breasts to see a fellow's head blown off by a shell and watch his brains fly up in the air and stick to the walls as if it were a piece of soft mud. Then when the uproar of war is quieting down, when the whistling of bullets and the thundering of cannon, the roaring of a burning city have left you half crazy with terror and dread, wondering in your idleness, how you could escape alive, being right in the clutch of death itself. Then you drink your last dose watching the street wagons picking up your dead friends, piling them up in the wagons like logs and carrying the bodies to be thrown in one big common ditch or to be burned in a great big pile like burning trash. Could you endure the sight of all this without half losing your mind?

Well, all this I have told you and a whole lot more terrible things that I cannot describe. I saw with my own eyes and I am still amazed at my own strength. You must have read about the war in the papers, and you must have heard that our great and good president was murdered last February and the murderers grabbed the presidency and the highest public posts were assumed by their criminal backers. This caused general indignation throughout the country. The people are fighting to avenge the death of the one to whom they had given their love and their own free vote. And not only was the killing of our president an insult to the Mexican people, but they feel we are disgraced and dishonored before the world, if we consent to be governed by the horde of barbarous murderers who are now holding the reins of the country.

The mayor of this city of Matamoros with all his staff, all the public employees and the militia stationed here by the acting (illegal) government, were of course taking up the cause of the one to whom they had given their love and honor, those who are called "Constitutionalists" because they want a lawful government, one formed in accordance with the laws of our constitution, were forced by the above mentioned mayor, his staff the army and volunteers to such cause. As attack the city and take it by main force. Oh! I tell you I do never hope to see another war like this. This town was so pretty and

SECOND FAMILY ACCIDENT

Sister-in-Law of Late Editor of "Black Cat" Was Injured in Auto Crash

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—Robert J. Umbreit of Washington, D. C., who is in this city making preparations for the cremation of the remains of his brother, H. D. Umbreit, former editor and publisher of "Black Cat," received notice early last evening that his wife had met with a serious auto accident at Hartford, Conn., when on her way to church yesterday morning.

As a result of her injuries, which are not serious, though not necessarily fatal, she was removed to the St. Francis' hospital, Hartford.

With Mrs. Umbreit at the time of the accident were her nephew, Col. C. L. F. Robinson of Hartford and Newport, president of the Colt Patent Firearms Manufacturing company, Mrs. Robinson and their two children, Elizabeth Alden Robinson and Francis Robinson, and the chauffeur, Arthur T. Chapin.

The injured ones were riding in a limousine and had just ascended a slight incline on Asylum street, at the intersection of Woodland street, when a runaway, owned and operated by Martin Van Buren Stevens of the Travelers' Insurance company, collided with the rear wheels of the limousine, upsetting it, the roof and the sides, with their heavy plate glass, crashing down on the five occupants.

St. Francis' hospital, only one block away and there the injuries, bruised and bleeding, were carried and attended by physicians.

cheerful, while now it is all desolation and misery, for nearly everybody has fled to the other side of the Rio Grande and only those who couldn't leave their homes stayed here to witness the horrors of war, the defeat and death of our own folks, the destruction of our houses by bomb explosions and the burning and the siege of many abandoned homes.

Everything is dead here. We send for our daily food to Brownsville for there is not a store here, everything is closed up. We haven't had postal service here for four months and now I am going to try to get this safely to the other side, (Brownsville, Tex.) Please excuse the insipidness and dullness of this letter for I have nothing to talk about now but war, death, misery and hunger. We are very poor now and will be till He who is Almighty and kind provides for us again. I wish I had stayed up in your peaceful country. After some personal inquiries the letter concludes with expressions of regard for Miss Bolton and is signed

DOCTOR GIVES WARNING

OF MEDICINE "ADS." DECEIT IN FREE PRESCRIPTIONS ADVERTISED IN PAPERS

Union Bureau, 40 Wyatt Bldg., Washington, D. C.
 In sending out a warning to the public against the deceit that is being practised by certain unscrupulous patent medicine concerns, Dr. Alsberg, chief of the bureau of chemistry, is obliged to acknowledge that a scheme has been found to beat the pure food and drug act. The trick is to make persons believe that they are getting a regular physician's prescription for nothing, which they can have filled at their own pharmacy, when the fact is that the prescription in effect simply calls for the patent medicine.

Both the persons getting the prescriptions and the druggists are imposed upon by this trick, but Dr. Alsberg admits that there is no way of reaching the perpetrators under the federal statute. In a bulletin just issued by the Department of Agriculture the following information is given about the way the trick is worked:

In a number of publications the department finds advertisements are appearing which state that the man or woman whose name is attached was saved from death from one of a number of serious diseases through some wonderful prescription given to him or

THROW AWAY YOUR EYE-GLASSES

A FREE PRESCRIPTION You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye-strain or other eye-weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully, now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Opton, fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one Opton tablet and allow to dissolve. With this liquid, bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Stevens was injured but slightly and Chapin escaped with a wrenched back. At the hospital last night Col. Robinson was reported as comfortable. Five stitches were taken in glass lacerations in his scalp, and the muscles of the neck were strained.

Mrs. Robinson is seriously hurt with possible internal injuries, a fractured rib, scalp wounds and suffers extreme pain. Elizabeth, the 18-year-old daughter, suffers from sprained back and painful glass cuts about the head. The 10-year-old boy, Francis, sustained a deep laceration near the right ear which required four stitches to close and one of the facial arteries in the left cheek was severed.

Mrs. Robinson's aunt, Mrs. Umbreit of Washington, who went to Hartford Saturday, on a visit, had four stitches taken in a long scalp wound and the ligaments of her left arm are strained. Her head is cut and as she complains of severe pains, it is thought she may be internally injured.

The hospital physicians reported last night that they believed that all the injured would eventually recover, though all were suffering more or less pain, because of the number of cuts caused by the jagged glass.

Robert J. Umbreit, when seen last night at the home of his late brother, Hermann D. Umbreit, said that he had been notified that his wife was not as seriously injured as to necessitate his going at once to Hartford.

her by a regular physician of unusual skill, who will not allow his name to be used because of medical ethics. The advertisement states that the writer feels it to be a duty to communicate this invaluable recipe to humanity in order to save them from similar ills. The offer is then made to supply this prescription without charge to anyone who will address a postcard to the advertiser. People who do not stop to wonder who is to pay for the advertisement and the return postage are caught by this fraud and ask for the prescription. In due course a regular prescription is returned. This contains a number of ordinary ingredients and then under a technical name will call for a large proportion of some patent medicine or proprietary drug. The recipient takes this to a drug store to be filled and the druggist finds that he has to buy some of this patent preparation in order to fill it. He therefore, has to order a large package or bottle of it and to make a profit must charge the customer a good stiff price for filling the prescription. The customer, of course, gets what is in effect simply a patent medicine, which, save that it bears a druggist's label and a prescription number, is the same as a patent medicine sold under the maker's own label and in the maker's own bottle.

The government cannot reach these people under either the food and drug act or the postal laws because the scheme is so planned as to evade government laws. The deception and misrepresentation appears in advertisements, circulars, letters, etc., separate from the package and the medicines are seldom sent through the mails. The best the departments can do, therefore, is to warn the people to be particularly suspicious of those who spend money for advertisements, space, postage and letter writing, seemingly out of their love for humanity. In all of these cases there is a profit-making scheme back of the seeming philanthropy.

SAVINGS BANK INSURANCE

The closing of the fifth full year of Savings Bank Life Insurance in Massachusetts marks an anniversary of an institution designed by the Commonwealth for the citizens of Massachusetts.

This is a movement to carry on a life insurance business for the residents of Massachusetts, only, under the guidance of the state and with the assistance of employers of labor who provide means in their factories for their employees to take policies and pay their premiums through the paymasters, who remit monthly to the bank. There are over two hundred such employers who have established these agencies and receive no money for their services.

There are four savings banks doing business, and the insurance departments were established:

Whitman Savings bank, in June, 1908.

People's Savings bank of Brockton, November, 1908.

Berkshire County Savings bank, City, 1911.

City Savings bank of Pittsfield, July, 1912.

There are also seventeen other savings banks and trust companies acting as agencies. The state's direction is centralized in the state actuary's office and the state medical director's office.

There were issued by all banks during the year ended October 31, 1913, 2391 policies representing $960,211 of insurance. There were also 36 policies received, for $12,660 of insurance. The net income is $122 policies for $21,937 of insurance. There were in force last four banks on October 31, 1913, 954 policies for $2,152,508 of insurance, with annuity additions of $16,329.

HELP THE INVENTORS

Manufacturers are almost daily in receipt of communications from inventors, enclosing patent specifications covering an invention aimed to improve their product. It is a mistake on the part of manufacturers to view such inventors as imposters. The position that an "outsider" cannot know more about our own business than ourselves is a fallacy that has no place in modern industrial management. If it were necessary to prove that such a position is a fallacy, thousands of inventions could be cited whereby improvements have been made in processes, new processes were first conceived in the minds of men not even remotely connected with the industries most vitally affected and benefited thereby.

HOW DO YOU LIKE 'EM?

YOUR EGGS, WE MEAN—THE SPANISH BOILS HIS A MINUTE AND THEN DRINKS THEM DOWN

How do you eat your eggs? To a stranger the manner in which you eat this part of your breakfast may indicate your nationality. Nearly every nationality has some special way of cooking and serving eggs for breakfast, and quite unconsciously, the average person's order of eggs will reveal his nationality.

Americans are said to prefer poached eggs. The foreigner when traveling who sees a man order a couple of eggs poached on toast almost immediately jumps to the conclusion that only an American could have given the order. Hard boiled eggs, served whole, are another American dish, and "devil dogs," where the yolk is mixed with various condiments is strictly American. Fried eggs, too, are more common in America than elsewhere.

Hard boiled eggs are eaten in Germany, too, but they are usually prepared in a glass, chopped with butter, salt and pepper. The German likes his soft boiled eggs very soft, indeed, and breaks the contents into a china cup, eating them from the cup. The "egg cup" is an invention of Germany, but the German eggs are large enough to contain several eggs. "Soft eggs" are eaten in Germany, too. The average Englishman likes his egg boiled for three and a half minutes.

The business here is not conducted like the business of a regular piano store where they are expected to make a profit on each piano. We don't let any piano loaf around our salesrooms. A sacrifice tag is clipped on, which on the face of it reads for the price marked on the tag. Price doesn't mean anything at all in these sales. We want none and we give none. THE CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL

Whatever considerations may prompt the municipal council to choose or reject any site for the contagious hospital, it is very evident that if the protests of the people who live near any prospective site are listened to, and heeded we can never have a contagious hospital for no site could be found, within the city limits at least, which would not arouse strong opposition from the residents of the vicinity. It follows, therefore, that if we are to have such an institution eventually, the city council must disregard opposition of this nature.

This does not mean that protests from the section favored by the municipal authorities or the state board of health should be entirely ignored, but that they be disregarded if after investigation they are found baseless. It is to be expected that there will be a great deal of opposition of a merely sentimental nature, but here sentiment should be met by matter of fact reasoning. It may hurt the feelings of a few people to erect a hospital required by law as well as by civic necessity, but the good to be derived by the city as a whole far more than offsets the comparatively slight annoyance to the few. If it is certain that the hospital will not affect the health or interests of the citizens in its immediate vicinity—and this can be definitely ascertained—no sectional opposition should be permitted to prevent its erection.

Undoubtedly the choice of the state board of health, which must be credited with all fairness and disinterestedness in reaching a decision, will be of paramount importance in aiding the municipal council to reach a just decision. We have a great deal of room in Pawtucketville and in our other suburbs, the choice of which cannot be reasonably objected to, and if it is shown that the location of the proposed institution in one or other of these sections will constitute no menace to health, the hospital should be erected regardless of the mistaken objection of the few which is as baseless as it is inevitable.

WARNED TO REMAIN APART

A humorous court incident but one that has its lesson, is told in the Boston papers of Tuesday. In the Malden district court a few weeks ago, several members of an Everett gang which had given considerable trouble were brought before Judge Bruce, who, after considering the case fully, decreed that they be given their liberty on one condition: they were not to eat, sleep, or walk together in future. Two members disregarded the warning of the judge and after being seen together on Sunday last were again arrested and brought before the court.

Despite the edict of the judge these young men declared that they would again chum together when released, and in all probability they will. The sentence of the Malden court is not a very effective method of dealing with hoodlums, but it is very useful in calling to our attention that the real evil of the lawlessness of young men grows out of the gang spirit. The members of the Everett gang would stop at no excess when together, but apparently the judge thought that if they could be kept apart, they would reform. The weak point in this method of dealing with juvenile crime is that when it is being enforced after they have become obnoxious to the public, it is too late. If the gang which Judge Bruce strove to break up were broken up a few years ago, its members would not now find themselves in court. Police officers in Everett and Lowell and elsewhere should watch critically any group of boys that shows signs of early hoodlums and strive to break up such a group before it develops into a real menace to the community.

LICKING POSTAGE STAMPS

Since the order of the postmaster-general went into effect permitting postoffice clerks to affix stamps to packages during the heavy Christmas rush, the matter has been referred to almost constantly in the press, and while some are inclined to favor the innovation, the greater number seem to waste a great deal of sympathy on the apparently abused individual who, it is alleged, will be compelled to lick stamps daily until his system becomes saturated with fish glue. Those who so readily take the part of the postoffice clerk forget that the "licking" of stamps has long ago been abandoned by all except a few thoughtless people.

Precisely the working out of the new system during the holiday rush will have a permanent effect, for if it is seen that the innovation saves time and counts for general efficiency, it may be permanently adopted. Stamps frequently fall off letters during transmission, or are put on in such a way as to cause considerable trouble, and though the affixing of them by the postoffice clerks will mean additional work in the first instance it may mean a saving of labor ultimately. There will be no more licking of stamps in any up-to-date postoffice, according to the order of Mr. Burtleson.

PROMISED TO OBEY

One incident of the White House wedding which has aroused considerable comment was the insertion of a clause in the marriage service at the request of the bride by which she promised to obey her husband. The promise of itself is not by any means unusual in marriage services, but of late more brides have attracted attention by rebelling against it than have requested its insertion in a service which does not usually include it. This would seem to indicate that the gifted daughter of the president belongs to the old-fashioned group which believes that no good can come from empty assertions of wifely independence. She has of course seen from the life of her distinguished father that in all walks of life and in all functions of government, nothing can be accomplished except by obedience to authority, and she is sensible enough to perceive that what is true of the college, the state and the nation is true of the home. Even the woman who refuses to say "obey" when getting married will admit that there cannot be two heads to a home or any establishment, but she and her husband may differ materially as to which is the head. Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre has admitted to the world that the head of her home is her husband. The fact may be consoling to a few men whose wives refused to say "obey" and acted accordingly.

GOVERNOR GLYNN'S TASK

There is a great deal of skepticism among the friends as well as the foes of Governor Glynn concerning his attempt to put the political management of the state of New York on a safe business basis, but it must occur to an unbiased observer that if he fails it will be because the people there refuse to support him. The new chief executive has started out to stop misgovernment, and his past activity and enviable record would justify the assumption that before he steps out of the chair at Albany he will have aroused the public conscience to the evils of the gross political abuses which are rampant in the state of New York. It is not surprising to one familiar with the past of Mr. Glynn that he is striving to introduce business methods into government, for his life has been a business success first and a political success afterwards. May the same be true of his term as governor of New York.

FOREST NOTES

Eastern manufacturers are looking to the northwest for hardwoods for the manufacture of clothes-plins. Birch is particularly wanted.

The Panama canal commission has requested the forest service to inspect the timber being cleared at Seattle and Tacoma for the commission.

The net receipts from the national forests of Washington and Oregon during the past four months amounted to $115,626, an increase of 17 per cent. over receipts for the same period last year.

Of the two million trees to be planted on the national forests of Montana and northern Idaho during the present fiscal year, one-half have been set out this fall and the rest will be put in next spring.

A thoroughly up-to-date sawmill with a capacity of 600,000 board feet a day has been erected on the south coast of Mindanao Island. It is of American make throughout, and uses the modern bandsaw. This is only one of several such mills in the Philippines.

Seen and Heard

What does it profit a man to find a dandelion blossom in November? The girls want American Beauty roses now.

Even the encyclopedia that is right up to date is likely to be behind the times before you get it paid for on the installment plan.

Professor Munsterberg says that women are not persuaded by argument. Certainly not. But how they fall for flattery!

If a girl is nervous on a windy corner, there is some reason for thinking that she is not perfectly contented with herself.

It is a question which is the biggest bore, the man who insists on telling you the story of his past, or the man who insists on telling you the story of his future.

If a fat woman is pretty, she is only plump.

Once in a hundred times the man who orders lean pork with his baked beans at the restaurant may get it.

Is the man who regularly has his hands manuevered by a fair artist in a barber shop more likely to succeed in business than the man who cleans his finger nails himself?

A young man should not feel too much flattered because a girl has stuck his photograph in the rim of her mirror. What he should ask himself is: When she goes to the mirror, does she ever look at the photograph?

A navy officer seldom sees any reason why an army officer should have more pay.

Just because your next-door neighbor appears out proudly with a new automobile, you can't be perfectly sure that he doesn't owe the storeman anything.

When a man unaccustomed to the ocean starts out on a long voyage and before he is out of sight of land heaves a doleful sigh, that is generally only the beginning.

In a business way, the baldheaded barber sets other men a very bad example.

When a man says "No," he generally means no, and so does a woman, sometimes.

If the average man of fifty could have a dollar for every hour he has wasted, he would be pretty nearly independent.

People as a rule are not nearly so good at initiative as they are at referendum.

It takes quite a while for a man to get so accustomed to wearing evening dress that he doesn't put up his hand once in a while to make sure that his necktie isn't coming off.

If a stingy man ever is persuaded to give fifty cents grudgingly to charity, he takes more credit to himself than the liberal man who cheerfully gives twenty dollars.

Some young men are troubled because they find it so hard to propose, and other young men because they find it so hard not to.

Many a man who thinks he has his mind made up can be persuaded easily by proper argument.

Second thoughts are best, they say, but third and fourth thoughts are sometimes even better still.

The man who has got to be fifty-five years old and has never been summoned to sit on the jury ought not to be too jubilant. He may get his at the next drawing.

When a man is continually telling what an honest man he is, watch your pocketbook.

A confirmed old bachelor once defined a flirt in a scorching epigram that is still remembered.

"A flirt," he said, "is a rose from which everybody takes a petal; the thorns remain for the future husband."

PALLIABLE

Although his collar button dropped, he didn't say a word.

When he got soap into his eyes, no expostive was heard.

He didn't slip, although his ball rolled by the seventh hole.

And when his rival cut him out, he showed great self-control.

The night the furnace fire went out, he didn't seem to mind.

When he stepped on the baby's bank, his language was refined.

But when on sprouting wings it seemed as if he soon would soar.

His automobile tires blew out. And then at last he swore.

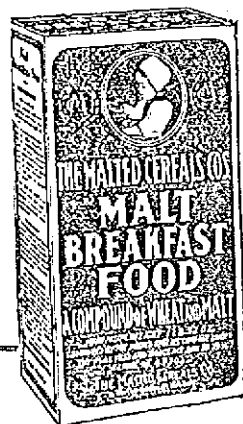

—Somerville Journal.

An absent-minded young man came into the grocery store with his baby on one arm and a kerosene can on the other.

He set the can on the counter and gently: "Sit there a moment, dear."

Then, holding the baby out to the dazed clerk, he said: "A gallon of kerosene in this please!"

has shot all kinds of ducks, from the purple head to the wooden head and a shot at the last named species won him great fame at Nantuxet pond a few days ago. Mr. Landry was enjoying a day at the pond and looking out toward the upper end of that pretty little sheet of water he was heard to exclaim that he wished he had a gun. Thomas Hoban was one of the party and he told Dennis that there was a gun in his automobile. It didn't take Dennis long to connect with the gun and very quickly did he level it on the "ducks" at the upper end of the pond. Dennis let go both barrels and one of the ducks toppled over. Dennis set out by boat to get the duck but discovered before he got there that he had been shooting at a decoy duck that one of the campers had set out the day before. The joke was on "Denny" of course, but he filled the wooden duck full of lead and that was some shooting.

THE SYSTEM

When fellows come around and start to criticize you, and bring fault concerns you and all things you do. When they suggest improvements and point out where you're lame. And try to give you pointers on your own particular game. Don't stop to argue with them for your cue is to stand pat. Jes' do the best that you kin and let it go at that.

When fellows tell you that you ought to spend a lot of dough, and bust into society and meet folks you should know. When they come around and tell you that you're way behind the game. And that the life you're leading is too commonplace and tame. Don't get excited and go on a social climbing bid. Spend what you can afford to spend and let it go at that.

When folks come around an tell you that you're too big for your town. And that the life you're leading is too commonplace and tame. Don't get excited and go on a social climbing bid. Spend what you can afford to spend and let it go at that.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

AN EMPTY TREASURY
Providence Tribune: As the Mexican treasury is known to be empty it is possible that when President Huerta gave that diplomatic reception for which the caterer's bill was twenty thousand dollars he transmitted his instructions to the caterer through a file of colliers.

CRUEL WORDS
Lowiston Sun: Looks like that man Roosevelt is giving Lincoln a black eye down in South America. Roosevelt is the man who seized Panama, and gloried in it; and now he is telling them down there that he and his new party are applying the principles of Lincoln. The Roosevelt-Lincolnism smells about as sweet as the Carranza constitutionalism.

ON INTERVENTION
Worcester Post: Out of 20 governors replying to a New York paper on the subject, just one, in Texas, was armed intervention in Mexico. Two, the Idaho and West Virginia, were in favor of it. The rest of the less than half that will say anything, either declare themselves utterly opposed to intervention or announce their intention to support any action President Wilson may take.

BOSTON STREETS
Portland Express: Boston streets are narrow, laid out regardless of any civic scheme and the pedestrian there finds life an unending jostle. Yet after all is not much of the charm of the Hub due to its very quaintness of design, to the hundred and one apparently foolish little alleys by which the initiated can save miles of distance in a day's journey? Boston laid off in a systematic sequence of squares wouldn't be Boston at all.

THE OPEN SEASON
Lynn Telegram: Whether the fact that 1500 deer were killed during the six days open season in this state, which closed at dark Saturday night, or the fact that only four accidents to hunters were reported, is more commendable is a question. The law which prohibited shooting with rifles or revolvers undoubtedly had its effect on the number of accidents, but it evidently did not decrease the number of deer which were killed. According to the estimates of the fish and game commissioners the number of deer killed this year will exceed the record of last year by several hundred, but the number of accidents to the hunters was very small.

A CONUNDRUM
Salem News: Why automobiles should be limited to a speed of 20 or 25 miles on some of the state highways, while motorcycles are suffered to tear along the very same highways at the rate of 40, 50 and even 60 miles an hour, is a conundrum for a lot of people who do not buy gasoline or run a car.

RIGID SHOULDERS INDICATE AGE

"If you want to look young, do not let your shoulders get stiff," says a woman who likes to look youthful and knows how to do it. "Flexibility of expression and pose is the hall mark of youth."

"Many women in their desire for an erect carriage think they have achieved it by holding up their shoulders and holding them hoisted with relentless persistence. Why have a stiff dignity of pose when one can have a graceful dignity?"

"To keep your shoulders young, try to keep your mind young by not letting it worry needlessly, or think over intensely."

"The mind affects the shoulders and they affect the mind. If you cannot stop thinking too seriously, or worrying, move your shoulders and arms about a bit, let your shoulders fall into place easily and you will see that at once your mind is rested."

"Don't worry about your household cares while you are attending to them as most women do, accomplishing them with knit brow and stiff shoulders. Decide what you have to do and then just do it with easy mind and easy pose."

"Thus you keep your face from acquiring set expressions that soon age it by robbing it of its life and giving it a lot of unnecessary wrinkles. You also keep your shoulders from that inflexibility that is a foe to youthful looks."

"Don't when you can go out shopping walk along with your mind stoically, or feverishly, set upon your errands. You can't do this without stiffening your shoulders."

"Stiffly held erect shoulders are barren enough in giving a woman the stam of age's rigidity, but stiffly held bent shoulders are a crime against beauty as well as beauty in cramping the lungs. Stooping is a habit that requires great will power to overcome. There is a dangerous tendency toward stooping shoulders in the present vogue for droop of pose brought about by the limp, picturesque cline that are now the fashion."

"Let your shoulders fall into natural easy lines and at once your arms thrill with life and do graceful things that enhance your beauty and preserve your youth. Stiff shoulders stiffen the whole figure. Years fall from rigid shoulders corrected of the fault."

U. S. MARINES MAY LAND AT ANY MOMENT IN MEXICO; BIG BATTLE DUE AT CHIHUAHUA

Rear-Admiral Fletcher and Rear-Admiral Boush are now on the scene off Tuxpan and Tampico, where the situation is so critical that marines may be landed at any time to protect the interests of Americans and other foreigners.

The oil people have exerted every influence they can think of to force the United States into landing forces because their property is believed to be in danger. While the rebels are holding Tuxpan and threatening Tampico the other branch of the Constitutional army is advancing on Chihuahua in the north of Mexico, and a big battle is looked for at any moment.

PURE FOOD CHIEF

Dr. Wiley Said to Be Considering Offer to Become Health Commissioner of New York City

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Friends of Dr. Harvey Wiley former federal pure food chief, admitted today that the doctor was considering an offer to become health commissioner of New York City. Dr. Wiley was away on his Virginia farm out of reach of telephone and telegraph, and expected to return to the city tonight. None of the doctor's friends knew whether he would take the place, but said he had conferred once with Mayor-elect John Purroy Mitchell and had been in correspondence with others in New York about the offer.

$10,000 LOSS

Fire Wrecks Building That Fell During its Construction

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—A loss of upwards of $100,000 was caused early today by fire which completely burned out four upper floors of the Livingston building at West Broadway and Third street. When this building was in course of construction in 1908 a wall of it fell into the street, killing 20 persons. Since that time the building has been visited by numerous fires, the origin of which have sometimes been unexplainable as was the case today.

The blaze was spectacular and so threatening that all of the occupants of the six story apartment house adjoining were ordered from their beds to the street.

SKELETON FOUND

Believed That it May be Body of Prof. Nichols of Simmons College

CONCORD, Nov. 28.—The finding of a man's body almost reduced to a skeleton in the woods near the site of Thoreau's famous habitation at Walden pond led to an investigation today of the possibility that it might be the body of Prof. A. B. Nichols of Simmons college. Professor Nichols, who headed the German department at the Boston institution, disappeared last September. The clothing on the body appeared to tally with a description of that worn by the professor when he was last seen. A revolver was clutched in one hand of the body and there was a bullet hole in the left temple. In a pocket was a gold watch. The body was discovered yesterday by two hunters.

FOUND DEAD IN ROOM

Thomas Curley Victim of Gas Poisoning on Hurd Street—Body Removed to Sister's Home

Thomas Curley, aged 35 years, was found dead in his room, 13 Hurd street, Wednesday evening, death being due to accidental gas poisoning. The body was removed to the rooms of Undertaker Saunders. Curley was employed by the municipal moth department and resided at 13 Hurd street. Wednesday evening he retired to his room shortly after 10 o'clock and at 10 o'clock he was found dead in a chair. It is believed that the gas radiator in his room was extinguished by the wind, while Curley was asleep in his chair. Dr. Fred Murphy was called in haste, but when he arrived he pronounced the man dead. Deceased is survived by a sister, Rosa; three daughters, May A., Mrs. Patrick Burns, Mrs. L. E. Davis; a son, Thomas. The body was later removed to the home of his sister, 29 Ash street.

TO ADOPT 15

Wife of Wealthy Chicago Man Has Original and Unique Plan

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop, wife of a wealthy business man, made known yesterday that she plans to become the mother, by adoption, of 15 children, each to represent one of the 15 most characteristic racial types.

Her plans became known when her representatives visited local orphan asylums in search of the nucleus of her future family. Mrs. Bishop later said that friends now touring Europe had been asked to find babies representing such races as she could not recruit in Chicago.

The unique family, according to Mrs. Bishop, will include a negro baby, an Indian, an Arab, a Japanese, a Malay, a German, a Chinese, a Scandinavian, an American, an Irish and babies representing several of the South American countries.

SCHOOL FOR SERVANTS
One hundred Washington women, banded together as the Housekeepers' Alliance, have undertaken to solve the servant question. To achieve this end, the alliance will establish in Washington a school for servants, where negro girls will be taught everything from the composition of a vacuum cleaner. Already money has been raised with which to begin operations, and a New Yorker whom the enterprise interests has promised to give the alliance substantial aid in conducting the institution once it is opened.

The teachers will be graduates in domestic science from Pratt Institute and Columbia university. They will have the cooperation of several experts in the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture and of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, whose wife was last year president of the Housekeepers' Alliance, and is now interested in the promoting of the school for servants. A number of women employed in the government departments at Washington and without home of their own will be invited to board at the school at reasonable terms. They will be a source of revenue to the school, but it is not for revenue only that they will be sought by the alliance as residents. They are needed to form the family and to create the home atmosphere. Both necessary factors in any case, really practical training for servants. For them the negro students will be taught to cook, sweep, dust, wash and iron, all in the most scientific and hygienic way.

Another source of revenue, you see.

Courses of work for the servants are now being mapped out by a committee. The negro women will be taught first of all the rules of personal hygiene and cleanliness. Promptness and a sense of responsibility are other virtues upon which the school will lay particular stress. Cooking, laundry work and housework will be taught according to the most advanced methods known to domestic science.

The school is designed primarily for negro servants. This is because Mrs. Alice E. Whitaker, president of the alliance, and other members believe that the logical solution of the negro problem is efficient industrial training, and that the logical solution of the housewife's problem is efficient colored help in any locality in which the negro is so generally employed for domestic service as in Washington. There will, however, be outside classes conducted at the school for white girls and women who wish to learn cooking and home management. Mrs. Whitaker believes that these classes will be patronized by the most representative women of Washington, as they are at a similar training school conducted primarily for negroes in Boston.

The negro pupils will receive their room, board and instruction absolutely free of charge. Further than this, members of the alliance will see to it that the workers do not lack for clothes while in training. Then employment will be secured for the graduates of the school.

The work accomplished at the capital by the Housekeepers Alliance shows what a body of women, working with earnest and concerted purpose, may accomplish for a community. This organization has cleaned up the markets of Washington. After a campaign of many months it has succeeded in convincing the hawkers of the city that the average housewife prefers to buy wrapped bread instead of loaves that have been exposed to the dust and dirt of the street.

Members of the alliance have benefited greatly by the maintenance exclusively for their own use of a "Reference Circle." This is a bureau of exchange conducted by a secretary paid by the alliance. Its object is to collect and place on file authentic references and records of servants. No woman in the organization ever employs a servant without consulting the secretary of the reference circle. In this way she is to a large extent protected against the inefficient and dishonest servant.

CONVICT SICK, GIVES NAME

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—An acute attack of appendicitis, suffered by an inmate of the Charlestown state prison, which necessitated yesterday the first surgical operation at the institution for years, has been the means of revealing to a prominent family that their son is a convict.

The man's names, real and assumed, are being carefully guarded by Warden Bridges, as is his custom. Beyond the statement that he has served 18 months and is 43 years old, the warden withhold all information.

SUFFRAGIST LEADERS ARE ABOUT TO URGE THEIR DEMANDS UPON HOUSE COMMITTEE

SUFFRAGISTS VISITING CAPITOL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—While the forty-fifth annual convention of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association is in session here from Nov. 25 to Dec. 5, inclusive, prominent leaders will press their demands for the universal suffrage amendment to the United States constitution. They will appear before the house committee on rules on Dec. 2 probably and will begin their fight for national suffrage. Among those who will appear is here pictured Mrs. Joseph Tilton Bowen, one of the Illinois leaders, who will have the honor of addressing the congressmen because of the recent suffrage victory in her state, to which she contributed in no small measure. Mrs. Patti R. Jacobs, Mrs. Helen Gardner and Mrs. Arthur Livermore are others who will take active part.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of the Benevolent Order of Buffaloes was held Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows temple with President J. E. Hughes in the chair. Several reports were read, including a very satisfactory account of the membership committee. It was voted to postpone the anniversary night until the middle of January as the supreme officers cannot be present on Dec. 19, the date first set. Several applications for membership were received, and there was speaking on the good of the order by Supreme Trustee Jesse D. Crook, Supreme Medical Examiner H. D. Plunkett and Treasurer W. W. Murphy.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Mansfield celebrated at Waltham—Former Was Born in South Chelmsford

WALTHAM, Nov. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mansfield celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday evening at their home, 42 Lawrence street. The couple were married at North Cambridge Nov. 26, 1863, by the Rev. J. A. Goodhue, and soon afterward came to Waltham to live.

Of their four children, three were present and assisted in receiving. Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield were among the pioneer residents of the Prospect Hill section and have lived 12 years in their present home.

Mr. Mansfield was born in South Chelmsford and his wife, who was Miss Elizabeth Friend, was born in Boston.

PREMIER ASQUITH FIRM

He Seeks Agreement by Consent But Will Not Back Down on Granting Home Rule

LEEDS, England, Nov. 28.—Premier Asquith's speech yesterday at the meeting of the National Liberal Federation, which was eagerly awaited because it was expected to throw light on the question of how far the negotiations for a development of home rule by agreement had been successful, disappointed those who were sanguine of a peaceful issue.

No Cabinet Division

The prime minister declared that there was no foundation for the statement that on this or any other matter the cabinet was divided, which the conservative press has been proclaiming for the last few days. With regard to a possible settlement by consent, he held it should be carried on beyond the reach of electoral or parliamentary vicissitudes; otherwise the Irish question would continue to be the football of party politics to the infinite injury of both Ireland and the United Kingdom as a whole.

It was in this spirit, said Mr. Asquith, that he took upon himself to invite, not a conference of party leaders, but a free and unprejudiced interchange of views and suggestions. He had no reason to despair regarding the acceptance of the invitations by the leaders of the opposition. The government was not going to make either on its own initiative, or on the suggestions of others any surrender of principle, but it had not closed any door on a reasonable way to peace.

With an Home Rule

There was no ground whatever, he declared, for the demand made by the conservatives for a general election. It could not be fought on the single issue of home rule and could not result in a settlement of the question. So far as he was concerned, he would not advise any such course. The government was determined to give home rule to Ireland and was not going to be frightened or arrested by menaces of civil war.

The prime minister also disappointed those who had been expecting some pronouncement from him indicating the prospect of a decrease of the vast expenditure for armaments, concerning which most dissatisfaction has been expressed among the liberals recently.

He and every one of his colleagues in the government, he said, lamented as much as any man in the assembly the huge diversion all over the world of national wealth into non-productive channels. A ministry which out of wantonness or levity in a burst of vainglorious vanity added as much as a pound to the expenditure for that purpose was committing a national crime.

HISTORIC FARM

Just Over the Tyngsboro Line Purchased for Summer Home

Another sale of an important and historic Lowell road estate was consummated the other day when papers were passed by which Edwin H. Langston of the Nashua Real Estate company acquires title from E. E. Saunders to the 120-acre "Bancroft" farm just over the Tyngsboro line is reported from Nashua.

Mr. Langston buys for a summer residence. The larger part of the farm is woodland, some of it is valuable timber.

This estate was the summer home of the late John K. Hall, Nashua agent for the Boston & Maine railroad, and it was purchased from Mrs. Hall by Mr. Saunders only a few months since. Mr. Saunders bought for investment. Mr. Langston, struck by the beauty of its location, the fine well of water there, and by the historic associations of the estate found his way clear to acquire title.

During Mr. Hall's ownership the old house, built by the father of J. E. Bancroft of Tyngsboro, whose researches into the early history of the district along the west side of the Merrimack between this city and Lowell, have given him more than a local reputation, was succeeded by a modern bungalow, erected at a cost of some $3500.

Mr. Bancroft established beyond doubt before the place had passed into the hands of Mr. Hall, that the original dwelling there had been the home of the first white man to establish his hearthstone between Woburn, Mass., and the Canadian line.

"There are some that claim," said Mr. Bancroft, "that the location of this 'first house' was nearer the river, the home of the settler John Cromwell. Cromwell died in the first house in 1681.

"When my grandfather dug out the foundations for a later structure on the same site he came across the foundation stones of the Cromwell house. The daughter of John Hall, the famous corner of the Pine Tree Shilling, wedded Samuel Sewell, and who was thaniel Hawthorne immortalized in his sketch of the bride who 'was worth her weight in silver,' the sketch used to be in the grammar school reading books, dwelt there.

"Henry Farwell, another man prominent in the early days of the colony became its owner, upon foreclosure of a mortgage and Lieutenant Wheeler of Concord, Mass., was the next purchaser. His daughter, who married Rev. Peter Bulkeley, inherited it, and through her it became the property of their son John. From him it passed to my father's great grandfather in the year 1737. The first house was torn down in 1780 and the second erected in 1785. This in turn gave way to the structure in 1838, a structure which the present generation has known as the old Bancroft house. My father built this structure."

It is related, that one of the elms standing for years at the site of the present bungalow was planted by the old Indian fighter and revolutionary hero, Ebenezer Bancroft, on the day he learned that the Declaration of Independence had been signed, and in after years each July 4th he fired from his old flint lock rifle thirteen rounds, in commemoration of the event. He lived before the days of the safe and saw four times upon his last celebration of this event he had so feebly with advancing years that his musket had to be held by others, and he merely pressed the trigger.

Much has been written about the place, on account of its connection with the early historic personages of this section of the Merrimack valley, and Mr. Langston has in his possession a number of clippings, all of them of unusual interest.

HOMER FOLKS.

DR. LIVINGSTON FARRAND

MAKING THEM WELL

December 7 has been designated as international anti-tuberculosis Sunday. In America sermons appropriate to the fight on the great white plague will be delivered from thousands of pulpits. The National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis hopes the observation of the day will result in added and more vital interest on the part of the general public in the work of the organization. Homer Folks, the president, and Dr. Livingston Farrand, the general secretary, have sent out much literature to aid ministers and civic workers in pushing the crusade.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Malden Man Was Struck in Nova Scotia—Companion Hurt

AMHERST, N. S., Nov. 28.—Ralph Noyes, 27, of 39 Porter street, Malden, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when the west bound express on the intercolonial railroad struck a hand car on which he was riding at Little Port, near Athol.

W. R. Gray of Dartmouth, N. S., a companion of Noyes, was seriously injured in the crash. Both men were members of a surveying party which had been working on the line for the last few weeks. Noyes was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Noyes, long-time residents of Malden, and a brother of Herbert Noyes of the Malden fire department. He had been engaged in forestry work up to about two months ago, when he went to Nova Scotia to commence work with the surveying party on the intercolonial railroad. He was a graduate of Malden high school in 1904.

A brother, Emory Noyes, is a civil engineer in Montana. The young man's parents were prostrated last night when they received word of their son's sudden death through the Malden police.

On Face and Ears, Itched and Burned. Disfigured, Could Not Go Anywhere. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Few Weeks.

280 Torrey St., Brockton, Mass.—"Eczema began on my son's face and ears something like a rash. Later it became like water blisters. They itched and burned so badly the child made noise. The trouble disfigured him for the time being; he could not go anywhere. It troubled him to go on his ears. He was cross and fretful and restless."

"I tried several salves but none of them did any good. The trouble lasted two or three years off and on before I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used to wash the sores with warm water and Cuticura Soap and then put on the Cuticura Ointment and they afforded relief right away. It was only a few weeks till the cure was complete." A LITTLE NONSENSE

LIVE WIRE STRUCK OFFICER 500 KILLED IN BATTLE

Officer Leighton Had Narrow Escape Break of Trolley Wire — Cars Held Up

Officer Jack Leighton, who patrols Merrimack square during the day, narrowly escaped death shortly after 12:30 o'clock today when a live trolley wire fell on him at the corner of Merrimack and Central streets.

The trolley wire parted as the officer was crossing Central street at the junction of Merrimack. One of the passersby shouted to Officer Leighton, but before the latter could reach the sidewalk the wire struck him on the head and from there fell onto his shoulder. The wire was twisting and sizzling as it fell and dropped from his shoulder to the street.

Those who witnessed it expected to see the officer drop to the ground, but instead he simply shook himself and then walked into the middle of the street where he stood guard over the dangerous wire until the linemen of the company arrived.

Officer Leighton stated to a Sun reporter that he felt no shock except that which the unexpected weight of the wire conveyed. Although the wire was not insulated and he was standing upon the pavement, the electric current did not penetrate his cap nor coat. Fortunately they did not prove good conductors of electricity.

Without a doubt the current would have passed straight through the body in contact with the patrolman's face or hands. Officer Leighton received hearty congratulations on his fortunate escape.

The car traffic was held up for some time as the result of the break in the wire, although the linemen worked at high speed to splice the ends. Along with the wire was gathered on Central and Prescott streets before the repairs were completed.

Federals and Rebels Lost Many at Tierra Blanc — Son Shot Down Before Mother's Eyes

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28.—Five hundred federals and rebels, it is stated, were killed in the battle of Tierra Blanca this week and buried on the battlefield. In one place the wind had blown away the thin layer of sand which had been thrown over the bodies. Americans visiting the field Thanksgiving day found two wounded soldiers whom they sent to hospitals.

At Samalayuca, a few miles south of the battlefield, the body of a rebel soldier who had been taken prisoner by the federals during the battle, was found hanging by a rope to a tree. The body was taken down and buried.

Federals have torn up the railway track and telegraph line in many places south of Samalayuca in order to prevent General Villa's troops pursuing by train. A work train has been sent south to repair the line so that Villa's troops can proceed to Chihuahua. A string of cars attached to a federal train was burned by the federals below Samalayuca. A herd of 200 cavalry horses which had been abandoned by the federals in their retreat after the Tierra Blanca battle was found by rebel scouts several miles below the battlefield.

The young man's mother, who is an aunt of the rebel officer, on her knees begged the life of her son. Cabello's reply was to have his cousin brought from the prison and stood in front of a firing squad of revolutionists who shot him down before his mother's eyes.

THE COUNTY COMMISSION

Held Important Meeting at City Hall at Woburn This Forenoon—Act on Petition

The county commissioners held an important hearing in the council chamber of the city hall at Woburn this morning on a petition of the residents of that city to the commissioners to make specific repairs on Main street beginning at Baldwin's crossing and continuing to the Winchester line. The petition was to the effect that the county pay in part the cost of these repairs.

Mayor Henshey of Woburn represented the petitioners at the hearing, and there was a very large gathering of citizens present. Interest being keen in the proposed repairs. The board of trade of the city was well represented.

Mayor Henshey spoke at length, dwelling especially upon the fact that Main street is a main thoroughfare, not so much for the city of Woburn alone as for the outlying towns in the county, and therefore of great importance to the county.

The point made by the commissioners was to the effect, that in view of a recently enacted statute, whether or not they could go into the city of Woburn and effect such repairs. The council of that city is the petitioner's of the opinion that the fact that "specific" repairs were mentioned was sufficient to fill the requirements of the law. It was generally agreed that should the ordinance conflict in any way, it may be remedied by revision and amendment.

A conference between company officials, the strike committee and George R. Lunn, the socialist mayor of the city, was to take place today.

The threatened sympathetic strike of employees of the Schenectady I. T. Co. did not materialize today. Today was pay day at the General Electric plant and the strikers planned to march in a body to the offices and receive their wages for last week.

NEW GERMAN EMBASSY

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The imperial parliament discussed the much criticized action of Emperor William in ordering the court architect to draft the plans of the new German embassy building at Washington instead of permitting Prof. Bruno Moehring to do so as the winner of the competition opened by the foreign office for the purpose of selecting the best design.

The subject was brought up by Dr. Moritz Johannes Junker, a national liberal, who asked the government whether it was true that an architect who had not participated in the foreign office's competition had been commissioned to draft the plans.

Gottlieb Von Bagow, the foreign minister, replied that the order had not yet been given for the construction of the embassy building as the plans must first be approved by the Prussian academy of architecture.

Location by New Currency Bill Taken up by Conference Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Location of the regional reserve banks to be established by the new currency bill became a matter of pressing importance when the democratic conference resumed work today. The insistence of Senators Hoie Smith and Bacon, that the territory tributary to Atlanta would not do business with a regional bank at New Orleans may force the conference to at least informally outline the districts and locations for the banks.

While the administration bill proposes eight regional banks, the conference may finally increase them to ten.

Work dragged somewhat in the conference today and the leaders said that if the bill were not completed by tomorrow night the senators probably would work Sunday.

A guarantee of deposits proposed by Senator Williams was referred to the democrats of the banking committee. Some form of guarantee is expected to result. The number of members of the federal reserve board was left to be taken up later.

Senator Thomas of Colorado announced he would propose an amendment to make the new currency payable in "gold, silver or lawful money" when the proper section of the bill was reached.

GRAND OLD LADY

Mrs. Effie Elisler Supported Booth in the "Merchant of Venice"

Mrs. Effie Elisler, who is believed to be the oldest English speaking actress celebrated Sunday the 90th anniversary of her birth at her home in Nutley Park, Nutley, N. J. She lives with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weston (Mrs. Weston is the well known Miss Effie Elisler, who is about to return to the stage), and all her intimates and neighbors agree that the nonagenarian is just about the sweetest and brightest little old lady in town.

There was continuous performance of congratulations all day. Everybody in and around Nutley Park dropped in and Mrs. Elisler was as happy as in the good old days when her audiences would not be content until she got tired of responding to certain calls. But of all her visitors, none was more welcome than a "stag party" of five young men, ranging from 3 to 7 years, who remained with her the greater part of the receiving hours, ate ice cream and noted exactly as young gentlemen of that age are supposed to act when they are calling upon ladies of whom they think a lot.

The five visitors were Hugh and William Sloan, Donald and Mortimer Coley and Malcolm Taylor. All are the children of Mrs. Elisler's neighbors.

Among the messages of congratulation that Mrs. Elisler received was one from Francis Wilson. None gave her more pleasure than telegrams from her sons, John Jefferson Elisler of Cleveland (named for Joseph Jefferson), and William Elisler of Boston.

Mrs. Elisler is enjoying splendid health. Her mind is wonderfully keen. Her chief delight is reading and she averages eight books a week. She is equally fond of fiction and history.

Mrs. Elisler made her first appearance as an actress in the old Chestnut street theatre, Philadelphia, in 1824, at the age of 9 months. She played with William E. Burton, manager of the old Chatham theatre, New York, and with Charlotte Cushman, Edmund Forest, Edmund Keene, the late Booth, Edwin Booth, Macready, Lawrence Barrett and many old timers. She retired from the stage in 1855.

Her husband was John A. Elisler, once manager of the Euclid Avenue Opera House in Cleveland. In those days actresses were supposed to play everything from light comedy to heavy tragedy, and Mrs. Elisler took her turn with great success in a variety of parts.

"I thoroughly believe," said Frank Weston last night, "that mother's Fortia in the 'Merchant of Venice' with Edwin Booth was the best I ever saw. Her 'mercy speech' in the trial scene was wonderful."

Mrs. Elisler has two sons and two daughters.

CIGAR CAUSED FATAL FALL
Man Grasps to Save It and Tumbles From Window—Died on the Way to Hospital

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—When Richard Long finished his Thanksgiving dinner last evening in his flat on the fourth floor of 422 West Twenty-sixth st. he went into the front room and sat near an open window and between puffing put the cigar in the sill. A gust of wind caught the cigar and it rolled out of the window. Long tried to get it, slipped and fell to the pavement.

Mrs. Long and her five children, who were in the rear room, heard the noise and hurried to the street. There they found him unconscious. Patrolman Murray sent for an ambulance and Long died on the way to New York hospital.

To Overcome Winter Complexion Troubles
(From Woman's Tribune)

If the chill air causes your skin to dry and scale or become unduly red or spotted, before you go to bed spread a thin layer of ordinary mercerized wax over your entire face. Remove next morning with warm water. This is the ideal complexion treatment for the winter girl. The wax gently absorbs the dead particles of surface skin, so gradually there's no discomfort. This gives the underlying skin a chance to breathe and to show itself. In a week or so the new and younger skin is wholly in evidence and you have a really matchless complexion. Naturally all its defects disappear with the discarded cuticle—as chaps, roughness, blotches, pimples, freckles, blackheads, yellowness. Usually an ounce of mercerized wax, procurable at any drug-store, is enough to renovate even the worst complexion.

Witches read neither you no more if you'll use this simple face wash: Powdered salicylic, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, 2 pt. Just one application will affect even the deepest lines, and soon your skin will be smooth as a child's.

KIDNAPPING TALE A JOKE
Mystery of Israel Gordon's Disappearance Cleared by His Confession to Police

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—A mystery that has baffled the police of several cities for a year and a half was cleared yesterday when Louis Gordon, a Dorchester jeweler, received word from Philadelphia authorities that his 14-year-old son Israel, supposed to have been kidnapped and held for ransom, had applied to them for food and had admitted that the "kidnapping" was a hoax used by him to conceal his whereabouts when he ran away.

Young Gordon's brother and a reported associate of the Boston police department started at once for Philadelphia to identify the lad and to verify his remarkable story of wanderings all over the United States in company with a tramp known as "Saragata Slim." The boy will be brought back to his parents' home at 115 Hutchins street.

Gordon appeared at the Philadelphia police station several days ago, according to the message received by his father and asked for food, under an assumed name. He was put in a cell while the name he gave, that of "Henry Miller of Cincinnati," was investigated. When it was found to be false he broke down and confessed.

He told the police that on May 15, 1912, he met a tramp, and, at the latter's urging, ran away in search of adventure. To put his parents off the track he wrote a note at the dictation of his companion, in which he claimed to be the victim of kidnappers, and urging his father to place $50 in a bank designated in Barnstable.

He and "Slim" then boarded a freight train and started west. The freights were later discarded for Pullman cars when the pair became prosperous from the sale of jewelry which the tramp had. The boy imparted all his knowledge of jewelry, skinned from his father, to the tramp, with the result that "Slim" was able to start in selling on a small scale.

As prosperity increased the two discarded every attribute of the tramp except the wanderlust that impelled them to move from place to place, and which finally brought them to their parting place, Cincinnati. The boy then began to make his way east and got as far as Philadelphia when his funds and resourcefulness gave out.

The news that the boy had been found, even in a police station cell, brought joy to the boy's father, who had given him up for dead in the belief that the kidnappers had probably killed him. His revenge when they thought it impossible to get the ransom without being caught was wrought.

THE WEDDING PARTY IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE CEREMONY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The absorbing topic of conversation here is the White House wedding, at which Miss Jessie Wilson, second daughter of President Wilson, became the bride of Francis Bowes Sayre, a young New York lawyer. The wedding, which was the thirteenth to occur in the White House, was attended by a notable gathering. Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the noted Labrador medical missionary worker, was best man. The couple are going to Europe for their honeymoon and will return in January to Williamstown, Mass., where Mr. Sayre will be assistant to President Garfield of Williams college. In the accompanying illustration, taken after the wedding, the persons are as follows: Seated,

SEWAGE AT THE TRAINING SCHOOL

Question of Disposal May go to Legislature---Lowell Capable of Taking Care of it.

The question of sewage disposal at the Middlesex County Training school at North Chelmsford will in all probability go to the legislature. Some time ago the county commissioners took up the question of the disposal of sewage at that institution and two schemes were suggested. The plan that most appealed to the commissioners provided for direct connection with the Lowell sewer at a point near the plant of the Patterson Rubber Co.

It was estimated that a connection with the Lowell sewer would cost about $6000 and there was some doubt

Case of Regan vs. Pilgrim Fathers Opened in Jury Waived Session of Superior Court

The case of James Regan and Peter Regan, otherwise known as Peter R. Warren vs. United Order of Pilgrim Fathers, a fraternal organization, and William Regan was opened in the jury-waived session of superior court this morning.

The plaintiffs are the sons of the late Elizabeth Davis of Lowell. William Regan is also the son of Elizabeth Davis, deceased, and the United Order of Pilgrim Fathers is a fraternal benefit association, having a branch in Lowell.

It is claimed that the late Elizabeth Davis was a member of said association and was insured to the amount of $2000.

The plaintiffs say that they, together with William Regan, were named as beneficiaries and entered into a contract with their late mother, Elizabeth Davis, whereby said plaintiffs and William Regan agreed to contribute equally to the support and expenses of said Elizabeth Davis and the three brothers were to share equally the amount due on the certificate of insurance issued to the late Elizabeth Davis.

The plaintiffs believe that the said Elizabeth Davis, deceased, did, in a manner not authorized in the constitution and by-laws of said association, substitute the name of William Regan in the place of the plaintiffs as beneficiaries, disregarding entirely the contract entered into by the plaintiffs and William Regan and the deceased. They believe that at the time of the substitution their mother was incapable of transacting business of any nature.

The plaintiffs petitioned that the association be ordered to pay in equal shares to the three sons the money due on said certificate.

James Regan, one of the plaintiffs, was called to the stand and he testified as to the agreement between the mother and sons whereby they were to pay all expenses incurred by her and at the time of her death the amount received from her insurance certificate was to be divided equally between the three sons.

The trial of the above case was resumed at the afternoon session of superior court. Several witnesses were called and testified both for the plaintiffs and defense.

Many Who Fought in Balkan Battles Return to America

Expected That 100 Will Come to Lowell; Holy Regiment Wiped Out

Over 2600 Greeks are reported as having landed in New York yesterday and it is believed over 100 of them will come direct to Lowell. These many immigrants arrived on two steamships, the "Patrice" and the "Juanina," and it was reported many more are awaiting other steamships to take them across to the United States.

The "Patrice" and "Juanina," although they did not leave Greece at the same time, arrived in New York together yesterday, this being due to the fact that one of the ships was disabled enroute and had to stop at Bermuda for repairs. Among the passengers...

To a Sun representative today, District Attorney Higgins said that he would take no further action on the charges against Alderman George H. STRIKERS WIN IN LAWRENCE

Am. Woolen Co. and U.S. Worsted Co. Grant Concessions and Firemen Return to Work

LAWRENCE, Nov. 28.—An agreement has been reached between the American Woolen Co. and its striking stationary firemen and this morning many of the strikers returned to work.

The strike has not yet been settled in any of the other mills which are still in operation and complying with the law to licensed firemen, according to the mill officials. Neither mill officials nor firemen would divulge the terms of the settlement at the American Woolen Co. mills. It being announced that both sides had agreed not to give out any information on that point. It was stated, however, that the agreement reached was satisfactory to both sides.

Mayor Scanlon, who took steps on Wednesday to bring the contending parties to an agreement, continued his efforts along that line this morning in regard to the mills in which the strike was still on.

After a long conference with representatives of the strikers he announced that there was nothing to be done at present but that he was hopeful that there would be developments later in the day.

No discrimination was shown at the American Woolen Co. mill in regard to taking back the strikers, all who applied being given their old positions, officials of the mill stated.

Lovell Man Makes Inspection

Edward Moore of Lowell, state boiler inspector, said today that he had made a thorough inspection of all the mills of Lawrence and that none of them is violating the law in regard to licensed firemen at present.

The Central Labor union offered today to call a sympathetic strike here if requested by the firemen.

A settlement was announced by noon at the United States Worsted Co. the terms being a ten hour workday without reduction in wages. It is believed that these were the terms of the agreement with the American Woolen Co.

STATE BOARD OF ARBITRATION RECOMMENDS REDUCTION IN HOURS

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—A recommendation that the firemen employed in the textile mills at Lawrence, who have been on a strike since Nov. 17, be given a reduction in the hours of labor, was made today by the state board of conciliation and arbitration which has been investigating the strike.

The board finds that all of the firemen worked at least 72 hours a week, and some of them 84 hours, and suggests they be given a working period which does not exceed the six day working period of employees in other departments of the textile industry.

MAY BE FATALLY INJURED

Thomas Borellier Thrown From Wagon in Runaway Accident on Broadway This Afternoon

Thomas Borellier of Braut was very seriously injured this afternoon shortly after 2:30 o'clock when his horse ran away and threw him to the sidewalk at the corner of Broadway and Fletcher street. He is at the Lowell hospital where he was operated upon soon after the accident for a fractured skull.

Those who witnessed the accident first saw a wildly galloping horse attached to a garbage cart coming down Broadway. The driver was doing all in his power to check the animal but to no avail.

The maddened horse, however, did not stop after throwing out his driver, but kept up his break neck speed down Broadway. A fruit stand in the Murphy block was completely demolished when the animal dashed onto the sidewalk at this point in his wild flight. The rear part of the cart was left behind with the wreck of the fruit stand and the now thoroughly frightened equine rushed frantically on until finally halted by a group of men at the corner of Lilley and Fletcher streets.

The team belonging to the Booth Fruit company was standing near the corner of Broadway and Fletcher street at the curbing and the runaway equipage careened into it. Although the collision was not a serious one it served to throw the driver, Mr. Borellier onto the sidewalk. The man was picked up unconscious and the ambulance sent for immediately. He was taken to the hospital as soon as possible where it was at once seen that his injuries were of a very grave nature. Other than to say that the fracture was a bad one and that the injured man was on the dangerous list, the hospital authorities had nothing to say on the man's chances of recovery.

2,535 KILLED 49,921 INJURED

Total Number of Casualties in R. R. Accidents in Three Months

Increase in Number for Corresponding Quarter Last Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The interstate commerce commission's accident bulletin, issued today for the quarter ended June 30, 1913, shows that as compared with returns of the corresponding quarter of 1912 there will be a total increase of 140 in the number of persons killed and of 2883 in the number injured in railroad accidents of all kinds in the United States. There was an increase of 124 in the number of train accidents. Defective road and defective equipment caused more than 62 per cent of all derailments reported. The total number of casualties in all classes of accidents incident to railroading during the quarter was 2535 killed and 49,921 injured.

The total number of collisions and derailments for the quarter was 359, of which 1457 were collisions and 292 derailments affected passenger trains. The financial damage caused by the accidents was $3,234,289, a material increase over the returns of the corresponding quarter of 1912.

CHELMSFORD ST. HOSPITAL

Harvest With Exception of Potato Crop Was Abundant—New Barn Almost Completed

There has been quite a large increase in the number of the inmates at the Chelmsford Street hospital, according to figures given the writer by the authorities there on a recent visit to the institution. Mr. Dowd, who is in charge, pointed out the fact that affairs at the hospital are in a most satisfactory condition.

At the present time, the inmates number 413, which is unusually large, it seems. From the books, it was shown that one year ago this time, there were 301 persons in the care of the Chelmsford Street hospital. The fail, and approaching cold weather of the winter season generally brings an increase in the number of those who take advantage of the shelter and care afforded by the place, while usually, in the spring and summer, the inmates are fewer. Such a condition would be expected at an institution like the city hospital, where the poor of the city are provided for, and given medical attention.

With its large buildings, and its spacious farm, the Chelmsford Street hospital is ideally situated to best fulfill the end for which it was established. A large portion of the land is cultivated, and practically the whole of the work is done by the men inmates. This year's harvest was a most abundant one except in the potato crop which was a disappointment to those in charge. A large territory was used for the planting of potatoes and from the growth it appeared that there would be a very large crop. As it was, however, owing to some species of blight, the crop was a disappointment; those which were in good condition were for the most part so small as to be of little value. This will make it necessary to buy a larger quantity than would otherwise have been necessary. There was an abundance of cabbage and turnips, and other products, and the place was well supplied during the summer. The crop of hay was also heavy.

How the inmates are Employed

Of the 413 inmates, the majority are able to work about the place, even if only for an hour or two each day, and in this respect the work is carried on in a well regulated and thorough manner. Of the total, 219 are females while 194 are males. Six of these are children, four girls and two boys. The distribution of the workers in a report made on September 29, and it is practically the same at the present time, was as follows: Men—in hospital, 3; boiler house, 2; storeroom, 3; laundry, 9; chores, etc., about the buildings, 19; men's dining room, 8; about the farm, stock buildings, etc., 18; kitchen, 3; shoe shop, 1; painting, etc., 5. This number is practically distributed in the same proportion, the difference lying in the fact that there are more inmates and consequently more work, and several more are employed in most of the departments mentioned. The women—women's hospital, 19; sewing, 5; infirmary, 7; laundry, 8; kitchen, 5; others do various kinds of work as the necessity arises.

Ages of inmates

It is interesting to know the average ages of the inmates of the hospital, and it will be noted that the number increased in the list given before as the age increases. The following figures, too, were compiled in September, and are, with some changes in number applicable at the present times. The total number of inmates was then 300. There were three under 2 years of age; 1 between two and 5 years; 1 between 5 and 15 years; 1 between 15 and 21 years; 5 between 21 and 30, 24 between 30 and 40 years; 47 between 40 and 50 years; 101 between 50 and 60 years; 111 between 60 and 70 years; 80 between 70 and 80 years; 15 between 80 and 90 years.

Life of inmates

All of the inmates receive the best of care, and Dr. Tighe, city physician, spends a large portion of his time at the institution giving medical attention to those requiring it. Some are confined in the hospital, unable to move about, and will probably remain in that state until death. Others are there temporarily with diseases which may be cured in time. Then there are the aged and infirm who are able to walk about a little each day, and in whose cases the physical weakness is the result of old age.

Those who are not ill, are pleased to do whatever they can about the place, and many show deep gratitude for what is being done in their behalf. The life at the institution is of the most regular routine.

There are in the hospital several people who once had not only the necessities of life, but even the luxuries, and enjoyed wealth. There is one woman who in years gone by lived in style, having her coachman and her servants.

The number of inmates, in a rough estimate is 100 more in the winter than in the summer.

Sunday Services

Each Sunday there are two religious services at the institution. In the morning, a priest celebrates mass in the chapel and delivers a sermon, administering the sacraments, and giving general comfort to the inmates. In the afternoon a service for non-Catholics is conducted by one of the ministers of the city.

The New Barn

Last year, the institution was handicapped by the lack of the large barn which had been destroyed by fire when struck by lightning, and some time ago it was decided to construct a new one. Much of the equipment which had been in the shed, had to be left in the open and the sheds used for sheltering the livestock. The new barn built on the foundation of the old one is two and a half stories high and of substantial construction. As soon as the roof was finished a large quantity of hay was placed in the upper part of the structure. The hay had formerly been stored in a field. The barn is now very nearly completed and a large portion of it is already in use. The stock will be sheltered there, together with the hay and grain.

WALSH'S POLICY

Gov. Elect Will Cut the Banquets and Give His Time to State

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—Gov. Elect Walsh says he has decided not to accept invitations to social affairs, such as balls, dances, parties, church or charitable affairs or banquets. "I mean no disrespect to any one in making this rule," said the governor-elect last evening, "but I feel that my time belongs to the state and that my

Pinklets Will Really Correct Constipation

Pinklets are a most valuable laxative in the treatment of obstinate constipation. They correct this unnatural and dangerous condition by gently assisting the sluggish bowels and torpid liver to regain their normal activity. Their action is gentle, but effective and thorough, and they do not cause a single gripe. Unlike harsh, strong purgatives, they do not upset the stomach nor irritate and over-stimulate the bowels. Because they have none of these evil effects, they can be taken with entire safety until the constipation is corrected.

To simply regulate the bowels or to treat obstinate cases of constipation, Pinklets are the ideal laxative. They are safe for every member of the family to use. Get a bottle today and start trying them. Any druggist can supply you at 25 cents per bottle.

TO CLEAN, OR NOT TO CLEAN That is the question. Whether it is better to use antiquated ideas or modern cleansing machinery in the renovating of garments, has been tested fully in this establishment.

We do not infer that we, of late years, have employed stale methods. We haven't; but being the oldest established cleaning and dyeing house here, naturally there was a time when we had to use the "antients."

But now! what a change! A modernized plant, equal to any emergency. Such is progress!

FRENCH SOCIETIES IN PARADE

Attended Blessing of
Banner for Court St.
Paul, C. O. F.

Social Held at C. M. A.
C. Hall in the Evening

ARTHUR LAVOIE
Chief Marshal

St. Joseph's church in Lee street was yesterday morning the scene of a large gathering when the ceremony of blessing a new banner for Court St. Paul, C. O. F., was held. The interior of the temple was handsomely decorated with streamers of white and gold, while the sanctuary and altar were a mass of potted plants and incandescent lights. In the congregation were delegations from various fraternal organizations of the city.

The ceremony was preceded by a procession, the route being from C. M. A. C. hall in Pawtucket street to Merimack to Kirk and to Lee. Arthur Lavoie was chief marshal of the parade and in line were the following organizations: Garde d'Honneur, Garde Frontenac, Garde Sacre-Coeur and A. G. Cadets; French St. Andre, A. C. F., Branch St. Joseph, A. C. F., Union Garin Nationale Independante, Pluton Samuel de Champlain, F. F. A., Courts St. Antoine and St. Paul, C. O. F.

The service at the church consisted of a high mass celebrated at 10 o'clock by the chaplain of the court, Rev. Augustin Gratton, O. M. L., who also delivered an eloquent sermon on "Catholic Societies." The choir under the direction of Telesphore Malo rendered appropriate music, Mrs. Joseph A. Bernard presiding at the organ. At the close of the mass a handsome banner of silk with gold trimmings, upon which is a fine picture of St. Paul, was blessed by the chaplain of the court. In the evening the court held a social and whilst at C. M. A. C. hall. Over 300 people took part in the card tournament, which was presided over by Paul T. Charbonneau, chief ranger of the court. The Gerrick orchestra was in attendance and supplied music for the evening, while numerous other musical numbers were given by members of the court and friends. The committee in charge was composed of 20 members, J. A. Robillard, chairman.

and cake, while in the afternoon a very interesting entertainment program was carried out by a number of the children under the direction of the nuns in charge.

French-American Orphanage

At the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket street the little boys and girls attended mass and received holy communion and at noon they partook of a turkey dinner with all fixings. The feature of the day, however, was the taffy party conducted in the afternoon by the members of Notre Dame de Lourdes sodality. For this occasion the little ones gathered in the assembly hall and while they filled up with the good old Canadian sugar taffy, an entertainment program was carried out by boys and girls under the direction of the sisters.

Day Nursery

About 15 little ones were given a real treat at the Day nursery in Kirk street yesterday. The dinner consisted of chicken with fixings and ice cream, and at the conclusion of the feast the boys and girls were highly entertained by the matron, who had supplied amusements of all sorts for the dear ones in her care.

The Ayer Home

There was no happier group of children in the city yesterday than the 103 little orphans in the Ayer home, and if Thanksgiving is shown by laughter and song and merry-making generally, the informal celebration there was one of the real Thanksgiving variety. From morning till night there was no suggestion of restraint and free rein was given to the spirit of childish joy. The great event of the day at the Ayer home, as in every home in the city, was the dinner which was served at noon. This was of the real Thanksgiving variety with turkey, cranberry sauce, mince pie, apples and all the other fixings. Usually on days of special celebration there is some form of special entertainment such as a concert or private theatricals, known fondly as "shows." Yesterday, however, Mother Farr decided that a general holiday with extra hours of play would be the better procedure, and so the day was celebrated. At 5 p. m. there was a special collation with such childish delights as fancy cake, grapes, apples, oranges, raisins, bananas, nuts, etc., and the supply was so plentiful that the breakfast this morning had some appetizing reminders of the memorable Thanksgiving which died out last night when the clock struck midnight and 100 tired little heads were very still on 100 little pillows.

THANKSGIVING FESTIVITIES

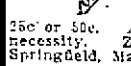

Carried Out at the Various Institutions and Orphan Asylums Yesterday

The high cost of living was not mentioned yesterday, not even in the workhouse or the jail, where the inmates were served holiday dinners. Everybody was imbued with the Thanksgiving spirit and there were no kicks coming. Fresh pork dinners were served at the jail and the Chelmsford street hospital and the inmates fished it almost as well as if it were turkey.

There were turnips, squash and potatoes on the side and the whole was

MARRIAGE SWINDLERS ONE KILLED; ELEVEN HURT

Boston Attorneys Gather Evidence of Blackmail Schemes Conducted by Young Women

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—Prominent educators about Boston have taken under consideration the operations of the clique of young adventuresses who in the past few years have molested students and whose activity was made public yesterday.

It became known yesterday that investigations have been going on for nearly two years and that attorneys have been engaged to prepare evidence which would halt the depredations of the young women who have lured many young men into their trap, release from which meant the transfer of thousands of dollars to their coffers. The one hitch to the immediate prosecution of the band is the unwillingness of many men prominent in financial and social circles to brave the publicity which would be necessary should they testify concerning their dealings with this clique.

The marriage swindle gang are as powerful as was the old Boston "fake fero" crowd in its palmy days, and it is led by young women of great shrewdness.

It can be confidently stated that the new game is even more profitable than the old one, but the same weakness that led to the revealing of the old game is threatening complete exposure of the new swindlers.

In fact many of the so-called "romantic" marriages of students have in reality been arranged by the band of young women engaged in the milking business.

The inside operations of this crowd of young women, the investigators declare, would bring to light sensations unsurpassed in college circles of greater Boston.

The exploitation of the undergraduates is in itself a remarkable story of trickery in which cupid poses as the scare to the unwary. The most common method, and the one which the authorities of some of the colleges are trying to uncover, is blackmail by the marriage route.

The victim is selected for his financial attainments alone. Coming a stranger to Boston from some far away city, and having no immediate friends, the young man is sought by the feminine vampires as an acquaintance. This is usually made at some high class drinking resort and once the victim is in the toils of the hand things move easier. After some time elapses, the acquaintance is stimulated into a pretense of love and the innocent victim falls to the wills of the feminine moths.

After the marriage ceremony has been performed the father of the young man is notified through underground sources that his son has married a woman of loose character.

The newspapers are acquainted with the marriage and another college "romance" is blazoned forth.

In one case a New York millionaire paid $30,000 for the annulment of the marriage of his son from one of the blackmailers.

SHOOTING IS EXPENSIVE

AT HIGHLAND LODGE—SCOTTISH MOOR SEASON OF SIX WEEKS MAY COST $10,000

LONDON, Nov. 28.—One of the most expensive varieties of sport nowadays is shooting at a Highland lodge. It is long since the grouse and deer season in the Highlands meant a period of camping out and tramping over the moors and through the forests. In fact, sport nowadays has become about as luxurious an affair as a ball in town at which royalty is among the guests, and it would not be much more expensive to arrange a six months' big-game hunting expedition in East Africa than to plan for a two months' hunting season in the Highlands. Considerably less than $10,000 ought to cover all the costs of an African big-game expedition, but considerably more than that sum can easily be spent in six weeks in Scotland.

To begin with, there is the rent of the place, which, for a moderately sized preserve, including say a 500-acre moor and a forest with a limit of forty stag, will be about $5000. This scale of rent, however, is for the more remote districts. The price is a good deal higher if the property is near the main railroad line or within easy reach of such a centre as Perth, Inverness or Aberdeen. In that event

Electric Struck Wedding Auto and Then House: Wrecked Machine and Set Fire to Building

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Miss Norma Ahlstrand, who was to have been maid of honor at the wedding of her sister Olga, will be buried in the dress she had prepared for the wedding, the latter having been indefinitely postponed. Miss Norma was instantly killed Wednesday night when a street car struck the automobile in which she was returning from a prenuptial party. Dora Nelson, Gertrude Weber, and Grace Hedman, other occupants of the automobile, are badly injured, but will recover.

The street car left the tracks, crashed into a house, breaking the gas mains and starting a fire that drove out 20 people, and several firemen were injured in fighting the blaze. Eight other persons, injured in the street car and the house, it is said, will recover, although three of them are seriously hurt.

Witnesses of the accident said yesterday that the street car was traveling at a high rate of speed and was not sounding its gong, despite the dense fog that obscured everything. It is also claimed that Thomas Thayer, chauffeur of the automobile could have averted the accident had he been watchful.

The crash when the car struck the automobile could be heard for several blocks.

The screams of the injured women quickly brought a crowd. The automobile was reduced to a mass of wreckage and thrown against the curb.

The force of the collision literally lifted the street car from the rails and it sped across the sidewalk and against the apartment block with such force that several of the occupants who had retired, were hurled from their beds.

The gas from the broken main quickly spread throughout the building creating a panic in addition to the one prevailing outside. When the gas caught fire, people began leaping from the windows, falling down stairways and rushing to the crowded street in their nightclothes. Several persons were trampled in the street and in the hallways of the apartment building in the confusion, but their injuries are comparatively slight.

Meanwhile a second automobile, preceding the one struck by the street car and also loaded with members of the wedding party, returned to the scene of destruction and its occupants picked up the dead girl and the injured members of the party and hastened to the nearest hospital. Miss Ahlstrand, however, was dead, the collision having broken her neck and otherwise injured her shockingly.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

Upheld by England in Address by Lord High Chancellor—Pays Tribute to Pres. Wilson

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The Thanksgiving Dinner of the American Society here last night was noteworthy because of the pronouncement of the British government's endorsement of the Monroe Doctrine by Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor.

Three hundred and fifty American men and women, with a large number of British guests, were present, and they cheered Lord Haldane's words again and again.

Robert N. Fairbanks, president of the society, proposed "The King," and Lord Haldane considered "The President of the United States."

"I recently made a visit to the United States," he said, "and came back not only with a vivid recollection of the cordial welcome I received, but with a deep sense of the high ideals the British and American nations held in common—the high ideals of citizenship of the two countries."

Referring to the president, he said:

"Before he became president, Mr. Woodrow Wilson was a thinking man and a moralist. In studying his career, I cannot fail to be impressed by his detached character and find that he has not ceased to be a thinker and a moralist because he has become the holder of a great office. We see in him the aspirations and ideals expressed of his nation to the world. It is not only his expressed declaration that the policy of the United States is not one of conquest or annexation, but the world looks to the United States, with its enormous position and possessions, to carry on its traditions without adding to its possessions. That is our course also. Nor is it the case that when the United States intervenes in any matter it is done for its own advantage. It was not the case with Cuba, to whom the United States restored independence. England itself has done the same thing in South Africa, where we gave back liberty to those with whom we fought."

$500 or $1000 must be added for accessibility, particularly if the land lies between Stirling and Blair Atholl, which is known as the "Park Lane" of the north, and often the rent has to be paid in advance.

One must consider, too, the item of transportation, which for a family of four with seven servants will amount to another $500 each way. If in addition to railroad and wagon transports, there should be necessary a voyage by boat down a loch, with twenty miles or so by motor to finish up with, add another $500, and, of course, the stamer and motor transportation will add also to the cost of household supplies.

For these supplies must be brought from London. Your true sportsman nowadays would think of living on the produce of the country, though the kitchen garden is always one of the perquisites of the tenant. If you are having a house party in the Highlands you will find that your guests expect to sit down to meals such as they have in London, with butler's meat, all kinds of fish and every variety of seasonable dainties, from sweetbreads to stuffed quails. The hostess of the Highland shooting must be in constant communication with the big London stores, and the best is constantly dispensing game, game, game, and game charges in addition to the initial cost of the luxuries themselves.

And after this comes the shooting. Dogs must be supplied for the grouse shooting at the rate of $50 a head, and as the dogs must be fresh for every day's shooting, and this means time to rest and new ones to take the places of those who have become exhausted by running over the heather, from eight to a dozen pointers and setters will be required. Cartridges will amount to another $125 and there will be $250 more for the beater, who must be conveyed to and fro almost daily by motor, so much has the spirit of luxury become inculcated in Rob Roy's wild clansmen.

But the house party is going to shoot deer as well as grouse, and, of course, it would be a very silly thing to expect a modern sportsman to tramp through the forest and hunt out the deer for himself. Not at all! He is supplied with a hammock, a book, a camp fire and a couple of pointers to carry his luncheon, a man to carry his rifle and two other men to find the deer and, one is inclined to imagine, the him by a hind leg, to a convenient tree, while the rifle bearer trains the Maxim gun and prepares the scenery for the eminent sportsman to pull the trigger.

This is modern sport, just as slaughtering milk fed grouse, which are almost brought up by hand, fed on a bottle and trained to sit up and chirp when their names are called, is modern sport. And like shooting grouse and quail which have been fed on morphine with their breakfast, killing the Highland stag trained to watch the flight of the bullet and place a vulnerable spot in the path of the shell is an expensive business.

Then $1000 may easily be added for gillies and beaters for the stag forests during a season in the Highlands, and after all other expenses have been paid one must figure on the tips at the end of the season. A head keeper who has supervised the training of forty stags could not well receive less than $50, while the chief stalker, who has not only driven the deer in front of the sportsman's rifle, but by his own agility in dodging bullets has saved the cost of a dozen or more inquiries and manslaughter trials, must receive in fairness at least $100, and his subordinates must be paid in proportion. Their tips are sometimes computed according to the number of shot wounds they can show in the after part of their legs.

DISEASES OF CHILDREN

I find that worms is one of the most common children's diseases—either pinworms or stomach worms.

These parasites attack the stomach and bowels and their presence felt through dangled stomach, swollen up, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full Trade Mark belly, pale face of leadish tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

For over 60 years, Dr. True's Elixir, my father's discovery, has been the standard remedy for worms and stomach disorders. Take no chances, but use the time-tried remedy—Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. At all dealers, 25c, 50c and $1.00. Advice free. Write.

THE COPPER MARKET

The copper market during the past week declined further and was weak throughout. Consumers held off and sellers endeavored to find a level at which buyers would be interested. Some sales were made on Nov. 18 at 15 1/2 @ 15 3/4, delivered, but after that right along failed to command business, and such as was done was at 15 1/4, delivered. On Nov. 17 there were some considerable sales at 15c, cash, New York.

The several agencies, with a single exception, engaged in active competition for such business as appeared in sight. On Nov. 19 the largest agency, which previously was standing about was reported out with a price around 15 1/2 @ 15 3/4, delivered, but this was still above the market and was considered to be more a new basis to figure from than anything else.

The market of last week is rated as quiet, though sales amounted to some million pounds. Their aggregate was more than in the previous week. Almost everything was for shipment to Europe. Sales to domestic consumers were insignificant.

Electrolytic in cakes, wirebars or ingots, at the close is quoted at 15 @ 15 1/2. We quote casting copper nominally at 15 1/2 @ 15 3/4, as an average for the week.

The London standard market was dull around 168, except on Nov. 18, when the bulls took advantage of a temporary scarcity of near-by metal and forced the price of spot up to 69

108. It receded the next day. Three months contracts were not affected and throughout the week there was a back-wardation of 11 and over.

Boston's Poor Were Well Taken Care of Yesterday

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—The sun, as it loomed up in the eastern sky yesterday morning came simultaneously with a spirit of Thanksgiving and happiness such as is seldom seen in Boston.

The Salvation Army, following its usual custom, gave Thanksgiving dinners to several thousand poor children at the People's Palace in the So. End, and also supplied holiday dinners to the homes of several thousand others. The volunteers of America and other charitable societies also supplied dinners for many families. Not a single family known to charity workers as being in need was allowed to spend the day without a Thanksgiving dinner and all that goes with it.

It is estimated that 4000 dinners were provided. Some also came to the headquarters and secured baskets of eatables which they took to their homes.

HELD CHARACTER PARTY

ENJOYABLE AFFAIR CONDUCTED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF MEMBERS OF ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

A barn-dance and character party was held Wednesday evening in the North Chelmsford town hall under the auspices of the parishioners of St. John's church and the affair was one of the most successful and enjoyable ever conducted by the members of the parish.

The hall was decorated to represent an up-to-date barn and the effect was splendid as one glanced over the hall well filled with young people. At 8.30 o'clock a short entertainment was given that consisted of an address of welcome by "Uncle Eli," Jack McQuade; "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," by the entire company; "And the Green Grass Grew All Around," chorus, with solos by Reginald McAdoo and Jack Gray; "School Days," a topical song with patter by Little "Joey Caruso;" quartet, "Harvest Time Out on the Farm," Gertrude Quigley, Kitty McCoy, Reginald McAdoo and Jack Gray; closing chorus, "The Hushing Her."

The Month's Wind-Up

In last Friday's issue of The Sun I advertised the purchase from the wholesale woolen house of RUBIN & COOPER, 85 Chauncy Street, Boston, of several hundred yards, the pick of their fall woollens in suits and overcoats. I advertised them made to order, any style for $12.50. I thought this announcement of worsteds at that price would create a sensation. Whether the approaching holiday made people feel poor, or the weather was the depressing cause, I am not sure. I only know that the greatest trade offered in Lowell for many and many a day only brought ordinary business. I offered them last Friday for $12.50 to order. A special trade.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES

Union Service at High Street and Highland M. E. Churches—Sermon by Rev. C. T. Billings

High Street church was the scene yesterday of a Thanksgiving service in which the Congregational, Unitarian and Universalist churches united.

The sermon was by Rev. Charles T. Billings of the First Unitarian church and the order of service was as follows: Organ prelude, Mr. Allen; governor's Thanksgiving proclamation, read by Rev. A. C. Ferrin; anthem, "Harvest Home," (Hanscom), by the choir; invocation, Rev. A. F. Dannels; responsive reading, Rev. C. R. Skinner; hymn; Scripture reading, Rev. H. A. Barker; prayer, Rev. Edward H. Newcomb; solo, "Consider and Hear Me," (Woolles), Miss Etta B. Thompson; hymn, benediction; organ postlude, Mr. Allen.

Mr. Billings said, in his sermon, that the spirit of Thanksgiving implies an act of judgment—implies not only that you are grateful, but that you know what you are grateful for. And when you say, I am glad for these conditions, or that friendship, or this pleasure, you are not merely giving expression to gratitude, you are suggesting the cause of it—which lies in these conditions or friendships and pleasures.

"Speaking of faith, Mr. Billings said the Pilgrim fathers had in their strength but in the strength of their faith, felt the power of the spiritual and so whether they were sick or well, poor or rich, weak or strong, they felt grateful that their God was with them, and in His might they would conquer."

"So in this Thanksgiving day let us not think merely of the days of sunshine and the days of darkness, nor weigh the pains against the pleasures, nor be thankful merely for the benefits we see, but let us go to the roots of our best life, realize the unseen forces that minister to all that is finest in it, feel as our fathers felt, the power of sympathy, friendship and of God. Then, going forth in His name, we shall realize the power that comes from Him. 'They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength.' When a man is interested in his cause he tends to forget fatigue and pain and labor in the glory of the cause, and he is grateful to the cause that calls forth such effort, for it is the source of his best life."

"So in this Thanksgiving we may and should be grateful for the sources of power that have called forth our finest spirit of life. The outward benefits of the year may seem small. The year may have been hard or easy, but the powers most worth while are all about us. They inspire us with the knowledge of the power within us.

They give us the ability to weather storm and sunshine, and they inspire us to give our best strength—blossoms and fruit—in the service of others.

"In the presence of these sources we are brought nearer our friends, the great men and women of the ages, Christ and God. Our wealth is not increased by riches or pleasures, or life's worth by the absence of pain, but by the powers all above us which help us to reach our highest manhood. And our thanksgiving is that help comes to us from every quarter, and everything being a source of life. He only is to be pitied who lives by what he sees, measures life by what he sees. The heroic life rests upon the deeper forces, feels the influence of the unseen currents and lives in the presence of the eternal.

"And he who lives in the presence of the eternal always has much to thank God for: for he no longer measures life by the presence of pleasure or the absence of pain. But he has found a power which, in the midst of pain or pleasure is capable of calling forth his highest endeavor. Not only does he feel himself able to meet storm and tempest, but he rejoices in the blossoms and the fruits which the spirit of love and thanksgiving make him capable of yielding."

Methodists and Presbyterians

At the Highland M. E. church, yesterday morning, the Methodist and Presbyterian churches united in a Thanksgiving service. There was special music sung by the church quartet.

Rev. L. F. Waring read the governor's proclamation, and Rev. A. A. Jackson preached the Thanksgiving sermon. Among the clergymen present on the platform were: Rev. H. W. McLean, Highland M. E. church; Rev. John M. Kyle, Portuguese missionary; Rev. George W. King, St. Paul's M. E. church; Rev. L. F. Waring, Centralville M. E. church; Rev. J. M. Craig, First Presbyterian church; Rev. N. W. Matthews, Gorham Street P. M. church; Rev. A. H. Hesford, Moore Street P. M. church; Rev. S. A. Jackson, Westminster Presbyterian church; Rev. Panos Gintores, Greek mission. A collection was taken in behalf of Faith Home orphanage.

The Baptist Churches

The Baptist churches united in a Thanksgiving service at the Worthen Street Baptist church. Rev. Dr. Theodore L. Frost, pastor of the Worthen Street Baptist church, conducted the service, being aided by Rev. B. B. Harris of the Paige Street Baptist church.

Rev. Hermon S. Pinkham of the First Baptist church and Rev. Ernest A. Triggs of the Chelmsford Street Baptist church.

Hymns, Scripture, the Thanksgiving day proclamation, prayer and an anthem preceded the sermon which was preached by Rev. Mr. Pinkham.

St. Anne's Church

The Thanksgiving service at St. Anne's church yesterday morning was well attended. There was appropriate music by the church choir under the direction of Charles Brown, and the pastor, Rev. Appleton Grammis, preached a Thanksgiving sermon.

Swedish Congregational

There was a Thanksgiving concert with an accompanying box opening at the Swedish Congregational church, last evening. Some months ago the members of the parish were given thank boxes, into which mites were dropped from time to time. These were opened last night and a goodly sum was realized.

St. Paul's M. E. Church

A Thanksgiving praise service was held at St. Paul's M. E. church yesterday morning from 9 to 10 o'clock, under the leadership of Rev. G. E. King, the pastor. The large choir of 39 persons, directed by Peter Pleken, sang hymns of thanksgiving and praise, and Dr. King made comments upon the scriptures.

Christian Science

A Thanksgiving service was conducted by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at Colonial hall, yesterday morning.

Drum Gifts to Poor

Agent Charles F. Richardson of the Lowell Humane society received two loads of vegetables and fruit yesterday from the pupils of the Dracut Central school, to be distributed among the poor people of this city. For the past three or four years the children of this school have made donations through the medium of the Lowell Humane society and the numerous farm products including potatoes, cabbages, turnips, apples, carrots, parsnips, etc., have been sent to the most needy families in the city.

Yesterday over 15 houses were visited by Mr. Richardson and his assistant, Frederick Gilmore. Besides the articles mentioned above, clothing was given to many families and as the local humane officer has an excellent idea of where these things are needed, he was able to dispose of them in the proper way.

Donations were also sent to the Lowell Humane society by the Worthen Street Baptist and Highland Congregational churches.

TO LIE, OR NOT TO LIE

Just What to Tell a Patient Is the Most Puzzling Problem a Young Practitioner Has to Deal With

Whether to tell a patient or the members of his family just what is the matter with him, is one of the most puzzling problems the young medical practitioner has to face. Very often he has to lie about it. Sometimes he does not get found out.

"When I began the practice of medicine I was located in the heart of old Greenwich Village, and the diphtheria antitoxin had not been discovered, said one physician.

Parents, as well as physicians, were much exercised when a child had an attack of diphtheria. In the immediate neighborhood, when the news got about that a child was stricken with the disease, there was almost a panic. I was called on a case one bitter cold and stormy night, and found the child well advanced in the disease and suffering from neglect. The mother was very young. It was her first child, and she was so worried over the condition of the little one, that in order to calm her I assured her it was not a case of diphtheria, only an aggravated form of tonsillitis sore throat. That so relieved her that I was not sorry I had lied to her. The case yielded to treatment so readily that when I called in the early morning of the next day the child was well on the way to recovery.

"My lie would never have been discovered and no harm would have been done had it not been for an intermeddling old grandmother who put in an appearance about an hour after I had left the house. She was sure there had been diphtheria, and hustled off to her family physician, who was in those days at the head of the medical profession here.

"He had no scruples about telling the truth about the case. He tried to calm the mother by telling her that no one could have done better with the case and that I had probably saved the child's life.

"When I called at the house in the afternoon there was a storm of which I was the center. I was not allowed to see the baby.

"But I did see the mother, and what she said was good and plenty. I pleaded in extenuation of my prostration that I had saved the child's life, had done no injury to any one, and had practically all of these unpleasant experiences recorded in Oregon followed the establishment of the first aid to mother's law in this state.

A good plan was all but wrecked by bad machinery and poor administration. Since then the Illinois act has been amended, and in Chicago thanks to civic spirit and voluntary co-operation, the machinery has been considerably improved. Steps have been taken to detect fraud and prevent robbery of the taxpayers. Oregon can learn something from our experience.

The aid to mothers system is essentially sound, but it should be slowly and carefully worked out. A crude system does more harm than good alike in a material and moral sense.

In the immediate neighborhood, when the news got about that a child was stricken with the disease, there was almost a panic. I was called on a case one bitter cold and stormy night, and found the child well advanced in the disease and suffering from neglect. The mother was very young. It was her first child, and she was so worried over the condition of the little one, that in order to calm her I assured her it was not a case of diphtheria, only an aggravated form of tonsillitis sore throat. That so relieved her that I was not sorry I had lied to her. The case yielded to treatment so readily that when I called in the early morning of the next day the child was well on the way to recovery.

"My lie would never have been discovered and no harm would have been done had it not been for an intermeddling old grandmother who put in an appearance about an hour after I had left the house. She was sure there had been diphtheria, and hustled off to her family physician, who was in those days at the head of the medical profession here.

"He had no scruples about telling the truth about the case. He tried to calm the mother by telling her that no one could have done better with the case and that I had probably saved the child's life.

"When I called at the house in the afternoon there was a storm of which I was the center. I was not allowed to see the baby.

practically all of these unpleasant experiences recorded in Oregon followed the establishment of the first aid to mother's law in this state.

A good plan was all but wrecked by bad machinery and poor administration. Since then the Illinois act has been amended, and in Chicago thanks to civic spirit and voluntary co-operation, the machinery has been considerably improved. Steps have been taken to detect fraud and prevent robbery of the taxpayers. Oregon can learn something from our experience.

The aid to mothers system is essentially sound, but it should be slowly and carefully worked out. A crude system does more harm than good alike in a material and moral sense.

SUCCESS OF PLAN

The Chicago Record-Herald says:

Chicago has had so much trouble with the aid to mothers, or 'mothers' pension' law that she is in a position to sympathize with Oregon, where a report on four months' operation of a similar statute has been eliciting considerable comment.

According to the Oregon investigators, the law has promoted fraud and perjury. Fifty per cent of the applications had to be rejected. False affidavits as to income and residence poured in. On the other hand, needy and deserving mothers shrank from making applications and exposing themselves to suspicion.

Nor is this all. Voluntary aid to mothers was discontinued and much suffering caused thereby. Worst of all in the words of one observer, 'the law has filled the children's homes very nearly to capacity through the giving up of their children by unsuccessful applicants.' Instead of keeping families together—the main object of the law—the granting and refusal of pensions have operated to break up homes.

Practically all of these unpleasant experiences recorded in Oregon followed the establishment of the first aid to mother's law in this state.

Just What to Tell a Patient Is the Most Puzzling Problem a Young Practitioner Has to Deal With

Whether to tell a patient or the members of his family just what is the matter with him, is one of the most puzzling problems the young medical practitioner has to face. Very often he has to lie about it. Sometimes he does not get found out.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER NEWSPAPER STYLE BEST

OTTAWA, Nov. 28.—"Free food before dreadnaughts," was the text of a speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the liberal leader, before a great meeting in the conservative city of Hamilton Wednesday night.

Sir Wilfrid pointed out that the United States was draining the country of the food and that the cost of living was advancing with startling rapidity. His speech was received with remarkable signs of approval and it indicates that the opposition at the coming session of parliament will make free food, "a free breakfast table," as the liberals call it, their main issue. Sir Wilfrid said:

"The situation requires action, prompt, unhesitating action. The policy I give you at this moment, the policy I believe every patriot in Canada ought to support and the policy I believe it to be the duty of the government immediately to inaugurate, is a policy of absolutely free food—free from customs duty."

"It will be said of me: 'If you advocate that policy do you not advocate a revision of the tariff to that extent?' Certainly I do; but somebody will tell me that the tariff which is in force today is the Fidelity tariff of 1897. It is not the Fidelity tariff made for the needs of that time, not for all eternity. It has been the policy of the liberal party at all times to stand for as possible for stability in tariff, but when the needs of the people call for action action must be taken."

"What is of immediate interest to the people of Canada today? Not the price of dreadnaughts. There is one thing which at this moment engages the minds of the Canadian people from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast. It is a far more prosaic and far more vital question—it is the question of the high cost of living."

"I told you at the beginning that new problems are continually arising. There are latent forces which, unnoticed, silent and unforeseen, work out problems which were never dreamed of. This is one of them."

"A table of statistics lately compiled by the British board of trade, which is known for its accuracy, has shown that the cost of living has increased 7 per cent. in Great Britain during the last decade, and in Canada 51 per cent. Now just one point here. 'Effect that Canada produces yearly 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, while the local consumption is daily 50,000 bushels, and the surplus has to find a market abroad. Up to this time practically the only market has been the market of Great Britain."

"If, then, we reflect that Great Britain has to import all the wheat which she consumed, and if we reflect further that the price of wheat and the price of bread are cheaper in Great Britain than in Canada, then you have to agree with me that there must be something rotten in the state of Denmark—Canada."

"And we have not reached the end of the high cost of living. The cost of living will be higher in two or three months than it is today. What is the cause? The recent reductions in the American tariffs."

Clearer, Most Concise and Most Interesting in Which Things Can be Written, Says Beckman

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 28.—The newspaper style which is becoming more and more essential in the equipment of every high grade writer is the clearest, most concise and most interesting style in which things can be written," declared Prof. F. W. Beckman of the department of Journalism of Iowa State college today in addressing the professors of Journalism of 18 colleges and universities gathered here for the second meeting of the American conference of teachers of Journalism.

"The news sense, the ability to see what is new and its new meaning to the great mass of humanity is necessary to men in every field of endeavor, but especially to men who write."

"With all its faults I still believe in the news style," he continued, "as the most efficient style of this modern day for presenting information through the written word. It has been hammered out in the heat and stress of newspaper work to meet the demand of millions for something to compel their attention in the quickest, clearest way possible. The news writer comes fresh from the things he writes and puts the energy and life, or it may be, the joy and sorrow of what he has just seen or heard, into the living, breathing words of his story."

"There is a vital living quality in news writing that demands attention and grips interest. This style is more widely used than any other. It is of the people and for them and has come through years to have a value that cannot be denied."

"The ranks of present day literary successes are filled with men and women who had their training in the newspaper office."

"The demands of editors and publishers everywhere is for matter written in the same clear, concise, interesting way that has made the American newspaper the most readable publication printed, either today or in any time."

Prof. James Melvin Lee of New York university discussed instruction in advertising, circulation matters and other phases of the newspaper in connection with college courses in Journalism.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Joseph Jastrow of the University of Wisconsin, speaking here today before the national council of teachers of English, referred to the possibility of a society for the prevention of cruelty to the English language.

Prof. Jastrow told the result of an inquiry as to what would be the outcome if 50 objectionable expressions caught in ordinary conversation were found such amounts, varying from one cent to one dollar as seemed to fit punishment for each separate offence, according to the pain inflicted on the hearer. The judges, 88 in number, included 12 women. Half of the 68 reside east of the Alleghenies.

Among the judges were college professors, leading editors and readers for prominent publishing houses.

For each offense was the outcome. Prof. Jastrow suggested that the revenues from the enforcement of the fines against violations of good English would make a substantial fund to be distributed in prizes by a society for the prevention of cruelty to English speech.

What prompted Prof. Jastrow's unique inquiry was a study of linguistic sensibility as a field for the determination of the variety of factors of judging process.

F. N. Scott of the University of Michigan, whose topic was "The Undeclared Gate," asked: "Of what use is it to drill pupils in grammar, to sweat over compositions, to spend months after months in the reading and study of English masterpieces if steadily, day by day, some powerful disintegration agency nullifies all that we have accomplished?"

Not even the Bible, Prof. Scott said, could not compete with the daily newspaper as the most powerful and most pervasive influence of our day.

Unless Properly Treated With Hyomel This Disease May Become Serious

If you have catarrh, usually indicated by sniffling, stopped up head, droppings in throat, watery eyes, and morning choking, there is an irritated state of the mucous membrane which affords an ideal condition for the growth of disease germs. Do not allow the dangerous germs which may be breathed into the nose, throat and lungs to begin the destruction of your health. The easiest, simplest, quickest, surest and cheapest way to check catarrh is by breathing Hyomel—all druggists sell it. This wonderful medicated air treatment does not upset the stomach but is breathed in through the Hyomel inhaler, directly following and surely destroying all disease germs that may have been inhaled—the tissues of the throat, nose and lungs are quickly healed and vitalized.

The unusual way in which Hyomel is sold by Carter & Sherburne dispels all doubts as to its curative properties. Money refunded to anyone whom Hyomel fails to benefit. A complete outfit, including inhaler and bottle of liquid, costs but $1.00.

CARELESS USE OF GUNS

TWO BOYS WERE KILLED AND A THIRD SERIOUSLY WOUNDED AT ATLANTA, GA.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 28.—Two boys were killed and a third seriously wounded here yesterday through the careless use of firearms. Charles Bridwell, 11 years old, was accidentally shot and killed by his 15-year-old brother, Brailen, while the boys were hunting.

John Garst, 14, shot himself through the stomach with a rifle while hunting and died shortly afterwards.

Charles Howell, 13, was accidentally shot in the hip by his brother. It is believed he will recover.

TRIPLE LOOP IN AIR

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 28.—Lincoln Beachey executed a triple loop with his biplane here yesterday. The feat was performed easily and at no time was he in danger of losing control of his machine.

Strapped to the seat of his biplane, Beachey circled upward to an altitude of nearly 3000 feet. Then the frail craft darted downward several hundred feet, described a vertical circle and rose again. Another drop to within a few hundred feet of the earth and the aviator turned a second somersault. Then righting his biplane he ascended a thousand feet, made a third loop and came swooping down to earth.

Not even the Bible, Prof. Scott said, could not compete with the daily newspaper as the most powerful and most pervasive influence of our day.

CONGRESSMAN ROGERS

Selects Three Young Men for the U.S. Naval Academy as Result of Examinations Held Here

As a Thanksgiving gift to three fine young fellows of the Fifth Congressional district, Congressman Rogers, on Wednesday, made his designations of a principal and the first and second alternates to the United Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., Lawrence B. Richardson of Methuen secures the principal's place, Elmer Robert Hill of Chelmsford, the place of first alternate and Harold Taylor of Stow, that of second alternate.

A stiff examination, held in behalf of Congressman Rogers by the United States civil service commission, took place at the Lowell high school on October 22d inst. About three weeks later the Civil Service commission notified Congressman Rogers that of the contestants in this examination Lawrence B. Richardson of Methuen had been first in rank with a percentage of 78.55, Elmer Robert Hill of Chelmsford, second in rank with a percentage of 60.55 and Harold Taylor of Stow, third in rank with a percentage of 58.45. On November 22nd, these three young men went before Dr. Hugo B. C. Reimer of Boston, the official medical examiner for the United States Civil Service commission, for physical examination. This medical examination feature was devised by Congressman Rogers and was put into operation for the first time. Its purpose is to ascertain physical unfitness at the outset without subjecting the various candidates to the humiliation and loss of time and money, which has hitherto resulted, since they did not learn of any physical shortcomings until they actually presented themselves at the Naval academy, months after their designation. The three young men above named, however, all successfully passed the rigorous physical examination and were therefore, as above indicated, designated in order of their rank in the mental examination.

Rumors of foul play are current among the friends of Foley. A Spaniard whose name has not been learned has been detained by the police pending investigation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Four robbers broke up the Thanksgiving celebration of the proprietors of a restaurant at 80 Henry street last night and, failing to get money, shot one of the partners in the head and got away.

Paul Delgelowitz and Steve Uraerawitz sold their restaurant yesterday and got the money for it. They told their customers it was their last day of ownership and that the drinks were on the house. In the midst of the fun four men came in, backed the partners up against the wall and asked for money. The partners were too frightened to give it to them and one of the four men shot Delgelowitz and ran.

Tables were overturned in the scramble to get out of the place and when the police arrived the restaurant was carpeted with upset food and dishes. Delgelowitz was taken to Gouverneur hospital. His condition is serious.

Of the 50 men summoned 40 are farmers and eight are Shelbyville business men. Judge Blair has made preparation for holding night sessions if it is found necessary.

BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

PECULIAR CASE GROWING OUT OF SUICIDE OF FRANK B. SHERBURNE

In the jury waived session of superior court Wednesday, with Judge Pratt presiding, arguments were heard on a demurrer in the case of Jennie L. Carter of Wakefield, a Boston school teacher, who brings suit against Alice Z. Twombly of Haverhill, executrix of the estate of the late Frank B. Sherburne, who at the time of his death was a teacher in the Lowell high school. She asked for damages of $1000. The matter was briefly noted in Wednesday's edition of The Sun.

The plaintiff claims that in the year 1911 she and the defendant's testator, Frank B. Sherburne, mutually agreed to marry; and that in November of the same year the said Frank B. Sherburne voluntarily broke said contract by taking his own life. She also claims that relying upon this promise she gave up her position as teacher in the Boston public schools and therefore lost her claim for promotion; that she performed work for Mr. Sherburne that was of great value to him and his estate and that she expended large sum of money in preparation for their marriage.

Arguments on the demurrer were made by William H. Wilson for the defense, and Mr. Hamilton of Boston for the plaintiff. Judge Pratt reserved decision.

Mr. George O'Neil, a very neat presentation speech, although taken completely by surprise, the young lady responded in a very fitting manner. Immediately after the presentation games and a musical program were enjoyed and refreshments were served. Those who helped to make the evening pleasant were Mrs. Anna G. Carpenter, Misses Florence Buckley, Veronica Brennan and the Misses Campbell and Gillick. Vocal selections by Misses Elizabeth O'Brien, Eva Rivers, Lillian Earten, Elizabeth Farrell, Walter Dingley and a quartet composed of the Misses Alicia Ingalls, Margaret Gillen, Edna Finnegan and Christopher Nugent. All departed at a late hour wishing Miss Gillick much pleasure and success in the future. The success of the affair was due to the earnest efforts of the Brinkley Girls.

SPLENDID PARTY

Fifty Convivial Souls at Festive Board on Thanksgiving Eve

The strains of "Annie Laurie" softly floating through the room, the subdued rays of numberless crimson-shaded lights, the tiny islands of snowy tablecloths, the gleam of shining silver, the light tread of the charming waitresses—these would have greeted any fortunate visitor gifted with an "open sesame" if he were to cross the threshold of the Waverly dining room Thanksgiving eve where a group of 50 choice spirits were making an early start in celebrating the festival. Notwithstanding the fact that before another sunset they were scheduled to sit down to their accustomed Thanksgiving dinners in their own homes, each and every one of the fifty attacked the turkey fore and aft, made gallant forays against the "fixins" and did right valiant service when in the final onslaught they faced the desserts and drinkables. This conquest made, those of the half hundred who were still ready for action gathered around the piano and sang "You Made Me Love You," addressed to the departed turkeys. Just before the Battle, Mother, "Sweet Memories" and other airs suitable to the time and place. Interspersed with these bursts of vocal melodies, were piano solos which, as the ladies would exclaim, were charming. The music and birth increased with the hours and when the last of the 50 had taken his way along starlit Market street, he vied the thought of all when he recollected: "It was the jolliest time ever."

Joe Fredette presided at the piano and there were songs by Eddie Shea and John Wilby and a charming musical sketch by Madden and Fitzpatrick, engaged this week at Keith's theatre. The guests of honor were Mayor James E. O'Donnell and Commissioner Andrew E. Barrett.

SOLDIER'S LIFE

Inquiry of Judge Landis Answered Today—$2500 Ordered

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—The inquiry of Judge Landis of the United States district court to find out "why a soldier's life is worth only $750" was answered today.

The judge's curiosity was aroused by a settlement of the Mobile & Ohio R. Co. with Mrs. Mary Panek for the death in a wreck of her son, a soldier, for $750, less $250 attorney's fees.

Judge Landis appointed a new attorney for Mrs. Panek and when the case was called today a settlement out of court for $2500 was announced.

New York Real Estate Security Co. Has Financial Difficulties—Attorneys Say It Is Only Temporary

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The New York Real Estate Security Co., with large realty holdings of office buildings and apartment houses was forced into bankruptcy today. The assets, consisting of a quarter in mortgage real estate and bonds are estimated at $100,000. The company announced its real estate dealings through the sale of six per cent bonds throughout the country. Attorneys for the concern said that its embarrassment would be only temporary.

close down. The legislature, realizing that the new law would work some hardship, decided to allow cities and towns to increase their tax limit. Most of the cities throughout the state, it is understood, took advantage of this privilege.

At a meeting of the municipal council held August 16, Mayor O'Donnell moved that the city solicitor be instructed to draw up an ordinance fixing the tax limit at $10 instead of $12. Com. Cummings seconded the motion but it didn't carry. Commissioners Barrett, Brown and Donnelly voted it down. This, however, in the estimation of a majority of the council does not mean that Lowell cannot yet increase the limit to $15. The law requires that before the limit is raised a public hearing must be given and such a hearing was held and it is claimed that the defect of the mayor's motion to have a new ordinance prepared for the extension of the tax limit does not mean that the matter has been killed in its entirety. A decision in the matter will soon be forthcoming from the city solicitor.

Because of the fact that it is impossible to obtain the necessary figures from the head clerk in the office of superintendent of streets, City Engineer Kearney says it is almost impossible for his department to make proper estimates. When there is paving or other street or sewer work to be done the greatest guide is found in the figures having to do with similar work done during the previous year.

"The street department," said Engineer Kearney, today, "has not issued an annual report since Clarence Raymond left the department. Mr. Raymond was head clerk in the street department and was a very capable man. On the first week of January he would submit figures covering the work of the previous year. These figures were always given in great detail and were of the greatest assistance to the city engineer and his assistants."

"Several times this year I have gone to Mr. Tuttle, head clerk in the street department, for figures covering certain things, and I think that in about every instance I was unable to get the figures. All figures should be available at all times in that department and we have been hampered in our work here because of the fact that we were not able to get figures when we wanted them."

"The street department has not issued an annual report since Mr. Raymond left. He quit the job in August or September of 1911 and the last annual report issued by that department was for 1910."

Asked if the department would issue an annual report for 1913, Mr. Kearney said: "Yes, we intend to get out some kind of report in this office. We have kept close tabs on all of the work done this year and we will do the best we can on the annual report."

having a Lowell man appointed to the commission but in order to have the commission made up of disinterested parties and to avoid any and all complications it was decided not to appoint a Lowell man to the commission.

After about three hours' deliberation the following were agreed upon as members of the commission: Patrick H. Cooney, of Natick; George W. Swain of Boston, and Nelson T. Brown of Everett. Several men mentioned for the commission were objected to by Mr. Hennessy and it was Mr. Hennessy who suggested the name of Nelson T. Brown, who was one time solicitor for Everett and is at the present time an assistant in the office of District Attorney Hilditch. The first man appointed to the commission, Patrick H. Cooney, is a former district attorney for Middlesex county.

Alderman Barrett's Way

Appropos to grade crossing conferences, Alderman Barrett says there is but one way to abolish a crossing and that is to abolish it. The alderman was very earnest when he made this observation this morning and, for the nonce, was not clearly understood. He was asked to explain and Alderman Barrett is some explainer—"Believe mah."

"The holding of conferences was never known to abolish a crossing," quoth Mr. Barrett, "and just so long as the conferences are kept up, just so long will the crossing remain. The only way to abolish the Middlesex street crossing is to force the issue. Cut out the conferences and say to the railroad that the crossing must be abolished."

"I didn't indulge in very many conferences when the water department got ready to lay the 24-inch main across the Merrimack river. If we had started the conference racket we would still be conferring. The only thing to do is take the bull by the horns and go to it. When a public service corporation is told to remove a pole and the pole isn't removed within a certain time, the city department having charge of the pole, or rather, the commissioner at the head of that department should have the pole chopped down. He wouldn't have to do it many times before the public service corporations would realize that they were up against the real thing. Yes sir-ee, the only way to abolish a crossing is to abolish it," and everybody took the alderman's word for it.

Not All His Men

After he had finished with the grade crossing question, Ald. Barrett called attention to the fact that insinuations had been cast as to the number of water department men engaged in Westford street on the main extending from Church street, through Appleton and Chestnut streets. "The trouble with a great many people," said Mr. Barrett, "is that they fit into print before they know what they are talking about. There are quite a number of men working in Westford street, but they are not all water department men. Some of them are street railway men, some telephone and some sewer men. My men are working like beavers. They have encountered very formidable ledge, but they are boring their way through all right. The fact that there is water in the new main at the corner of Chestnut and Westford streets is the best evidence that they have been on the job every minute."

Puckett's home burned last September and the charred body of Mrs. Makinson was found in the ruins. An autopsy showed that the woman's skull had been fractured. Gilbert Gallant, the hard hitting Chelsea lightweight, who is now boxing better than at any time in his career, opened the season with a rush and showed form, that surprised even the most skeptic fan. He has defeated Harry Dillon of Philadelphia, Johnny Lane of New York, Joe Eagan of Boston, who only lasted two rounds with the fighting Frenchman. His most recent fight was with Grover Hayes, the clever Philadelphia, who is a past master of the art of self defense, and the best Hayes could do was to hold Gallant to a draw. Gallant would like to meet Matty Baldwin, Eddie Murphy or Steve Kennedy, the three performers who have received decisions over him.

The High School Alumni game Saturday will bring out quite a crowd for the local season's windup. The alumni will include many of the star football players who have been graduated in recent years. Cawley, Bailey, Donovan and Canney are four of Lowell's famous stars in recent years.

Finney Doyle is coming along in great style under the able tutelage of Jack Wagner of Lawrence. Finney fought Tommy Carson of Lawrence of his feet last night at the down-river club in one of the all-star bouts. Wagner will make a headliner out of him before he gets through with the local boy.

The England vs. Scotland soccer game at Lawrence yesterday pulled an immense crowd of enthusiasts who saw the Englishmen defeated 2 to 1. It was a great game from start to finish and kept the spectators on their toes throughout.

Steve Kennedy has been rematched to fight Jack Read of Australia at Jim Callahan's club in Lawrence. Steve put it over the foreigner in their last contest in what was one of the greatest bouts ever staged at this club. Read claimed he was not in condition and expects to reverse the decision at their next meeting.

The Army-Navy game next Saturday is the last big gridiron contest on the calendar for this season. The midshipmen have been victorious in the majority of the games played between the two academies but the West Pointers are figuring on a win this year. On paper it looks like either team's game.

Passey DeLuca proved too strong for Kid Mercer last night and won the decision after ten hard rounds. Mercer is a boxer, while DeLuca is built along the bulldog line. The latter proved too rugged for Mercer in the close work.

AYER TEAM WINS

Defeats White Ways in Fast Game—Cole and Bernardini Roll, the High Totals.

The White Ways were taken into camp Wednesday night in their bowling match with the Ayer Five by the score of 1402 to 1332, losing two out of the three strings. In spite of their heavy rolling in the last string they were not plus to the bad at the conclusion of the game. Cole of the losers was high man with 305.

The Majestics lost a fast game from the Lincolns yesterday afternoon. The winners took the first and third strings and the total by the score of 1330 to 1255. W. Chadwick of the Lincolns was high man with a mark of 284 and a single of 110.

The Married Men proved their superiority to their less fortunate brethren, the Single Men, in their six-man bowling match Thanksgiving day. Bernardini of the Single Men was high with a

Mike Glover, who claims the welterweight championship, covered himself with glory yesterday afternoon at the Irving A. C. New York, by winning over Jack Britton in 10 rounds. Glover had a clear lead at the finish. The result of the bout was a surprise. Britton was a big favorite. Glover had not been seen in the big city for months, and it was the general opinion that the Chicago speed merchant would dance rings around the Boston lad and win with plenty to spare, but the boy from the bean town upset the dope.

At the Verona arena in Los Angeles yesterday Joe Rivers, the Mexican pugilist, defeated Leach Cross, the New York lightweight, in 20 rounds of fast fighting. After two knockdowns in the fourth and ninth rounds, Cross showed marvelous recuperative powers and fought brilliantly, but could not overcome the lead Rivers won by constant and vicious milling. The bout was one of the best seen on the court for some time.

Talbot, the big Yale guard who is being picked by many critics for an All-American berth, has two juniors only as opponents for the captaincy of next year's eleven. Wilson, the quarterback who made such an excellent showing this season, and McLoish, who played a short while at end in the Harvard game, are both third year men, so that Talbot will doubtless be picked as Yale's leader for 1914.

Lowell high put a most discouraging finale to its 1913 gridiron season yesterday. The individual players may take a lot of credit to themselves for the game manner in which they fought Lawrence from start to finish. Captain Cullen put a great deal of fight into the line but the fact remains that they did not know how to stop those short runs and skin tackle plays.

The Indians had a tough time of it with the lowly Brown team and barely won out by a 13 to 0 score. The attitude of the Brown team, when they came in, was not surprising. They were never noted for being a good loser. Perhaps he had a little trouble with the Dartmouth management at the Polo Grounds. Needless to say, the Brown team could not have beaten the Green at any stage of the season.

Cornell sprung a surprise on the football world by its stinging defeat of Penn. Cornell always puts up a hard fight with its traditional rivals but a score of yesterday's dimensions was never thought of by the warmest supporters of the Ithaca college.

roll of 305. Bernardini also rolled the high single of 111.

The North Ends conquered their Salem opponents by the narrow margin of three pins. The North Ends won two out of the three strings. The close of the contest was very interesting. Morin was high man. The scores and summaries:

White Ways—Kempton 210, Cole 305, Hall 271, Devlin 273, Perrin 267; totals 1332.

Ayer Junction—Mahan 270, Kennedy 285, Robbins 259, Nutting 273, Fitzgerald 286; totals 1402.

Majestics—Donnelly 278, B. Silcox 250, Lyman 276, S. Silcox 249, Mullin 232; totals 1285.

Lincolns—W. Chadwick 284, Allen 272, Bowman 255, Durkin 269, A. Chadwick 251; totals 1320.

form throughout the contest and Lowell simply stayed off defeat by successful individual efforts. Lawrence displayed a versatility of attack which neither the Lowell line nor backfield could fathom and the winning team's march up the field for a touchdown looked like a walkover.

The home team used a formation with their backs in a line perpendicular to the scrimmage line and traded through each tackle for substantial gains. All the interference was thrown against the opposing tackle with the result that he was usually snared under. Short end runs and line bucks were also intermingled from this formation which Lowell could not follow.

Lowell was outclassed in the first half of the game and were very lucky to escape being scored upon. Twice Lawrence had the ball in the shadow of the Lowell team's goal post and twice the Lowell team stiffened and held Lawrence for down. Cahill attempted to punt practically on his own goal line and fumbled a poor pass. He recovered the ball himself, however, and the danger was over for the time being.

In the third period Snyder snapped a forward pass to Roane and the diminutive Lowell end sped across the Lawrence goal line with the ball. The referee called the play back, however, claiming that Lowell had violated the rules in making the pass.

The Lowell team, individually, played good football. Brunelle, at right half, was as usual the star backfield man. Whether the play was on his side of the line or not, Danny was always right on the job and his fierce tackling told heavily on the Lawrence backs.

On the offense Brunelle was also the most impressive back for Lowell. Time and again he hit the line, smashing tackle for substantial gains. His efforts to even up matters by a touchdown in the fourth period after Lawrence had scored, although vain, were heroic. He sustained his reputation yesterday as being one of the best

LOWELL HIGH BLOCKING A SKIN TACKLE PLAY

Although reinforced by the presence of Capt. Cullen in their lineup Lowell high went down to defeat yesterday at the hands of their bitter rivals, Lawrence high, on the N. E. league baseball grounds at Lawrence by the score of 7 to 0. The touchdown and goal came in the fourth period of one of the most strenuous games that was ever fought out between schoolboys in the down river city.

Lawrence high showed the better halfbacks which the local school ever turned out.

Capt. Cullen was heard from at left tackle with a vengeance and his running-mate, Moehrie, also played a good game on the other side. Many yards were made through both Lowell tackles, but the fault did not lay with Cullen or Moehrie. So much interference was thrown at them and so little help was forthcoming that neither player was able to stem the tide. The simple facts of the case were that Lawrence knew more football and displayed it on both offense as well as defense.

Bowers was not sent in at left half. He has played the backfield for the past two seasons, but Cahill was shifted from left end to left half. Cahill played a hard, aggressive game, but the position was unfamiliar to him. Cahill and Bennett both tackled the Lawrence backs many times after they had broken through the line.

DIAMOND NOTES

The national baseball commission has decided that hereafter all players eligible to participate in post season contests under the control of the commission, whether world's or any other series, will receive equal shares of the money awarded to their teams. This information was made public by John Evers, manager of the Chicago Cubs.

According to Evers this action was taken by the commission when complaint was filed by three Cub pitchers, Jim Vaughn, Earl Moore and Eddie Slack, over the division of the Cubs' money after this fall. These three pitchers received only half a share each. The commission, it was stated, refused to take action on the complaint but decided that in the future all participating players will be given equal shares whether they have been with their team a full season or not.

Realizing that his chances for the pennant last season were marred when Eddie Foster was stricken with typhoid fever, Manager Griffith of the Senators will have every member of his team inoculated with typhoid bacillus before the players go into training early next spring.

This is considered an absolute preventive against the disease, and will make the players immune from its ravages.

Griffith was advised last spring to take this precaution, but feared that the injections would disable the throwing arms of his players for a period, thus interfering with the training. But it has since been found that such is not the case, and that the players can undergo the treatment during the training period without suffering any inconvenience.

JACKIE CLARK, AUSTRALIAN SPEED

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Jackie Clark is expected to cut a big figure in the six day bicycle race which starts in Madison Square Garden one minute after midnight on the morning of Dec. 8. The little Australian speed demon always has been a picturesque and interesting contender in the annual big race, and many of the followers of the game will pin their faith and dollars on him to be close up at the finish.

Although Clark's colors have repeatedly been lowered by Frank Krumer in track races, it is agreed that over the long route Clark has few equals. In all the six day events that he has entered he has been right up among the leaders, and from the start of the match he is sure to set a killing pace. Clark has been training faithfully for the big show and has confided to his friends that he never was in better physical condition.

foreign countries. When the Comiskey party sailed from here each manager had 11 players under his control. The American tour netted a total of $27,219 for the 31 games played, or an average of more than $800 per game. The White Sox team in the foreign games will be made up of Pitchers Scott, Benz and Lavender; Catchers Bliss and Daly; Sam Crawford, first base; Herman Schaefer, second base; Weaver, shortstop; Dick Egan, third base; Tris Speaker, Steve Evans, Dely or Manager; Coffman in the outfield.

The Sox team will have White Sox, Hearne and Fisher, Western League recruits, for pitchers; Ivy Wingo, catcher; Merkle, first base; Doyle, second base; Mike Doohan, shortstop; Hans Lohrsta, third base; Lee Magee, Jim Therpe and Mike Donlin for the outfield.

"Bullet Jack" Thoney, one of the fastest outfielders who ever wore a spiked shoe, is again in condition and it was stated recently will play in either the International or American association next season. Thoney has been out of the game for a season, suffering with a bad arm. Jack stated feeling with a bad arm better than recently that his arm feels better than in many moons and from all indications will be in first class condition next year.

Current reports were to the effect that Jake Stahl, former manager of the Eastern American league champion of 1913, would manage the Chicago team in the Federal league next season. Stahl last night laughed when asked if there was any truth to the report.

"It's the first I have heard of the matter," he said.

The Federal league appears to be making a desperate attempt to land competent managers for next season.

Roy Hartzell, Chance's clever utility player, will be retained next season and it is not improbable that he will win a regular place in the outfield. Hartzell could have been sold to the Boston Red Sox recently, as Jimmy McAlister said he could find a regular berth for him, but Chance would not listen to any kind of a proposition. In view of this fact Chance will have four capable outfielders in Jimmy Walsh, Hartzell, Cook and Gilhecue, with one also a possibility. Chance intends to bank entirely on Williams, Zedeno, Leckiepaugh, Malzel and Beane to look after the infield positions. When the F. L. comes east after the holidays he probably will put through deals to strengthen the New Yorks in the box and behind the bat.

It is announced that Fred Clarke has signed to manage the Pittsburghs again next season. The terms agreed upon were those offered by the club.

Ed Konetchy, the St. Louis Cardinals' first baseman, returned to St. Louis following a month's outing trip in Wisconsin. Konetchy reiterated the statement that he was through with the St. Louis club. His household effects have been put in storage and Konetchy insists that it is only a question of time when a formal announcement is made of his transfer to some other club, presumably the New York Giants. Manager Miller Huggins announced that he sold Charley O'Leary to the Los Angeles club. The sale of O'Leary, who was hurriedly secured from Indianapolis following Hausser's injury, is taken as indicating that Hausser, laid up all of last season because of a bad knee will be in his old position next year.

Says the New York Sun: "Many players who have refused to sign contracts until the fraternity's demands have been acted upon are finding the road beset with obstacles. They are without money and are wondering how they can replenish their pocket-books. It has been customary at this time of the year to ask the club owners to advance money on next season's contracts in order to pay living expenses during the winter months but under present conditions the players cannot ask for these favors and must get along as best they can. As time passes it is believed that some of the players will be forced to capitulate. The commission will not take up the fraternity's demands until January and by that time it is thought the players will have become tired of hardships. It is possible that some of the stars will receive increased offers to get in line and if they break loose from their organization others will follow."

So even modern high-priced players go broke like the old "rums," do they?

The bill of Louis Courtney, which was allowed against the Lawrence club amounts to $46 and was for salary, money for meals and for car fares. Courtney claimed 10 days' salary and also claimed that he was entitled to certain money, which he contended he had paid in meals and car fares. The claim was heard by the national board last week and the decision against the Lawrence club was made Saturday.

James C. McGill, owner of the Denver Western league baseball club, is after the Newark club, the International league, according to a dispatch from Newark received in Denver, Col.

Fielder Jones denied today that he had negotiated with Brooklyn, although he admitted he had a talk with Charles Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn club, at the minor league meeting in Columbus.

"Ebbets made me no offer," said Jones. "You are too high priced a man for me." "Was his comment and I told him I would not want to get back into the game unless I obtained a big contract."

TURKEYS BY PARCEL POST
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 28.—About 200 turkeys and 500 chickens were delivered by parcel post in Kansas City to supply Thanksgiving tables. J. H. Harris, postmaster, said today. About a tenth of these were in sealed packages, which elevated them to the rank of first class matter, making the postage on some packages that ordinarily would have been only 12 cents amount to $2.50.

APPEAL FOR Y.M.C.A. FUND

President Bowen States Building May be Sold Unless About $40,000 be Raised Immediately

A week's campaign to raise $40,000 for the Y. M. C. A. building will be conducted early in December. The true situation concerning the new building is outlined in a circular letter issued by Frank A. Bowen, president of the association. The Connors Bros. company erected the building and has brought suit against the association to recover payment of its promissory note in the sum of $25,427.15, and unless this amount can be raised before Dec. 31 a sheriff's sale may be in order. President Bowen's appeal to contributors to the original fund is as follows:

On July 25, 1912, the Connors Bros. company, the contractors who, as the lowest bidder, erected the Young Men's Christian Association building in Lowell, brought suit against the association to recover payment of its promissory note, dated March 15, 1912, in the sum of $25,427.15 for the unpaid balance due the contractor for work performed and materials furnished. Oct. 29th last, in the superior court in Lowell, a verdict in favor of the contractor was rendered on the note. Final judgment on this verdict will be entered Dec. 1st next, and as early as Dec. 31, 1913, the land and building of the association may be sold by the sheriff to satisfy the attachment heretofore made to secure payment of this judgment. The association is thus face to face with the immediate loss of its property, as the contractor is aggressively enforcing his every legal right. To avert this public catastrophe, a mighty effort must instantly be made. In addition to the $25,427.15 due as above stated to the contractor, there are other valid and unpaid claims owed by the association on account of the new building and its appurtenances, amounting to $34,025.50, a total of $59,452.65. In its effort the association has attempted to raise the necessary fund to tide over this emergency by mortgaging its property but has been unable to do so.

The association has the deepest appreciation of your help in its memorable building fund campaign of 1909 and because of that help it now, in its hour of dire need, most reluctantly appeals to you again.

If you have not followed in detail the progress of the work on the new building, you are likely to inquire why, at this time, we are making so large a deficiency at this time. It is our wish to answer this question, which you are most certainly entitled to ask, as categorically and as candidly as we know how. So far as you may desire to have before you actual figures showing in detail receipts and expenditures, we refer you to the Lowell newspapers of March 21, 1913, where a full financial statement was made. Or if you desire to examine still further, the records of the treasurer of the building fund, carefully vouched and competently kept and audited, showing in full every receipt and every disbursement, are open to your inspection.

When the building campaign was still a thing of the recent past, we were confronted with the question of how most efficiently to expand the fund which had been so splendidly raised. It was suggested by many good friends of the association that it would be wise to set aside a considerable proportion of the total as an endowment fund; but after mature consideration we concluded that the fund which had been entrusted to us was contributed for the purpose of erecting a building which, with its site, should be the property of the association and not any fraction thereof. In this regard our obligation was larger than any duty to the association or to the association work; the campaign had been widely heralded as "A Great Civic Movement," and our duty, we felt, was to the city.

One of our problems we were fortunate enough to obtain for $25,000 (the net sale price of the old Hurd street property), a site representing an assessed valuation of between $30,000 and $50,000 and situated so as to form an attractive addition to a "Civic Center." And for the reasons above indicated, we proceeded to erect on that site a building which, when completed, represent the remainder of the available fund. Without referring for the moment to the indelicacy thereon, we desire to emphasize our strong conviction that for every dollar which we have expended on that building we have received in return a dollar's worth. The building is from every point of view a complete success. Its architectural arrangements make possible a very economical administration and—refer to the "Civic Center" story—the 65 dormitories, comprising the two upper stories, are all occupied by about 150 young men, out of a total membership of about 180, and now yield a rental of close to $500 a week toward the maintenance of the work. Our difficulties thus constitute a most practical endowment.

So far as operating expenses were concerned, we were enabled at the end of the six months' period ending Oct. 1 last—which we believe is fairly indicative of the future—to show a small surplus after payment of all bills. It is an easy thing to prophesy after the event, and if the difficulties, unforeseen and unforeseeable, which have beset the work, could have been foretold, the course of the committee in charge of the undertaking would perchance have been modified. We cannot, however, emphasize too strongly that every dollar of the fund was expended by a committee of capable men, giving most lavishly of their time and experience in a way that seemed at that time best for the ultimate welfare of the association and of the city of Lowell.

About one-half of the entire deficiency is ascribable to the foundation. It had been expected, after a thorough examination as conditions permitted, that the old foundations of Huntington Hall could be used for the new structure; an excavating and uncovering these foundations, they were found wholly unsuitable and hence it was necessary to put new foundations under the entire building at a large additional and unexpected cost. Similarly, it had been planned to support the interior columns on the canal arch; on excavating and uncovering this arch uncertainty as to the strength thereof arose. Your committee, feeling that it was building for all time, secured the services of one of the leading engineering firms in New England. This firm declared that to insure the safety of our building no additional weight should be imposed upon the arch. It therefore became necessary to throw across the canal great reinforced concrete beams at very heavy expense. Again, the cost of waterproofing to prevent leakage from the canal was much heavier than anticipated; it had been expected that the swimming pool could be built upon an earth foundation, but this also, upon excavation, was found to be impracticable and special concrete foundations and additional reinforcements of the pool itself became necessary; the basement of the main building was found to be inadequate to accommodate all the necessary equipment and an extension through solid ledge, at very heavy expense, was the only solution. Other items of less moment, ascribable to the underground work, might be cited, but the above are perhaps sufficient to explain the general nature of the problems met and surmounted for all time but at extremely heavy expense.

The other half of the deficiency is practically a repetition of the above, although the items are not so numerous and hence a recapitulation within brief limits is more difficult. The fund itself shrank through inability hitherto to secure collections of some $7500. A mortgage of $14,000 on the old Hurd street property of the association had to be cleared off before that site was available for the new building. The furnishings and equipment were found to cost some $1000 more than it had been originally planned to spend; compulsory direct-indirect heating for certain portions of the building added over $2000; installation of water connections and a filtration plant entailed the cost of carrying out a swimming pool and shower baths cost nearly $2000 and will save almost that amount yearly in water bills; the properly stringent requirements of local and state building authorities for a structure so largely used as a dormitory, and the installation of a sprinkler system, which will mean greatly reduced insurance rates, entailed heavy additional and unexpected disbursements. Many other items might be set forth, every one of which we believe would appeal to you as not only warranted but as essential to the safety and efficiency of the work. We do not state this by way of apology for, as above indicated, every expenditure was incurred only after careful consideration and upon the decision of the committee that the citizens of Lowell would reap a substantial and adequate benefit as a result.

The association hopes and believes that upon consideration of the facts you will recognize the difficulty of the situation and the explanation of the large debt which resulted therefrom. But even if you feel disposed to criticize anything that has been done in connection with the construction, we hope that you will also recognize that it would be unfair and unfortunate if any consequences of the crisis should be visited upon the association itself. You would no doubt agree that the city of Lowell cannot for one instant afford to be without a Young Men's Christian Association, and yet that will be the result if some solution, if some settlement of its valid debts cannot be achieved.

Another Campaign Coupled

A week's campaign will, early next month, be inaugurated to raise $25,000 and the entire debt may be wiped out and the building saved. Details of this campaign will be furnished you. We are sending you this preliminary letter in the hope that you will carefully consider its contents and that at the proper time you may again give us your enthusiastic and generous support.

Yours sincerely,
Lowell Young Men's Christian Association,
F. A. Bowen, President.

NEW FLAG OF IRELAND

GOLDEN SUNBURST ON A BLUE GROUND LIKELY TO BE CHOSEN, ALTHOUGH OTHERS SUGGESTED

What flag shall Ireland fly? This is a question that is again being discussed as the time draws nearer for the final passage of the home rule bill.

Probably no country has had more national flags than Ireland, so that old-time flags the range of choice is by no means restricted. The most ancient, without doubt, is the "Spear and Serpent," said to commemorate the curing by Moses of an ancestor of Milesius who had been bitten by a snake. Then there is the golden sunburst upon a blue ground, emblem of Fiony, Mac Cumhalla's Fenians (Milesians). Blue was always Ireland's national color until 1758, when the United Irishmen, to signify the blending of north and south, revived a national color of the hue formed by the amalgamation of blue and orange, namely, green.

Another flag is that which Cromwell's soldiers are reputed to have seen when fighting the Kernes, a red cross upon a golden ground. Opinions as to whether such was ever a national emblem or not are divided, many people believing it to have been the arms of an insurgent commander.

The three golden crowns upon a blue ground is another emblem which has not been overlooked. The design appears today in the arms of Munster, and the three crowns are said to typify the triple kingdoms of Desmond, Thomond and Ormonde. Anyway, this flag was the emblem of Ireland from 1170 until 1547, when Henry VIII of England substituted the harp for the three crowns, the reason being that Henry was anxious that the three crowns should not be confused with the triple stars of the pope, with whom at that juncture Henry was not upon the best of terms.

Thus it comes about that the harp, which is deemed so typically Irish, was imposed upon Ireland by an English king; but had not the United Irishmen, although they disapproved the harp in 1798, adopted it as their emblem, and Grattan's parliament recognized the harp, although they did not the green ground, it is hardly likely that the average Irishman today would regard it as other than an upstart burgee.

Still another national device to be considered is the "Lamh Dearg Eirinn," the Red Hand of Ireland, which, upon a white ground, was borne by Shane and Hugh O'Neill's armies that defeated Queen Elizabeth's generals. The early history of the high century saw Ireland indelibly upon a white ground. What St. Patrick had to do with it nobody can say, but some emblem or the other had got to be incorporated in the British flag upon the passing of the act of union, and so the heralds did the rest. Whatever they got the red saltire from is not known but there is reason to believe that it was borrowed from the arms of Trinity college, Dublin, which body had in turn borrowed it from the Fitzgerald family.

In all probability Ireland will adopt the sunburst upon a blue ground, the chief reasons being its antiquity, its distinctly Irish origin and its symbolism of Ireland rising to take her proper place among the nations.

But, come what may, the ground of the new flag is plain to be blue. The Sun Feinners are resolved upon that, and that the flag's material shall not be silk or cotton, but good Irish linen.—London correspondence in New York Sun.

THE LUMBER INDUSTRY

IS GREATEST IN AMERICA, ACCORDING TO E. T. ALLEN, OF PORTLAND, ORE.

According to E. T. Allen of Portland, Ore., lumbering is the greatest American manufacturing industry. It is exceeded only by agriculture in supplying the essentials of life. In an address before the conservation congress at Washington, Mr. Allen called attention to the comparative lack of the public's knowledge of the economics of subjects which touch each individual so closely as forestry and lumbering.

Mr. Allen is forester of the western forestry and conservation association, an organization of lumbermen whose principal activity is the protection of their holdings from fire. A large part of the association's efforts are directed to making the public realize the loss which each individual suffers directly and indirectly, from forest destruction. In this connection he pointed out that forest preservation can not be conducted wholly by business managers or boards of directors. "It is a mutual cooperative enterprise," he said, "requiring the participation by all concerned. The American forest policy must exist not because a few say it should, but because a majority of citizens understand what is needed and why it is needed and put the policy into effect."

The only reason the average citizen does not realize the importance of forestry and does not give it the same active and intelligent interest that he can not see it so clearly. The very immensity and importance of the lumber industry causes its several processes of growing, manufacturing, and distributing to be confused separately, and this confuses the public mind. Different communities see different parts of the whole process, but get no thorough grasp of forest economy.

"In many a little German village the whole community sees the forest grown, cut, manufactured, and used. Those who do not actually participate serve or supply the forest. The forest forestry needs no propaganda. The people could not understand the need for it any more than of propaganda for raising wheat and making bread."

"We talk too much about forests as though they were an end in themselves. We might just as well talk only of land when trying to improve agricultural conditions, or of man when trying the protection and propagation of food fishes. The average citizen must be brought to consider all forest products

tion and use of any necessary crop, obviously to be encouraged and stabilized on a permanent basis profitable to all concerned. Whether he is a private citizen or a law maker serving private citizens, he must be familiar with all the factors. As long as he thinks an uncut forest is forestry, and that such forestry is good and all lumbering bad, there will be no real progress. "There is little trouble in passing laws for the protection and advance of agriculture, horticulture, and dairying, nor public makes any distinction. This being true, the need is to teach the principles of the business from start to finish. Every process, its cost, and its relation to other processes and to the final price of the product should be common knowledge. The education of the public along these lines is the greatest need in forestry today."

ing conditions of these industries and see the point of such laws readily. "To succeed in the United States forestry must be so closely allied with lumbering that neither forester, lumberman, nor public makes any distinction. This being true, the need is to teach the

LETTER FROM MEXICO SECOND FAMILY ACCIDENT

Young Spanish Lady Writes to Sister-in-Law of Late Editor of Miss Bolton With Whom She Studied in Boston

Miss Mary C. Bolton, 42 Forrest street, leader of the ladies' orchestra at Page's restaurant, has received a letter from a Spanish lady now in Mexico with whom she studied music in Boston. It gives a vivid description of the scenes witnessed in fighting at Matamoros. It is as follows:

My Dearest Mary:

I am making a great effort to collect my ideas in order to write you, not an interesting letter, by any means, but at least a comprehensible one. I have lost my wits, my energy, to think, and everything else that made me a rational being. I cannot yet realize that I am alive, sound and safe, with no holes through my body with not a broken bone, not even a scratch, while all around me I saw the poor fellows fall squirming, writhing in the agony of death, crushed by the bullets and the roar of their mortal wounds. Why did the Lord let me live to see such tortures? Why didn't one of those millions of bullets put an end to my miserable, unhappy life? My eyes and soul are dry from shedding all the tears that were in me. I am sick because I cannot cry. I am so frightfully nervous that the steps of any one out on the sidewalk or the slightest noise will make me shiver and shudder.

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—Robert J. Umbstaetter of Washington, D. C., who is in this city making preparations for the cremation of the remains of his brother, H. D. Umbstaetter, former editor and publisher of "Black Cat," received notice early last evening that his wife had met with a serious auto accident at Hartford, Conn., when on her way to church yesterday morning.

As a result of her injuries, which are slight, she was, though not necessarily fatal, she was removed to the St. Francis hospital, Hartford.

With Mrs. Umbstaetter at the time of the accident were her nephew, Col. C. L. F. Robinson of Hartford and Newport, president of the Colt Patent Firearms Manufacturing company, Mrs. Robinson and their two children, Elizabeth Alden Robinson and Francis Robinson, and the chauffeur, Arthur T. Chapin.

The injured ones were riding in a limousine and had just ascended a slight incline on Asylum street, at the intersection of Washington street, when a runaway, owned and controlled by Martin Van Buren Stevens of the Travelers' Insurance company, collided with the rear wheels of the limousine, upsetting it, the roof and the sides, with their heavy plate glass, crashing down on the five occupants.

St. Francis' hospital was only one block away, and there the injured, bruised and bleeding, were carried and attended by physicians.

Stevens was injured but slightly and Chapin escaped with a wrenched back. At the hospital last night Col. Robinson was reported as comfortable. Five stitches were taken in glass lacerations in his scalp, and the muscles of the neck were strained.

Mrs. Robinson is seriously hurt with possible internal injuries, a fractured rib, scalp wounds and suffers extreme pain. Elizabeth, the 12-year-old daughter, suffers from sprained back and a painful glass cuts about the head. The 10-year-old boy, Francis, sustained a deep laceration near the right ear which required four stitches to close and one of the facial arteries in the left cheek was severed.

Mrs. Robinson's aunt, Mrs. Umbstaetter of Washington, who went to Hartford Saturday on a visit, had four stitches taken in a long scalp wound and the ligaments of her left arm are strained. Her head is cut and as she complains of severe pains it is thought she may be internally injured.

The hospital physicians reported last night that they believed that the injured would eventually recover, though all were suffering more or less pain, because of the number of cuts caused by the jagged glass.

Robert J. Umbstaetter, when seen last night at the home of his late brother, Hermann D. Umbstaetter, said that he had been notified that his wife was not so seriously injured as to necessitate his going at once to Hartford.

HOW DO YOU LIKE 'EM?

YOUR EGGS, WE MEAN—THE SPAN- IARD BOILS HIS A MINUTE AND THEN DRINKS THEM DOWN

How do you eat your eggs? To a stranger the manner in which you eat this part of your breakfast may indicate your nationality. Nearly every nationality has some special way of cooking and serving eggs for breakfast, and, quite unconsciously, the average person's order of eggs will reveal his nationality.

Americans are said to prefer poached eggs. The foreigner when traveling who sees a man order a couple of eggs poached on toast almost immediately jumps to the conclusion that only an American could have given the order. Hard boiled eggs, served whole, are another American dish, and "deviled eggs," where the yolk is mixed with various condiments is strictly American. Fried eggs, too, are more common in America than elsewhere.

Hard boiled eggs are eaten in Germany, too, but they are usually prepared in a glass, chopped with butter, salt and pepper. The German likes his soft boiled eggs very soft, indeed, and breaks the contents into a china cup, eating them from the cup. The "egg cup" is an invention of Germany, but the German cups are large enough to contain several eggs. "Sour eggs" are eaten in Germany, too.

The average Englishman likes his egg boiled for three and a half minutes. No Spaniard would dream of letting an egg boil three minutes—that is if he prefers his egg prepared strictly in the native fashion. The egg is allowed to boil only one minute and is then broken open and the contents poured into a glass, the real Spanish epicure drinking it off as it were water.

In Italy, eggs, to be perfectly prepared are started on their boiling by being put into cold water. When the water comes to a boil the egg is done. It is eaten on a large plate with bread.

PAUL WITHINGTON INJURED NEWBURYPORT, Nov. 28.—Paul Withington, former Harvard football star, is nursing a lame leg today as a result of a Thanksgiving day football game between a local eleven and a team made up largely of present and former Harvard players. He failed to rise after a scrimmage and had to be helped to the stand. Although he insisted on watching the rest of the game, he was later forced to consult a physician. The doctor said a bone in Withington's leg had been dislocated but had slipped back into place again.

utes, no more and no less. He is particular about the time. He prefers a small egg cup that holds one egg, the shell of which is not removed. The Englishman then removes the top of the shell. Bread and butter, instead of the toast of the American, is eaten with the Englishman's eggs.

The Frenchman removes the top of his egg, too, but then he eats the contents vigorously and adds bits of bread and butter to the egg. Sometimes squares of bread are dipped into the egg.

PIANO TRUST CAN'T DOWN THE Roxbury Storage Salesrooms

The Fight Grows Harder and More Bitter A GREAT CHANCE FOR THE PUBLIC TO BUY AT CUT PRICES

A piano sale here is always a sacrifice, always a bargain sale, always a mark-down sale. The very nature of the business here is one of sacrifice. The business here is not conducted like the business of a regular piano store where they are expected to make a profit on each piano. We don't let any piano float around our floors; a sacrifice tag is clipped on, which on the face of it reads for the price marked on the tag. Price doesn't mean anything to us; we cut and double cut prices on all makes alike; we ask no favors. We want more, and we give none. In sales like these someone's loss is your gain, the profit is all yours. The finest instruments of the world's best makers are in the sacrifice list.

THE CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL

Whatever considerations may prompt the municipal council to choose or reject any site for the contagious hospital, it is very evident that if the protests of the people who live near any prospective site are listened to and heeded we can never have a contagious hospital for no site could be found, within the city limits at least, which would not arouse strong opposition from the residents of the vicinity. It follows, therefore, that if we are to have such an institution eventually the city council must disregard opposition of this nature.

This does not mean that protests from the section favored by the municipal authorities or the state board of health should be entirely ignored, but that they be disregarded if after investigation they are found baseless. It is to be expected that there will be a great deal of opposition of a merely sentimental nature, but here sentiment should be met by matter of fact reasoning. It may hurt the feelings of a few people to erect a hospital required by law as well as by civic necessity, but the good to be derived by the city as a whole far more than offsets the comparatively slight annoyance to the few. If it is certain that the hospital will not affect the health or interests of the citizens in its immediate vicinity—and this can be definitely ascertained—no sectional opposition should be permitted to prevent its erection.

Undoubtedly the choice of the state board of health, which must be credited with all fairness and disinterestedness in reaching a decision, will be of paramount importance in aiding the municipal council to reach a just decision. We have a great deal of room in Pawtucketville and in our other suburbs, the choice of which cannot be reasonably objected to, and if it is shown that the location of the proposed institution in one or other of these sections will constitute no menace to health, the hospital should be erected regardless of the mistaken objection of the few which is as baseless as it is inevitable.

WARNED TO REMAIN APART

A humorous court incident but one that has its lesson, is told in the Boston papers of Tuesday. In the Malden district court a few weeks ago, several members of an Everett gang which had given considerable trouble were brought before Judge Bruce, who, after considering the case fully, decreed that they be given their liberty on one condition: they were not to eat, sleep, or walk together in future. Two members disregarded the warning of the judge and after being seen together on Sunday last were again arrested and brought before the court.

Despite the edict of the judge these young men declared that they would again elude together when released, and in all probability they will. The sentence of the Malden court is not a very effective method of dealing with hoodlums, but it is very useful in calling to our attention that the real evil of the lawlessness of young men grows out of the gang spirit. The members of the Everett gang would stop at no excess when together, but apparently the judge thought that if they could be kept apart, they would reform. The weak point in this method of dealing with juvenile crime is that when it is being enforced after they have become obnoxious to the public, it is too late. If the gang which Judge Bruce strove to break up were broken up a few years ago, its members would not now find themselves in court. Police officers in Everett and Lowell and elsewhere should watch critically any group of boys that shows signs of early hoodlums and strive to break up such a group before it develops into a real menace to the community.

LICKING POSTAGE STAMPS

Since the order of the postmaster-general went into effect permitting postoffice clerks to affix stamps to packages during the heavy Christmas rush, the matter has been referred to almost constantly in the press, and while some are inclined to favor the innovation, the greater number seem to waste a great deal of sympathy on the apparently abused individual who, it is alleged, will be compelled to lick stamps daily until his system becomes saturated with fish glue. Those who so readily take the part of the postoffice clerk forget that the "licking" of stamps has long ago been abandoned by all except a few thoughtless people.

Probably the working out of the new system during the holiday rush will have a permanent effect, for if it is seen that the innovation saves time and counts for general efficiency, it may be permanently adopted. Stamps frequently fall off letters during transmission, or are put on in such a way as to cause considerable trouble, and though the affixing of them by the postoffice clerks will mean additional work in the first instance it may mean a saving of labor ultimately. There will be no more licking of stamps in any up-to-date postoffice, according to the order of Mr. Burleson.

PROMISED TO OBEY

One incident of the White House wedding which has aroused considerable comment was the insertion of a clause in the marriage service at the request of the bride by which she promised to obey her husband. The promise of itself is not by any means unusual in marriage services, but of late more ladies have attracted attention by rebelling against it than have requested its insertion in a service which does not usually include it. This would seem to indicate that the gifted daughter of the president belongs to the old fashioned group which believes that no good can come from empty assertions of wifely independence. She has of course seen from the life of her distinguished father that in all walks of life and in all functions of government, nothing can be accomplished except by obedience to authority, and she is sensible enough to perceive that what is true of the college, the state and the nation is true of the home. Even the woman who refuses to say "obey" when getting married will admit that there cannot be two heads to a home or any establishment, but she and her husband may differ materially as to which is the head. Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre has admitted to the world that the head of her home is her husband. The fact may be consoling to a few men whose wives refused to say "obey" and acted accordingly.

GOVERNOR GLYNN'S TASK

There is a great deal of skepticism among the friends as well as the foes of Governor Glynn concerning his attempt to put the political management of the state of New York on a safe business basis, but it must occur to an unbiased observer that if he fails it will be because the people there refuse to support him. The new chief executive has started out to stop misgovernment, and his past activity and enviable record would justify the assumption that before he steps out of the chair at Albany he will have aroused the public conscience to the evils of the gross political abuses which are rampant in the state of New York. It is not surprising to one familiar with the past of Mr. Glynn that he is striving to introduce business methods into government, for his life has been a business success first and a political success afterwards. May the same be true of his term as governor of New York.

FOREST NOTES

Eastern manufacturers are looking to the northwest for hardwoods for the manufacture of clothespins. Birch is particularly wanted.

The Panama canal commission has requested the forest service to inspect the timber being cropped at Seattle and Tacoma for the commission.

The net receipts from the national forests of Washington and Oregon during the past four months amounted to $115,920, an increase of 17 per cent. over receipts for the same period last year.

Of the two million trees to be planted on the national forests of Montana and northern Idaho during the present fiscal year, one-half have been set out this fall and the rest will be put in next spring.

A thoroughly up-to-date sawmill with a capacity of 60,000 board feet a day has been erected on the south coast of Mindanao Island. It is of American make throughout and uses the modern band saw. This is only one of several such mills in the Philippines.

PEDDLER KILLED

EVERETT, Nov. 25.—An automobile driven by Robert D. Hadden of Chelsea struck and killed George Asimacopoulos, who was pushing his banana cart home last night on the Everett beach. Hadden said he did not see the man. He was arrested for manslaughter and released on $1000 bonds.

has shot all kinds of ducks, from the purple head to the wooden head and a shot at the last named species won him great fame at Nantuxet pond a few days ago. Mr. Landry was enjoying a day at the pond and looking out toward the upper end of that pretty little sheet of water he was heard to exclaim that he wished he had a gun. Thomas Hoban was one of the party and he told Dennis that there was a gun in his automobile. It didn't take Dennis long to connect with the gun and very quickly did he level it on the "ducks" at the upper end of the pond. Dennis let go both barrels and one of the ducks toppled over. Dennis set out by boat to get the duck but discovered before he got there that he had been shooting at a decoy duck that one of the campers had set out the day before. The joke was on "Ding," of course, but he filled the wooden decoy full of lead and that was some shooting.

THE SYSTEM
When fellows come around and start to criticize you, And finding fault concernin' you and all things you do. When they suggest improvements and point out where you're lame, And try to give you pointers on your own particular game.

Don't stop to argue with them for your cue is to stand pat. Jes' do the best that you kin and let it go at that.

When fellows tell you that you ought to spend a lot of dough, And bust into society and meet folks you should know, When they come around and tell you that you're way behind the game, And that the life you're leading is too commonplace and tame.

When they inform you you're a chump to work at your wage, That you're not where you should be for a man who's reached your age; When they try to swell your head so you can't wear your hat, Just keep your nut and peg away and let it go at that.

When folks come around an tell yer that you're too big for your town, That you should strike out for a place where you can win renown; When they try to swell your head so you can't wear your hat, Just keep your nut and peg away and let it go at that.

CRUEL WORDS
Lewiston Sun: Looks like that man Roosevelt is giving Lincoln a black eye in South America. Roosevelt is the man who seized Panama and gloried in it; and now he is telling them down there that he and his new party are applying the principles of Lincoln. The Roosevelt-Lincolnian smells about as sweet as the Carranza constitutionalism.

ON INTERVENTION
Worcester Post: Out of 29 governors replying to a New York paper on the subject, just one, in Texas, wants armed intervention in Mexico. Two, the Idaho and West Virginia executives, think it will come. The rest of the less than half that will say anything, either declare themselves utterly opposed to intervention, or announce their intention to support any action President Wilson may take.

BOSTON STREETS
Portland Express: Boston streets are narrow, laid out regardless of any civic scheme and the pedestrian there finds life one continual fustle. Yet, after all is not much of the charm of the hub due to its very quaintness of design, to the hundred and one apparently foolish little alleys by which the initiated can save miles of distance in a day's journey? Boston laid out in a systematic sequence of squares wouldn't be Boston at all.

THE OPEN SEASON
Lynn Telegram: Whether the fact that 1500 deer were killed during the six days open season in this state, which closed at dark Saturday night, shows the fact that only four accidents to hunters were reported, is more commendable is a question. The law which prohibited shooting with rifles or revolvers undoubtedly had its effect on the number of accidents, but it evidently did not decrease the number of deer which were killed. According to the estimates of the fish and game commissioners, the number of deer killed this year will exceed the record of last year by several hundred, but the number of accidents to the hunters was very small.

A CONUNDRUM
Salem News: Why automobiles should be limited to a speed of 20 or 25 miles on some of the state highways, while motorcycles are suffered to tear along the very same highways at the rate of 40, 50 and even 60 miles an hour, is a conundrum for a lot of people who do not buy gasoline or run a car.

RIGID SHOULDERS INDICATE AGE
"If you want to look young, do not let your shoulders get stiff," says a woman who likes to look youthful and knows how to do it. "Flexibility of expression and pose is the hall mark of youth."

"Many women in their desire for an erect carriage think they have achieved it by holding up their shoulders and holding them hoisted with relentless persistence. Why have a stiff dignity of pose when one can have a graceful dignity?"

"To keep your shoulders young, try to keep your mind young by not letting it worry needlessly, or think over-intensely."

"The mind affects the shoulders and they affect the mind. If you cannot stop thinking too seriously, or worry about your shoulders, or arm about a bit, let your shoulders fall into place easily and you will see that at once your mind is rested."

"Don't worry about your household cares while you are attending to them as most women do, accomplishing them with knit brow and stiff shoulders. Decide what you have to do and then just do it with easy mind and easy pose."

"Thus you keep your face from acquiring set expressions that soon age it by robbing it of its life and giving it a lot of unnecessary wrinkles. You also keep your shoulders from that inclidity that is a foe to youthful looks."

"Don't when you can go out shopping walk along with your mind stoically, or feverishly, set upon your errands. You can't do this without stiffening your shoulders."

"Stiffly held erect shoulders are bad enough in giving a woman the stamp of age's rigidity, but stiffly held bent shoulders are a crime against health as well as heavy in cramping the lungs. Stoopiness is a habit that requires great will power to overcome."

"There is a dangerous tendency toward stooping shoulders in the present vogue for droop of pose brought about by the flap, picturesque clothes that are now the fashion."

"Let your shoulders fall into natural easy lines and at once your arms thrill with life and do graceful things that enhance your beauty and preserve your youth. Stiff shoulders stiffen the whole figure. Years fall from rigid shoulders corrected of the fault."

Rear-Admiral Fletcher and Rear-Admiral Boush are now on the scene off Tuxpan and Tampico, where the situation is so critical that marines may be landed at any time to protect the interests of Americans and other foreigners. While the rebels are holding Tuxpan and threatening Tampico the other branch of the Constitutional army is advancing on Chihuahua in the north of Mexico, and a big battle is looked for at any moment.

PURE FOOD CHIEF

Dr. Wiley Said to Be Considering Offer to Become Health Commissioner of New York City

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Friends of Dr. Harvey Wiley, former federal pure food chief, admitted today that the doctor was considering an offer to become health commissioner of New York City. Dr. Wiley was away on his Virginia farm out of reach of telephone and telegraph, and expected to return to the city tonight. None of the doctor's friends knew whether he would take the place, but said he had conferred once with Mayor-elect John Purroy Mitchel and had been in correspondence with others in New York about the offer.

$10,000 LOSS

Fire Wrecks Building That Fell During its Construction

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—A loss of upwards of $100,000 was caused early today by fire which completely burned out four upper floors of the Livingston building at West Broadway and Third street. When this building was in course of construction in 1906 a wall of it fell into the street, killing 20 persons. Since that time the building has been visited by numerous fires, the origin of which have sometimes been unexplainable as was the case today.

The blaze was spectacular and so threatening that all of the occupants of the apartment house adjoining were ordered from their beds to the street.

SKELETON FOUND

Believed That it May be Body of Prof. Nichols of Simmons College

CONCORD, Nov. 23.—The finding of a man's body almost reduced to a skeleton in the woods near the site of Thoreau's famous habitation at Walden pond led to an investigation today of the possibility that it might be the body of Prof. A. B. Nichols of Simmons college. Professor Nichols, who headed the German department at the Boston institution, disappeared last September. The clothing on the body appeared to tally with a description of that worn by the professor when he was last seen. A revolver was clutched in one hand of the body and there was a bullet hole in the left temple. In a pocket was a gold watch. The body was discovered yesterday by two hunters.

FOUND DEAD IN ROOM

Thomas Curley Victim of Gas Poisoning on Hurd Street—Body Removed to Sister's Home

Thomas Curley, aged 55 years, was found dead in his room, 18 Hurd street, Wednesday evening, death being due to accidental gas poisoning. The body was removed to the rooms of Undertaker Saunders. Curley was employed by the municipal moth department and resided at 18 Hurd street. Wednesday evening he retired to his room shortly after 7 o'clock and at 10 o'clock he was found dead in chair. It is believed that the gas radiator in his room was extinguished by the wind, while Curley was asleep in his chair. Dr. Fred Murphy was called in haste, but when he arrived he pronounced the man dead. Deceased is survived by a sister, Rose, three daughters, May, A. Mrs. Patrick Burns, Mrs. L. E. Davis, and Thomas. The body was later removed to the home of his sister, 29 Ash street.

TO ADOPT 15

Wife of Wealthy Chicago Man Has Original and Unique Plan

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop, wife of a wealthy business man, made known yesterday that she plans to become the mother, by adoption, of 15 children, each to represent one of the 15 most characteristic racial types.

Her plans became known when her representatives visited local orphan asylums in search of the nucleus of her future family. Mrs. Bishop later said that friends now touring Europe had been asked to find babies representing such races as she could not recruit in Chicago.

The unique family, according to Mrs. Bishop, will include a negro baby, an Indian, an Arab, a Japanese, a Malay, a German, a Chinese, a Scandinavian, an American, an Irish and babies representing several of the South American countries.

SCHOOL FOR SERVANTS

One hundred Washington women, banded together as the Housekeepers' Alliance, have undertaken to solve the servant question. To achieve this end, the alliance will establish in Washington a school for servants, where negro girls will be taught everything from the composition of a muffin to the manipulation of a vacuum cleaner. Already money has been raised with which to begin operations, and a New Yorker whom the enterprise interests has offered to give the alliance substantial aid in conducting the institution once it is opened.

The teachers will be graduates to domestic science from Pratt Institute and Columbia university. They will have the cooperation of several experts in the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture and of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, whose wife was last year president of the Housekeepers' Alliance, and is now interested in the promoting of the school for servants. A number of women employed in the government departments at Washington and without homes of their own will be invited to board at the school at reasonable terms. They will be a source of revenue to the school, but it is not for revenue only that they will be sought by the alliance as residents. They are needed to form the family and to create the home atmosphere, both necessary factors in any course of really practical training for servants. For them the negro students will be taught to cook, sweep, dust, wash and iron, all in the most scientific and hygienic way.

And the apartment houses near which the alliance will make a point of establishing its school? Why, their occupants will always be within easy reach of delectable home made pies, cakes, bread and rolls. If Mrs. Newcomb's cook fails to show up on the second morning, as cooks will, she can give her husband the sort of things that that mother used to make by not ordering from the school for servants.

Another source of revenue, you see.

Courses of work for the servants are now being mapped out by a committee. The negro women will be taught first of all the rules of personal hygiene and cleanliness. Promptness and a sense of responsibility are other virtues upon which the school will lay particular stress. Cooking, laundry work and housework will be taught according to the most advanced methods known to domestic science.

The school is designed primarily for negro servants. This is because Mrs. Alice B. Whitaker, president of the alliance, and other members believe that the logical solution of the housewife's problem is efficient colored help in any locality in which the negro is so generally employed for domestic service as in Washington. There will, however, be outside classes conducted at the school for white girls and women who wish to learn cooking and home management. Mrs. Whitaker believes that these classes will be patronized by the most representative women of Washington, as they are at a similar training school conducted primarily for negroes in Boston.

The negro pupils will receive their room, board and instruction absolutely free of charge. Further than this, members of the alliance will see to it that the workers do not lack for clothes while in training. Then employment will be secured for the graduates of the school.

The work accomplished at the capital by the Housekeepers Alliance shows what a body of women, working with earnest and concerted purpose, may accomplish for a community. This organization has cleaned up the markets of Washington. After a campaign of many months it has succeeded in convincing the bakers of the city that the average housewife prefers to buy wrapped bread instead of loaves that have been exposed to the dust and dirt of the street.

Members of the alliance have benefited greatly by the maintenance exclusively for their own use of the "Reference Circle." This is a bureau or exchange conducted by a secretary paid by the alliance. Its object is to collect and place on file authentic references and records of servants. No woman in the organization ever employs a servant without consulting the secretary of the reference circle. In this way she is to a large extent protected against the inefficient and dishonest servant.

CONVICT SICK, GIVES NAME
BOSTON, Nov. 28.—An acute attack of appendicitis, suffered by an inmate of the Charlestown state prison, which necessitated yesterday the first surgical operation at the institution for years, has been the means of revealing to a prominent family that their son is a convict.

The man's names, real and assumed, are being carefully guarded by Warden Bridges, as is his custom. Beyond the statement that he has served 15 months and is 45 years old, the warden withheld all information.

LIVE WIRE STRUCK OFFICER 500 KILLED IN BATTLE

Officer Leighton Had Narrow Escape Break of Trolley Wire — Cars Held Up — Federal and Rebels Lost Many at Tierra Blanc — Son Shot Down Before Mother's Eyes

Officer Jack Leighton, who patrols Merrimack square during the day, narrowly escaped death shortly after 12:30 o'clock today when a live trolley wire fell on him at the corner of Merrimack and Central streets.

The trolley wire parted as the officer was crossing Central street at the junction of Merrimack. One of the passersby shouted to Officer Leighton, but before the latter could reach the sidewalk the wire struck him on the cap and from there fell onto his shoulder. The wire was twisting and blazing as it fell and dropped from his shoulder to the street.

Those who witnessed it expected to see the officer drop to the ground, but instead he simply shook himself and then walked into the middle of the street where he stood guard over the dangerous wire until the linemen of the company arrived.

Officer Leighton related to a Sun reporter that he felt no shock except that which the unexpected weight of the wire conveyed. Although the wire was not insulated and he was standing upon the trolley track, the electric current did not penetrate his cap nor coat. Fortunately they did not prove good conductors of electricity.

Without a doubt the current would have proved fatal if the wire had come in contact with the patrolman's face or hands. Officer Leighton received hearty congratulations on his fortunate escape.

The car traffic was held up for some time as the result of the break in the wire, although the linemen worked at high speed to splice the ends. A long line of cars was gathered on Central and Prescott streets before the repairs were completed.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28.—Five hundred federal and rebels, it is stated, were killed in the battle of Tierra Blanca this week and buried on the battlefield. In one place the wind had blown away the thin layer of sand which had been thrown over the bodies. Americans visiting the field Thanksgiving day found two wounded soldiers whom they sent to hospital.

At Samalayuca, a few miles south of the battlefield, the body of a rebel soldier who had been taken prisoner by the federals during the battle, was found hanging by a rope to a tree. The body was taken down and buried.

Federals have torn up the railway track and telegraph line in many places south of Samalayuca in order to prevent General Villa's troops from using by train. A work train has been sent south to repair the line so that Villa's troops can proceed to Chihuahua. A string of cars attached to a federal train was burned by the federales below Samalayuca. A herd of 200 cavalry horses which had been abandoned by the federals in the retreat after the Tierra Blanca battle, was found by rebel scouts several miles below the battlefield.

STRIKERS PAID REGIONAL BANKS

At Schenectady Today Location by New Currency Bill Taken up by Conference Today

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 28.—William C. Rogers and James McManus of the board of mediation and arbitration of the state labor department arrived here today in an effort to settle the strike of the 14,000 employees of the General Electric Co. State Labor Commissioner Lyman, who has been asked by Governor Glynn to endeavor to bring about a settlement, was ready to come to this city should his presence be deemed necessary.

A conference between company officials, the strike committee and George R. Lunn, the socialist mayor of the city, was to take place today.

The threatened sympathetic strike of employees of the Schenectady R. I. Co. did not materialize today. Today was pay day at the General Electric plant and the strikers planned to march in a body to the offices and receive their wages for last week.

BIG ROILER EXPLODED

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—The explosion of a 200-horsepower boiler early yesterday wrecked the plant of the Dirigo Catering company at 95 Park street. Beverly, and injured Daniel Duca, 55 years old, of 31 Westminster street, Boston, a negro baker, who was at work in the building at the time. Duca is at the Beverly hospital suffering from shock and bruises, but is not seriously hurt.

NEW GERMAN EMBASSY

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The imperial parliament discussed the early criticized action of Emperor William in ordering the court architect to draft the plans of the new German embassy building at Washington instead of permitting Prof. Bruno Moehringer to do so as the winner of the competition opened by the foreign office for the purpose of selecting the best design.

The subject was brought up by Dr. Moritz Johannes Junck, a national liberal, who asked the government whether it was true that an architect who had not participated in the foreign office's competition had been commissioned to draft the plans.

Gottlieb Von Bagow, the foreign minister, replied that the order had not yet been given for the construction of the embassy building as the plans must first be approved by the Prussian academy of architecture.

SCHENECTADY STRIKE

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 28.—For three hours today Mayor Lunn, two officials of the General Electric Co. and seven representatives of the strikers were in conference in an effort to bring about peace. They adjourned shortly before 2 o'clock to meet again an hour later. No statement was made by any of the conferees except that the indications for an amicable settlement were hopeful.

ALBANY, Nov. 28.—Charging that "certain moneys passed from George McGuire to John A. Hennessy and William Suter, some of which, if not the entire amount thereof, was furnished by the Warner-Quinlan Asphalt company," the Warner-Quinlan Asphalt company through its attorney, Henry A. Rubino, declares: "We are prepared to substantiate these charges by proof in any proceedings Gov. Glynn should institute to verify them."

This was the most startling statement made by Rubino in charges filed with Gov. Glynn upon which the Warner-Quinlan Asphalt company hopes to have John N. Carlisle removed from the office of state commissioner of highways.

These Rubino charges have been known to Gov. Glynn for some time and prompted his appointment of the W. Osborne as a special commissioner under the Mowland law to investigate graft on good roads and barge canal work.

Gov. Glynn would not make public the Rubino charges until they were formally presented to him over the signature of C. M. Warner, the president, and P. R. Quinlan, the vice president of the Warner-Quinlan Asphalt company. Commissioner Carlisle had an opportunity to examine and answer them.

Meanwhile Gov. Glynn had consulted frequently with Mr. Osborne and his assistant, Arthur T. Warner, and with Mr. Rubino, the attorney for the Warner-Quinlan company, and Commissioner Osborne is ready to begin the taking of testimony this afternoon. Mr. Rubino says he will be ready with his proof at that time.

Commissioner Carlisle retorts that the Warner-Quinlan Asphalt company's interest "is a selfish, personal interest with the idea of selling their product to the state and their entire charges should be scrutinized from this viewpoint."
